"Why and Wherefore set out one day
To hunt for a wild Negation,
They agreed to meet at a cool retreat
On the point of Interrogation."
Let us get to the point.

* * * *

If Gen. "Smelly" Butler—as Jim Reed would say—had only looked over his right shoulder now probably he'd have pronounced Col. Williams under the influence of hexyl-resorcinal, but could the Colonel have pronounced it?

* * * *

One gathers from the friendly medical testimony that Col. Williams was pickled—"over the left."

* * * *

At a late hour yesterday no World Court Senatorial candidate had wired for Senator Borah to come out and make a few speeches.

* * * *

* * * *

Coveleskie puts us one step nearer the flag. We may not have the pennant yet but we have the Pole.

* * * *

"Why Rose-Marie, I'll box your jaws,
For breaking all these licker laws!
For bringing of your jag to school
You'll spend the day up on that stool.
And Sam and Bill, you think I'm tickled,
To see two kids roll in here pickled!
Oh Jim! Just see the state you're in!
What's in that bottle? What? Real gin!
I'll have to punish you, I guess—
I'll keep you in at the recess!"

* * * *

Gen. Andrews—the Mrs. Partington of prohibition enforcement—sees one wet way out of the saturnalia of lawlessness which has followed in the wake of Volstead, as the abolition of the saloon has turned the home into a distillery and parents have taught their kids to drink strong liquor at their own radiators—

"Here
With my beer
I sit,
While golden moments flit:
Alas
They pass
Unheeded by:
And as they fly,
I,
Being dry,
Sit, idly sipping here
My beer."

* * * *

Senator Jim Reed discloses that there are now in the country 1,720,001 persons who know how to distill their own licker.

* * * *

Representative O Pshaw, of Georgia, who strenuously advocates enforcing the Constitution—except the Fifteenth amendment — urges a favorable report on his bill for a Federal censorship of the movies. With the drys in control of all sources of publicity their job can be brought measurably nearer completion.

* * * *

The Antisaloon league will make no reply to Gen. Andrews' statement that prohibition enforcement would be helped if the people could have properly regulated beer, until it can think up one.

* * * *

* * * *

Irving Berlin's statement that popular fancy is turning from jazz to the old-fashioned moonlight and malaria type of ballad may mean nothing more than that he is still in a sentimental honeymoon mood.

* * * *

"I am through with Americans," exclaims Bergdoll to the cheering crowds which acclaim the hero's acquittal. We discovered that in 1917.

* * * *

The Senate will decide Wednesday whether it would rather have no Italian wine than half a bottle of Chianti.

* * * *

Mussolini discloses to the gaping tribesmen of Libya that Benito Augustus is a human being with a speed mania that isn't confined to empire-building.

* * * *

Still, Senator Borah will probably admit that if those Boston "wets" hadn't thrown that tea overboard the American people would still be paying King George his tax.

* * * *

According to Mr. Borah's arguments, the way in which the South succeeded in depriving the negro of his political rights under the Constitution was by tamely submitting to the Fifteenth amendment.

* * * *

Traffic arrests, per month, under Eldridge, jump from 2,447 to 6,977. The criminal class!

When "Buddy" Myer carried his horseshoe to "the initial sack" yesterday it was the first time we ever knew a blind ump to give a ball game to Washington.

COL. WILLIAMS ILL NIGHT OF ARREST, DOCTOR TESTIFIES

COURT-MARTIAL TOLD OF BUTLER'S TEETH

Commander White Declares General Saw Poorly and Was Nervous.

Marine Base, San Diego, Calif., April 14 (By A. P.).—Toothache and hexyl-resorcinol were haled before a military tribunal here today and branded as the causes of Brig. Gen. Smedly D. Butler's accusation of drunkenness against Col. Alexander S. Williams.

The toothache was Gen. Butler's, already familiar to the court-martial trying Col. Williams on a charge of being intoxicated at the Hotel Del Coronado a few hours after he had given a dinner in Gen. Butler's honor.

The hexyl-resorcinol was Col. Williams'. It was the medicine his physician prescribed for him since last January, and five witnesses were called by the colonel's counsel to convince the court that instead of being drunk on the night of March 6, Col. Williams was merely upset by the hexyl-resorcinol he had been taking in accordance with his doctor's orders.

Reaction of Compound.

They agreed that the chemical compound frequently caused distress to the patient by inducing stomach sickness, dizziness, nausea, and other discomforts likely to spoil any party, either a dinner at one's home or a dancing party at the Hotel Coronado.

Before the hexyl-resorcinol testimony began, the defense called Commander E. C. White, naval surgeon, and he gave testimony corroborating that of the two dental experts, who yesterday declared dental lesions could induce visions and that Gen. Butler had been having plenty of trouble with dental lesions.

Commander White said the general had gone to the naval hospital March 15 last, for examination and treatment. He said he found him suffering from low blood pressure and nervous exhaustion, and that he was "nervous, easily excited, and poor of vision in his left eye."

Williams Not Called.

The general's condition, he added, probably was due to his strenuous years as Philadelphia's director of public safety, and to "the absorption of toxins from diseased teeth."

The defense rested its case without having called the defendant to the stand.

Rebuttal testimony will be introduced tomorrow by the prosecution and arguments will be heard.

2 Men Under Death Sentence Flee Jail

Miami, Fla., April 14 (By A. P.).—Six negroes including Julian Lawrence and Willie Green, under death sentences in connection with the killing of three white men and a negro in robberies, escaped from the Dade county jail here early today.

Lawrence and Green managed to unlock the death cell door, tore loose an iron bar to the window, lowered themselves to the jail yard by blankets and climbed over a high fence, topped with barbed wire. Asleep in the death cell they had vacated was Arthur Williams, a negro, who was convicted with them.

Year Given for Theft Of $400,000 Checks

Pittsburgh, April 14 (By A. P.). Pleading guilty to the theft of 3,500 Westinghouse Airbrake Co. dividend checks from the mails, George E. Spotz, of Johnstown, Pa., today was sentenced by Federal Judge R. M. Gibson to serve a year and a day in the Atlanta penitentiary. The checks called for payment of more than $400,000 to stockholders.

Spotz obtained the checks when he presented a forged letter to postoffice officials. The letter, bearing a forgery of the name of the company's treasurer, said an error had been made, and asked that the checks be returned. A year later Spotz was arrested when he attempted to pass one of the checks.

LONE ROBBER KIDNAPS POSTOFFICE CHAUFFEUR

$37,500 IN STOLEN SACK

Chicago, April 14 (By A. P.).—An automobile stalled on a hill near Joliet, Ill., ended a wild flight from Indiana today, following the robbery of a mail truck at the rear of the Indiana Harbor postoffice. The robber escaped after forcing Frank Watson, driver of the truck whom he had kidnaped at the scene of the holdup, to help push the car into a garage. And with him went the contents of the two mail sacks taken from the truck and believed to contain $37,500.

Although witnesses said they saw two men hold up Watson and force him into the automobile, Watson said only one man was involved. He told Joliet police that the bandit offered him $200 if he would keep still and threatened his life when he refused. Watson escaped while his captor was talking to garage men.

Officials of the Federal Reserve Bank which had shipped $37,500 to an Indiana Harbor bank were unable to ascertain whether the money was in one of the stolen sacks. Reports that the $150,000 payroll of the Inland Steel Co. was also a part of the loot were denied.

Cardinal Cerretti May Be Sent to U. S.

'GEN. PERSHING' WINS HOMING PIGEON RACE

Bird Flies 189 Miles to Fort Monmouth, N. J., in 5 Hours 20 Minutes.

"Gen. Pershing," crack homing pigeon of the army, yesterday flew 189 miles from Washington to Fort Monmouth, N. J., in 5 hours and 40 minutes, winning a race in which 11 other army pigeons were entered.

The pigeons were liberated at the War Department building yesterday morning, making individual starts 10 minutes apart. The object of the race was to select birds best fitted for breeding purposes.

The summaries follow: First, Gen. Pershing; second, Mabel K., time, 5 hours 30 minutes; third, Gen. Harbord, time, 5 hours 39 minutes; fourth, Steve Boy, time, 5 hours 42 minutes; fifth, Reliance, time, 6 hours 12 minutes; sixth, Guidon, time, 6 hours 32 minutes; seventh, Arrow of Gold, time 6 hours 34 minutes; eighth, Ruffles.

The other four birds had not finished late last night.

Plane Takes Briton's Toothbrush to Liner

New York, April 14 (By A. P.). When Campbell Hunter, of Southampton, England, oil man, forgot his tooth brush and other toilet articles in his hurry to sail for America his wife dispatched them to him by airplane. The airplane caught the Olympic, on which Hunter was a passenger, at Cherbourg. He arrived here today.

SMITH GROUP LAYS VICTORY TO WORLD COURT OPPOSITION

BROOKHART TAKES VINDICATION IN VOTE

Chicago, April 14 (By A. P.).—Col. Frank L. Smith, making his race for the Republican nomination for the United States Senate won over William B. McKinley, senior Illinois senator, by upward of 125,000 votes, incomplete returns of yesterday's primary indicated tonight.

Col. Smith's supporters attributed his victory to his opposition to United States adherence to the world court, for which McKinley in a statement from Washington, however, said his only "pronounced opposition" came frome Hearst papers and the papers whose editors "are on the State payroll of the Small-Smith combination."

Backers of Col. Smith, in attributing his victory to world court opposition, rather than to any considerable support by the political organization headed by Gov. Len Small, pointed out tonight that Gov. Small's candidate for the Republican nomination for State treasurer, William Stratton, had been defeated by Garrett de Forst Kinney by more than 50,000 votes.

Brennan's Vote Is Triple.

George E. Brennan, campaigning for the Democratic nomination on a "wet" plaform, piled up a vote three times the size of that cast for both his opponents.

With 755 of Illinois' 6,053 precincts missing, Smith had a lead of [illegible]. The vote was: Smith, 555,566; McKinley, 440,982.

Smith W. Brookhart, of Iowa, former United States senator, recently unseated, in a statement here today said he construed Senator McKinley's defeat as in some degree a vindication of Brookhart himself by Illinois voters. He said he thought McKinley's opposition to him in the Senate controversey had influenced the election result.

Rathbone and Yates Lead.

In the congressional races that had been in doubt, Henry R. Rathbone, of Chicago, and Richard Yates, of Springfield, incumbents, were renominated as Republican candidates for congressmen at large, it was indicated by returns from three-fourths of the precincts.

Chicago approved legalized boxing by a vote of more than three to one.

2-Year-Old Boy's Life Saved by Police Dog

Port Jervis, N. Y., April 14.—"Sport," a chunky police dog, owned by John Mason, farmer, today lived up to the kennel prospectus for his kind, when he saved Jackie, Mason's 2-year-old son, from drowning.

Mason felt some fear for the child's safety when first he missed Jackie, but then, he reflected, "Sport" was missing, too, and boy and dog are inseparable companions. Then, looking about the place, he saw "Sport" motionless, on the edge of a ditch. Half way down the ditch hung Jackie, too frightened to cry, and beneath him 6 feet of water. Above him crouched the dog, braced desperately and gripping a fold of Jackie's sweater in his jaws. Mason says "Sport" has carte blanche from now on.

Stamp, Found in Old Papers Brings $8,000

Mrs. Edward Stabler Leadbeater, of 213 South Pitt street, Alexandria, Va., has sold a rare old stamp which she found recently among some old papers to Perry W. Fuller, of 9 East Franklin street, Baltimore, for $8,000. The stamp is the third of its kind known to be in existence, is circular in form and slightly larger than a quarter.

The issue of this stamp is supposed to have been on sale less than a week, which accounts for its scarcity. It was canceled at Alexandria on August 25, 1846.

MOTOR FAILURE CAUSES PLANE FALL; 2 KILLED

MISHAP AT CUMNER, VA.

Motor failure caused the DH plane crash at Cumner, Va., in which First Sergt. Neil W. Abbott, pilot, and Sergt. Clarence E. Mix, master technician, his passenger, both marines, lost their lives yesterday, a report of investigation to marine aviation headquarters here revealed late yesterday.

According to the report, the motor of the plane, flying from Quantico to Hampton roads, failed above Cumner, a point halfway between the two places, and the fliers jumped.

The parachute of Sergt. Mix did not open and he fell 2,000 feet. The parachute of Sergt. Abbott, who followed Mix, was caught in the plane and he fell with it.

Dr. G. C. Vaugh, of Cumner, one of the first to reach the bodies, took charge of them and a plane bearing marine officers left Quantico to investigate the accident. The bodies were shipped to Quantico. Sergt. Abbott's home is in Rochester, N. Y., and Sergt. Mix's in Durand, Mich. Sergt. Abbott's next of kin is given as his mother, Mrs. Ada Guthrie, of Rochester, N. Y., and Sergt. Mix's, his wife, Mrs. Marion Mix, of Quantico.

Both men had been in service in the marine corps for nine years.

Boston, April 14 (By A. P.).—Guy Willis Holmes, of New Bedford, expelled Monday from the ministry of the Methodist Episcopal Church, has been indicted here on charges concerning his alleged relations with a waitress. The former pastor was indicted yesterday on three counts after Antionette Fortin, New Bedford waitress, had testified before the grand jury.

East Greenwich, R. I., April 14 (By A. P.).—Guy Willis Holmes, who is ill at the home of his mother-in-law here, said today that he welcomed his indictment in Boston because it would "bring out all the truth and result in complete exoneration."

Girl Retains His Ring; He Keeps Her Teeth

St. Paul, Minn., April 14 (By A. P.).—When Miss Rose Zwerlscki refused to give up his diamond ring, Bartholomew Nathaniel Xonoydas took her false teeth and kept them, he explained in court today.

Xonoydas was brought into court on a replevin action by Miss Zwerlscki, who sought to recover her teeth. She has not been able to eat much for two weeks, she said. Justice John F. Doyle took the case under advisement.

Hammond Reveals Secret of Youth

New York, April 14 (By A. P.).—By doing as he pleases, temperamentally and gastronomically, John Hays Hammond, veteran mining engineer, who will be 71 years old next month, preserves his youth, he said today when he arrived on the Olympic.

"I eat what I want, sleep when I want, drink when I want; in fact, I do everything I want," he said. "I also worry." He has been passing the winter in Egypt.

HAMMER CHARGES FENNING MISUSED HIS WARDS' FUNDS

House District Group Waits Till Tomorrow for Rules Body.

RANKIN WILL INSIST UPON INVESTIGATION

Blanton Says Sanitarium at Laurel, Md., Should Be Looked Into.

Developments in the case of Commissioner Frederick A. Fenning multiplied at the Capitol yesterday as the climax neared.

The House District committee deferred action until tomorrow on reports that the House rules committee is showing a disposition to provide for an adequate investigation. If the rules committee does not move, the committee plans an inquiry.

There are indications that the Department of Justice has taken cognizance of the charges against the commissioner, and there is a movement afoot to involve Maj. Peyton Gordon's pending nomination with the charges.

Charges "Smoke-Screen."

Representative Rankin (Democrat), of Mississippi, charged that an effort is being made to rush through legislation in connection with the veterans' guardianship practice as a "smoke-screen" around Commissioner Fenning's practice. He served notice that any effort to restrict the inquiry getting underway today by the House veterans' committee will be fought by him and his Democratic colleagues.

Representative Hammer, of North Carolina, before the District committee, added to the list of charges against the commissioner, asserting that he has mishandled the funds of his wards in real estate transactions.

The commissioner loaned the money of his wards, Mr. Hammer charged, and in addition to the legal rate of interest, charged a commission for making the loan. The commission, he charged, was pocketed by Mr. Fenning.

Representative Blanton, of Texas, charged that the commissioner has an interest in a sanitarium at Laurel, Md., operated by a former physician of St. Elizabeths, "which should be looked into."

Blanton Fears "Whitewash."

Representative McLeod, of Michigan, sought to have the District committee act yesterday, but Mr. Blanton, asserting that such an inquiry now could only result in a "whitewash," threatened to move immediately for Mr. Fenning's impeachment if the committee sought to move.

Local Republican leaders, Mr. Blanton declared, knew that the District committee would be handicapped in an inquiry and for that reason want the committee to proceed.

"Samuel Prescott, known as 'Boss' Prescott, rules the District with an iron hand so far as politics are concerned," Mr. Blanton

1,000 Aces Pinochle Hand Proves Fatal

Special to The Washington Post.

Chicago, April 14.—The shock of picking up "A thousand aces," a hand he never had encountered in a lifetime of pinochle playing, is believed to have been too much for the weak heart of Herman Schlee, 68, last night. Schlee picked up his cards, smiled at his friends with whom he was playing, in the home of Charles Goerlick, then dropped dead.

The hand that had been dealt Schlee consisted of eight aces.

Premier Intervenes In British Coal Clash

London, April 14 (By A. P.).—Premier Baldwin intervened in the British coal fields wage dispute today. He met the representatives of the owners and the miners at Westminster, but without breaking the existing deadlock, and tonight there are gloomy predictions as to what may happen May, unless the government's efforts at mediation are successful.

The prime minister will have another conference with the owners and miners tomorrow in an effort to settle the differences over a proposed wage reduction.

Buckner Puts Padlocks On 42 Cafes and Clubs

New York, April 14 (By A. P.). — A padlock offensive against 42 night clubs, restaurants, inns and roadhouses, stretching from lower Manhattan to Catskill and Monticello, was launched tonight by United States Attorney Emory R. Buckner.

Two squads of his assistants with prohibition and narcotic agents started out on a series of flying visits to clamp on the padlocks immediately after informations against them had been filed. Mr. Buckner made a previous record of 41 padlocks last Christmas.

Among the New York city places were included night clubs in the theatrical district and Greenwich Village places, one declared an "exclusive apartment club," one catering to downtown business men, another in the financial district and a loft club" said to have been known only to a limited clientele.

MAID RESCUES BOY, ILL, WHEN APARTMENT BURNS

DAMAGE DONE IS $2,000

Fire, which started yesterday afternoon in the dumbwaiter shaft of an apartment house at 1724 Twenty-first street northwest, and spread to the adjoining residence, owned by William Eugene Elliott, did damage of approximately $2,000 and drove three sick persons into the street.

Eunice Stokes, a colored maid employed by Mrs. Clare Jolly, who resided in the first floor apartment, discovered the fire. Seeing dense clouds of smoke issuing from the shaft, she carried Harvey Jolly, 6 years old, who was ill, to the home of a friend of the family across the street and then sent a neighbor to sound the fire alarm.

The second-floor apartment was occupied by George Hellen, of The Washington Post. The third-floor apartment was occupied by William A. Bowman. Although slightly damaged by the fire, the apartments were damaged by smoke and water.

The fire ate its way up the shaft to the roof and then spread to the Elliott residence, where it damaged the roof and third floor to about $1,000. Mrs. Elliott and her daughter, Lucille, 13 years old, who are recovering from an illness, were forced to move to the home of a neighbor. Another daughter, Miss Maxine Elliott, secretary to Rufus S. Lusk, of the Operative Builders association, arrived home in time to save her pet canary from asphyxiation.

WHITE HOUSE PICKET BY 6 PASSAIC GIRLS

Passaic, N. J., April 14 (By A. P.).—Announcement was made at strike headquarters tonight that six girls, ranging from 4 to 12 years in age, would leave for Washington at midnight to picket the White House for settlement of the Passaic strike. The children will be accompanied by their mothers and will carry strike banners.

Norman Thomas, former Socialist candidate for governor of New York, was arrested today while addressing 200 textile strikers at Garfield, an adjoining town, as a test of the validity of the riot act, read Monday by the sheriff. The American Civil Liberties union said it would fight the case on the ground that the strikers' meeting was orderly and on private property.

Alleged Spies in Nice Found to Be French

Paris, April 14 (By A. P.).—Two men arrested at Nice on a warrant charging them with espionage along the Riviera coast, have been identified as Frenchmen, instead of Italians, as had been reported at first. They were brought to Paris today where they were accused formally of sending important secret information to Italy.

Le Matin today said that the men had been arrested after being under observation for some time by the secret service.

ANDREWS ASSERTS BEER WOULD HELP DRY ENFORCEMENT

1,720,000 Stills Held to Be in U. S.; Reed Exhibits One.

UNDERWORLD SAID TO TIP OFF AGENTS

By ALBERT W. FOX.

The climax to the wet and dry hearings before the Senate committee was reached yesterday when Brig. Gen. Lincoln C. Andrews said prohibition enforcement would be helped if the people could have properly regulated beer.

It was a declaration obtained only after a searching series of questions by Senator Reed and Julian Codman, counsel for the modificationists. Furthermore, it was qualified in several respects by the nature of the specific question which Gen. Andrews finally replied to when he gave the opponents of Volsteadism the opinion which he knew they desired. Also it was the personal opinion of Gen. Andrews as a man and not an official opinion given in his role of prohibition director. But it nevertheless came as the outstanding sensation of the hearings.

The point-blank question by Senator Reed was put in this form, after Gen. Andrews had insisted on making the question clear and understandable: Would prohibition enforcement be helped if the people could get beer, distributed by government agencies, under government supervision, for home consumption and served in bona fide hotels?

Still Is Demonstrated.

"In my opinion," replied Gen. Andrews very deliberately and after approving the form of the question, "it would aid law enforcement."

But this was not the only outstanding feature of yesterday's hearing. Others might be summarized as follows:

1. Senator Reed, with a captured still to demonstrate, outlined several easy ways of making liquor in the home by use of tea kettle or wash boiler, a simple contrivance to guide fumes of fermentation and corn sugar or mash to cause the fermenting process. The lure of forbidden fruit—it being technically against the law to communicate or advertise liquor-manufacturing processes—added zest to all of Senator Reed's detailed explanation.

2. Stills to the estimated number of 1,720,000, operating in the country, and indicated impossibility of coping with their suppression, figured in the testimony leading up to the demonstration of how simple and easy it is to make liquor in any place where a copper can and corn sugar or mash can be had.

Held Easy to Make.

3. The ease with which 40 or 80 gallons of liquor can be manufactured in any home and thereby put the operator in a position where he can have $500 worth of illicit goods—at prevailing prices—at an expenditure of a few dollars and an initial expenditure of about $15, was stressed.

4. It was disclosed that prohibition officers are now doing business daily with criminals and underworld characters and making contracts with them at times to help provide the government with information, and that this is part of the present policy of Gen. Andrews.

5. The statement last week by Emory R. Buckner, of New York, that 60,000,000 gallons of industrial alcohol were being diverted annually into bootleg channels, was dismissed by Gen. Andrews as based on misinformation or ignorance of the facts, and the estimated amount thus diverted was placed at 13,000,000 gallons.

6. Clashes between Senators Reed and Harreld, the two members of the committee present, provided several tense and dramatic moments, and on one occasion caused the audience to lose control and give a demonstration in response to one of Senator's Reed's unusually severe sallies.

While awaiting the arrival of Gen. Andrews, Julian Codman, counsel for the modificationists, read more official statistics bearing on the increase of drunkenness under prohibition, and showing an

TRAFFIC ARRESTS SHOW GAIN UNDER ELDRIDGE REGIME

2,447 Summoned Year Ago, While in March 6,997 Were Recorded.

BETTER ENFORCEMENT, DECLARES DIRECTOR

Public Asked to Send Suggestions for Improvements in Regulations.

In March, 1925, two months before Traffic Director M. O. Eldridge's new code of regulations took effect, there were only 2,447 arrests for traffic violations, as compared with 6,977 last month, after eleven months of operation of the new rules.

This result was reached when Director Eldridge yesterday undertook to compare figures on arrests for the two months, as a first step in trying to make up his mind whether regulations could be rescinded in response to demand from the District commissioners.

Mr. Eldridge said he could find, by the comparison, only three new regulations not existing a year ago under which arrests had been made last month and the total arrests for all three were only 15. The three new offenses were driving with one arm, prohibition of horse-drawn vehicles on Sixteenth street northwest and the solid tire regulation.

Parking Not Mentioned.

The traffic director failed to observe, however, that there are many new regulations modifying police procedure with respect to old offenses, such as parking. There are any number of new parking regulations in the traffic code and comparison of the two months specified show that these resulted in an increase in arrests from 424 in March, 1925, to 2,075 in March, 1926.

Violations of light regulations leaped from 170 a year ago to 2,056 last month. Most of the latter arrests were for parking at night without lights.

"The comparison shows," said Director Eldridge, "that it is not too many regulations that has caused the great number of recent arrests, but better enforcement."

Say Facts Twisted.

"Eldridge has his facts twisted," said a District official. "If there were better enforcement there would not be so many arrests."

Director Eldridge asked for suggestions from the public as to reducing the number of regulations, issuing the following statement:

"In view of the request made by the commissioners that an effort be made to further simplify the traffic code and to eliminate superfluous regulations, I have asked the District traffic council to go through the present code with a fine-tooth comb and recommend any sections that could be eliminated without detriment.

"I also request any individual to make specific suggestions to simplify the regulations and cut down arrests. Particular attention is called to the fact that approximately two-thirds of all traffic arrests in March were for parking lights and overtime parking."

Returns on Officials' Indictments Expected

A return on the indictments charging Prince Georges county officials with corruption in prohibition enforcement, which were brought Tuesday, probably will be made by next Tuesday or Wednesday when the Upper Marlboro criminal docket is reached, State's Attorney Alan Bowie said yesterday.

The prosecution is the result of the report of the April grand jury, which accused the prohibition officers of making out blank warrants and inserting names of alleged offenders when arrests were made. Larceny of private property in conjunction with the liquor raids, and two cases of simple assault have also been lodged against the officers.

Diplomat's Chauffeur Fined for Speeding

Charged with speeding at 36 miles an hour on Georgia avenue northwest, last night, Harry Alexander, 27 years old, chauffeur for the Bulgarian legation, 2221 R street northwest, was fined $40 in traffic court by Judge Schuldt.

Alexander told police he had taken the Bulgarian minister to the theater and was taking a few of his friends for a ride. He was arrested by Policeman W. M. Sanders, of the Tenth precinct, who found that Alexander was a second offender. When legation officials failed to arrive at court before adjournment Judge Schuldt accepted Alexander's personal bond to return today with the money.

GONZAGA PLAYERS PRESENT "RIVALS"

Well Acted and Directed Comedy Given by Dramatic Association.

The members of the dramatic association of Gonzaga college scored a triumph last night in their presentation of "The Rivals," a comedy of the old school, in 3 acts and 11 scenes, which has been played for many years throughout the country by "all star" casts, and others.

Playing the dual character of Beverly and Capt. Absolute, George A. Garner showed a close study of his work. In the characters of Mrs. Malaprop (Charles C. Dove) and Lydia Languish (Arthur F. Carroll) the boys made "perfect ladies." The comedy character of Bob Acres was capably handled by J. Carlisle Ruddy. George A. Garner as Sir Anthony Absolute; Samuel I. Bond, as Thomas; Paul A. Neuland, as "Lucy;" F. P. Renner, as Julia Melville; all showed fine interpretation of their parts. Others in the cast who were well received were James J. McCarron, as Fag; David F. Doody, as Faulkland; Frederick W. Baltz, as Sir Lucius O'Trigger and Andre de Perry, as David.

The play was directed by Frederick A. Gallagher, S. J., faculty director of dramatics, with the professional assistance of Mr. Romaine Callender, of the National Theater Players.

CONGRESS IS FACING NEED OF ACQUIRING GOVERNMENT HOTELS

Measure to Acquire Land Apparently Has Slipped Into Pigeonhole.

$1,800,000 AVAILABLE FOR PURCHASING SITE

Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Will Sell, but Refuses to Renew Lease.

The possibility of action to evacuate the government hotels loomed yesterday when it became known that the bill authorizing the government to acquire the property on which they are located has apparently slipped into a legislative pocket insofar as this session is concerned.

The measure, which would authorize the completion of the Capitol grounds enlargement program started in 1910, already has been passed by the Senate. It makes available $1,800,000 now to the credit of the program in the Treasury and such further money as might be necessary.

Inquiry developed that while there is no formidable opposition to it in the House, the managers are not of a mind to call it up for consideration.

Unless it is passed at this session the government will be confronted with the Baltimore & Ohio railroad, owners of the property, for a renewal of the lease on that portion of the property occupied by the hotels. The railroad has refused to grant such a renewal.

Willing to Sell.

At a hearing before the House public buildings and grounds committee, headed by Chairman Elliott, it was developed that the railroad is willing to sell the property for the figure set by a court award several years ago, plus six per cent interest and taxation. From this would be deducted the amounts which the government has paid annually in rental, approximately $600,000. This would make the property available now to the government at something under $3,000,000, it is believed.

Of this amount there is the $1,800,000 to the credit of the project in the Treasury. It is the necessity of providing for the remainder, however, which influences the House managers' attitude toward it.

They have started to pinch every expenditure, in the light of the President's warning against permitting heavy expenditures against the tax reduction.

Chafe at Delay.

Representatives of the railroad, on the other hand, have expressed themselves strongly against the drawn-out delay of Congress to say definitely, one way or the other, whether it plans to acquire the property. They told the House committee that the railroad would be satisfied with a definite answer in the negative or the affirmative, as the railroad could make other use of the property if the government would but release its moral hold. It was with a view to forcing action that they refused to renew the lease.

Should the government acquire the property, it is planned ultimately to remove the hotels, but their immediate future would be insured with the passage by the House of the bill.

SHOWERS OF GIFTS FOLLOW RADIO DEBUT

Mary Frances Glenn Gets 123 Telegrams and Two Dogs.

A shower of 123 telegrams of congratulations, two dogs (a bull terrier and a Russian wolfhound), have followed the radio debut of Mary Frances Glenn, soprano, of the Washington Opera company, and protege of Edouard Albion, general director of the company. Miss Glenn, 17 years old, will sing in "Pagliacci," with which Albion will close the grand opera season here tonight in the Washington auditorium.

Mary Lewis and Marion Talley, youthful American singers who have achieved a debut in the Metropolitan Opera company, will be followed by Miss Glenn, one of the youngest and most promising of all the members of the Washington Opera company, it is predicted.

Although given the task of understudying the roles of some of the less important principals, Miss Glenn, when she sings in the performance of "Pagliacci" tonight will be in the background, yielding the center of the stage to internationally famous operatic stars, including Dora de Phillippe, Chicago Opera company soprano, who will sing the title role in the "Secret of Suzanne," which will be given following "Pagliacci."

CONTRACTOR AGREES TO STRIKERS' TERMS

Engineers Win Another Victory When H. P. Converse Co. Signs Agreement.

Another contracting company yesterday acceded to the demands of striking steam shovel and hoisting engineers. The H. P. Converse Co., now engaged on the foundation work of the new Arlington memorial bridge agreed to the strikers' demands and will put five men to work this morning, with a probability of more in the near future, it was said.

This will place about 75 per cent of the striking engineers back at work, according to Frank J. Nichols, business agent of the strikers, who said last night that he considered the peace with the Converse company the greatest advance the strikers have made since the beginning of the walkout.

Rufus S. Lusk, secretary of the Operative Builders association, said the remaining contractors were still firm in their stand against the strikers. He cited a poll taken of the employing contractors as to their standing, which showed that all were getting out their full work and which stated that in several cases they considered the nonunion men more efficient than the strikers. Several, however, admitted that they were getting only 75 or 85 per cent of the satisfaction given by the strikers.

Her daughter, Mrs. Anna Sichterman, 25 years old, was severely burned about the hands when she attempted to extinguish the flames. Both were taken to Emergency hospital. Mrs. Sichterman's recovery is assured, physicians at the hospital said.

TWO APPALACHIAN PARKS AUTHORIZED IN BILL BY TEMPLE

SECRETARY TURNS DOWN MAMMOTH CAVE PLAN

More Than $2,000,000 Are Raised for Two Areas Indorsed, Commission Says.

Definite steps looking to the establishment of Shenandoah and Smoky mountain national parks were taken in the House yesterday with the introduction by Representative Temple, of Pennsylvania, of a bill to that end.

Mr. Temple introduced his bill following the approval of the project by Secretary of the Interior Work, submitted to Congress yesterday. The secretary's report was based on a report by the Appalachian park commission, of which Mr. Temple is chairman.

The third proposed park in the chain, the Mammoth Cave National Park, was disapproved by the Secretary. He reserved opinion as to the desirability of this park, but said that property so far offered was insufficient.

On Mountain Heights.

The Shenandoah park would comprise an area of 900 square miles in Virginia fringing the crest of the Blue Ridge mountains, while the Smoky Mountain National park would embrace slightly less than 1,100 square miles, extending along the boundaries of North Carolina and Tennessee.

The park commission reported that $1,200,000 had been raised for the Shenandoah park and $1,066,693 for the Smoky mountain area. Both organizations having to do with the acquisition of lands for the parks have complied with all requirements it was reported.

"We therefore recommend that the two areas designated above be made national parks and administered as such when 250,000 acres in each of them have been transferred in fee simple to the United States," the commission said.

Federal Censorship Of Pictures Urged

(By the Associated Press.)

Federal censorship of motion pictures was advocated and approved at a hearing yesterday before the House education committee on bills by Representatives Upshaw (Democrat), Georgia, and Swoope (Republican), Pennsylvania, each providing for control of interstate commerce in films by a commission. Mr. Upshaw described his measure as "red, white and blue," with no characteristics of a "blue law."

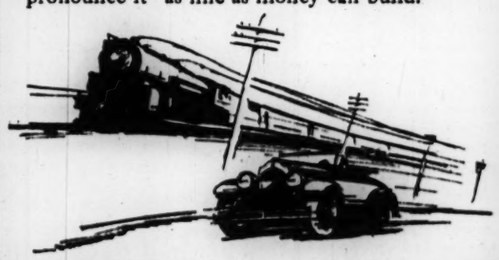

Mrs. Thomas A. McGoldrick, of the International Federation of Catholic alumnae, assailed the bills as tending to "over-Federalization," while their passage was urged by Dr. C. J. Twombley, of Lancaster, Pa., who said that one-third of the films exhibited in the country are "sensational, salacious and sensual."

EIGHTY MILES PER HOUR

CHRYSLER IMPERIAL "80"

UNRESTRAINED ENTHUSIASM

THOSE who are familar with the Chrysler Imperial "80" are unrestrained in voicing their enthusiasm. In stating that the Imperial "80" is so far in advance of anything in the fine car field as to be beyond comparison, Chrysler has simply voiced a conviction heartily concurred in by everyone who has experienced its unprecedented performance. While it is gratifying to hear the competent judgment of those who have owned the world's finest cars proclaim its merits so lustily, we are, for our part, content to rest our case in a demonstration of the Imperial "80", knowing full well that, once you are acquainted with its phenomenal qualities, you will unhesitatingly pronounce it "as fine as money can build."

Woman, in Evading Auto, Hit by Trolley

While attempting to cross Michigan avenue at Harewood street northeast last night, Mrs. Nellie Murphy, 70 years old, 391 Michigan avenue northeast, became confused when she saw an automobile and a street car approaching her from the same direction. She attempted to avoid the automobile driven by Henry J. Miller, 4205 Twelfth street northeast, police say, and stepped into the path of the street car.

She was taken to Providence hospital in Miller's automobile and was treated for a possible fracture of the arm and cuts and bruises about the head and body. Due to her advanced age her condition is serious, physicians said. The street car was in charge of Conductor S. J. Whittaker.

FENNING EXPLAINS ROUTINE OF OFFICE

Maj. Grant Says City Plans and Circles Help Control Traffic.

District Commissioner Frederick A. Fenning, speaking last night at the dinner of the Columbia Heights Business Men's association in the Kenesaw apartments, told of the routine of his office, which includes administration of the police and fire departments.

Maj. U. S. Grant 3d, director of public buildings and parks, outlined the L'Enfant plan for the development of Washington. He declared that the circles, planned after the city of Paris without anticipation of traffic congestion, were in reality quite an aid to handling traffic as they slowed up the movement of automobiles and gave a narrow cross walk for pedestrians. Maj. Grant said the District zoning law was one of the best in the country. The proposed planning commission to be established by Congress would aid materially in the city's orderly development, he said.

Arthur N. Pack, president of the American Nature association, spoke on "Nature as a Business Man's Investment," after which motion pictures of wild life were shown. Frank J. Sobotka was toastmaster.

Boy Hurt When Car Strikes Motorcycle

Hale, 17 years old, 1423 South Carolina avenue southeast, was slightly cut and bruised about the face and body yesterday afternoon when his motorcycle collided with an automobile driven by Percy Campbell, colored, 20 years old, 138 Linden court northeast, at H street and Linden court northeast.

Hiram C. McDaniel, 40 years old, 5042 Kilinger street northwest, was cut about the head yesterday when his automobile collided with an automobile driven by Clyde Teryman, 1743 Oregon avenue northwest, at Eleventh street and Maryland avenue northeast.

A get-together banquet of the Vincent B. Costello Post of the American Legion was held last night in the Racquet club. More than 200 members celebrated the passing of the 300 membership mark. Maj. D. J. Donovan, District auditor, was toastmaster.

Representative Simmons, of Nebraska, and Representative Johnson, of South Dakota, congratulated the post in promoting the ideals of the legion. Other speakers were Capt. Julius I. Peyser, departmental commander of the local legion; Frederic William Wile and Paul McGahan, past commander of the District organization.

HERRIN APPEALS TO TROOPS TO STAY OVER ELECTION DAY

SHERIFF DECLARES HE SENT IN NO DEPUTIES

Herrin, Ill., April 14 (By A. P.).—Tallying on death's scoreboard the results of the six innings of its civil war, Herrin viewed with foreboding today an approaching city election next Tuesday, and appealed to military forces to remain in control of the city until the vote is taken.

A county and State primary yesterday was the occasion of a renewal of the faction strife, which had been dormant since 1,000 residents of the community "got religion" in a revival meeting eleven months ago, and six men died in a gun battle in front of a voting place, the Masonic hall.

While Mayor Marshall McCormick was appealing to national guard officers to keep militiamen in the city until next Tuesday's municipal election is over, Coroner George Bell, of Williamson county, reached the scene and called an inquest for two of the men slain yesterday. Each faction—the klan group and the antiklan force—has three dead in the latest episode of Herrin's long tragedy, and nineteen have died in the civil war since February, 1924. Yesterday's shooting marked the sixth time the factions have "shot it out." Of the nineteen fatalities, ten victims have been klansmen and nine antiklansmen.

It was believed tonight that the guardsmen, in Herrin for the eighth time in four years, will remain for another week, and consideration is being given Mayor McCormick's plea that a few guardsmen be posted indefinitely in the town. The mayor expressed the belief that neither faction would fire on a uniformed soldier. The mayor told today of refusing, early yesterday, offers of deputy sheriffs from Sheriff George Galligan, avowed antiklansman. He feared, he said, "the sending of deputies would add fuel to the fire," and Galligan agreed. No arrest had been made tonight, and none is in prospect pending the coroner's inquest tomorrow.

Version of Mayor.

The mayor's version of the trouble at the Smith garage, which it is believed led to the Masonic hall shooting, is that "things seemed orderly until about 2:30 p. m., when Joe Brasher, going home, started past the Smith garage and was seized by a man at the garage and badly beaten. Some shots were fired from the garage, according to reports, and deputy sheriffs moved in the direction of the garage and were met by heavy firing."

Sheriff Galligan, however, said he had deputized nobody to serve as a special sheriff at the Herrin polls, and declared he knew none of the dead antiklansmen except one, who had been in the county jail.

Evangelist, Who Converted Herrin, May Return There

Hattiesburg, Miss., April 14 (By A. P.).—Howard S. Williams, Hattiesburg evangelist, who is conducting a revival at Pensacola, Fla., told the Hattiesburg American over the telephone today that he is ready to return to Herrin, Ill., and to endeavor to restore order there if his presence is desired. Eleven months ago Mr. Williams, at a revival in Herrin, brought about peace that had lasted until yesterday.

Mr. Williams already made arrangements with the army and navy aviation bases at Pensacola to take him to the Illinois town by airplane if his presence is considered necessary.

CUBA WILL CURTAIL PRESENT SUGAR CROP

Cabinet Also to Prevent Overproduction of Cane in Next Two Years.

Havana, Cuba, April 14 (By A. P.).—The Cuban cabinet today decided to prevent the overproduction of sugar for the next two years and to curtail the present crop by at least 10 per cent.

Congress will be asked to pass laws for enforcement of these two decisions, and the president probably will issue decrees to prevent further clearing of land for the planting of additional sugar cane for the next two years.

An offer by the cane growers voluntarily to limit the crop was the basis of the cabinet's action. The growers had offered to reduce this year's output by 10 per cent and enforcement is to be left largely in the hands of the growers' association.

The secretary of agriculture informed the cabinet that reports up to April 1 indicates that the crop would fall well below the larger estimates made by experts at the beginning of the present harvesting season, even if there was no plan to curtail the crop.

Chinese May Get Vote In Shanghai Council

Shanghai, April 14 (By A. P.).—A pacifying effect is expected to result from the action today of the annual meeting of the rate payers at the international settlement authorizing the municipal council to undertake negotiations with the diplomatic corps for the purpose of giving the Chinese a voice in the government through the admittance of three members to the council.

This action had been demanded vainly for many years. The conciliatory action is the outgrowth of the general unrest which had been prevalent here.

Schumann-Heink Victim of Laryngitis

Fort Worth, Tex., April 14 (By A. P.).—Compelled by an attack of laryngitis to cancel all engagements for the remainder of the week and to remain in her room, Mme. Ernestine Schumann-Heink was resting easily tonight.

Stricken last night after a hearty welcome by members of the American Legion, the 64-year-old contralto passed a sleepless night. After a consultation with a physician at her hotel, it was announced that she had been advised to remain in bed for at least three days.

STORM SENDS DIRIGIBLE LOS ANGELES TO HANGAR

UP MORE THAN TWO HOURS

Lakehurst, N. J., April 14 (By A. P.).—An approaching storm kept the navy dirigible Los Angeles from making a trip to Philadelphia today.

The craft took the air at 2:15 o'clock, under command of Capt. George W. Steele, jr. At that time it was planned to make a short flight about the naval air station, and then land to give the student officers on board a chance to handle the ship. It was planned to rise again and to go to Philadelphia, and return before nightfall.

After passing over Point-Pleasant and Asbury Park, along the Atlantic coast, the dirigible was steered back to the field and a landing made.

Lieut. J. B. Anderson, station aerologist, sent word to Capt. Steele that a storm was approaching, and recommended that the dirigible be placed in its hangar. The Los Angeles came down at 4:36 o'clock, after being in the air two hours and 21 minutes.

It was the second flight by a navy dirigible since the Shenandoah crashed with a heavy loss of life. Yesterday's short flight was the first time in months that the Los Angeles, the navy's only remaining dirigible, was in the air.

PARIS LESS HOPEFUL OVER PARLEY IN RIFF

Peace With Moroccans Upon Any Terms Spain Will Back, Is Order.

Paris, April 14 (By A. P.).—Latest reports from Morocco have cast a shadow over the optimism which has prevailed concerning the coming peace negotiations at Oudjda.

It was strongly insisted in quarters closely in touch with native Moroccan sources that the delegates of the tribesmen will represent Abd-el-Krim as the "pretender" and that they will insist on Riffian independence. In official circles, however, it was maintained that the tribes will be represented independently of Krim.

The scene of action in the peace negotiations will shift for a couple of days to Madrid, where Henri Ponsot, one of the French delegates, will confer with the Spanish authorities before going to Oudjda. It is affirmed in political circles that the French delegates have been instructed to obtain peace on any terms that Spain will agree to.

Madrid-Manila Flight Is Half Completed

Krackai, British India, April 14 (By A. P.).—One-half of the Spanish air flight from Madrid, Spain, to Manila, P. I., has been completed with the arrival here today of Capts. Gallarza and Loriga. Today's flight was from Bender Abbas, Persia, a distance of about 725 miles. The next hop, to Agra, 800 miles, will be made tomorrow.

Cairo, April 14 (By A. P.).—Rescue parties searching for the missing Spanish flier, Capt. Estevez, and his mechanician, who deserted their plane Sunday 100 miles from Amman, when they were forced to descend, today reported that they have little hope of finding them.

Attempt to Send Saws To Whittemore Fails

Buffalo, N. Y., April 14 (By A. P.).—An attempt to smuggle two hacksaw blades to Richard Reese Whittemore, robber gang leader, has been frustrated by Jailer Charles Leib, it became known today. The hacksaws were concealed in a box of stationery which had been mailed, special delivery, in Buffalo. Enclosed in the box was this note:

"Rich—Fondest regards and best wishes from J. N. and S."

The note apparently was written in a feminine hand. Whittemore is awaiting trial for the murder of two Bank of Buffalo employes in a $93,000 robbery here last October.

10 Violins With Age Of 2,000 Years Played

New York, April 14 (By A. P.).—Ten rare old violins, violas and cellos, the combined ages of which were over 2,000 years, were played at an unusual concert here. The instruments were the Rodman Wanamaker collection. They had never before been played publicly in this country.

Included was the last instrument made by Stradivarius, when he was 93. The oldest was a cello made 250 years ago by Ruger, and the youngest a Guadagnini viola, 145 years old. The audience listened for "depths and sonorities" of tone, and professed to find them.

New Electric Signs Cause Traffic Crush

New York, April 14 (By A. P.).—A public that believes in signs gave Times Square subway station guards a new problem in traffic jams, which, however, was quickly solved.

Each night at rush hours such a large crowd gathered before two mechanical signs, one advertising a girly revue and the other a railroad, that progress of subway travelers between the shuttle and the Broadway tracks was impossible.

A guard ended the jam by shielding the signs from the public with a huge square of paper during the peak hours. Now the signs are dark while the subway public is on its way home.

Easier Divorce Law Introduced in Berlin

(Special Cable Dispatch.)

Berlin, April 14.—Berlin is preparing to become a new Reno or Paris as an El Dorado for divorce-seeking couples. The socialists and democrats introduced a motion into the reichstag to simplify divorce proceedings in Germany. Heretofore infidelity alone made divorce possible and the socialists hold that this led to unhealthy conditions in divorce courts, with couples often buying witnesses to obtain a release from their marital bonds.

The reformists demand that "deep-rooted disagreements or unhappiness that can be proven" be considered sufficient grounds for divorce. It is believed the democratic and socialistic motions will be accepted by the reichstag.

AIRSHIP NORGE RESUMES TRIP AFTER OSLO VISIT

CROWDS CHEER BIG FLIER

Oslo, Norway (Thursday), April 15 (By A. P.).—The dirigible Norge started for Leningrad at 2:10 o'clock this morning.

Oslo, Norway, April 14 (By A. P.).—The dirigible Norge, of the Amundsen-Ellsworth polar expedition, made fast to her mooring mast here at 3:15 o'clock this afternoon after an uneventful flight from Pulham, England. The Norge started on this journey shortly before midnight last night.

The whole city was agog with excitement from early in the morning. The Norge dipped her flag in greeting when passing Amundsen's house on the fjord, six miles from the capital. Many American and Italian flags were displayed, and every available place on the roofs was utilized as a point of vantage to watch the great ship coming in.

King Haakon watched from the windows of the place, while the members of parliament, Premier Lykke, former Premier Mowinckel and other prominent officials were on the roof of the Storthing. It was a holiday for the school children.

At 1:30 o'clock the Norge came soaring over the landing field, accompanied by three naval planes which circled the huge ship. The dirigible turned and faced the palace, saluting the king, then flew thrice over the capital to get low enough for mooring. Without difficulty the Norge tied up to the mooring mast.

Immediately the engineers got busy refilling with hydrogen from big tanks. The next stop of the Norge will be Leningrad.

Dared to Fire, Woman Kills Man With Shot

Globe, Ariz., April 14 (By A. P.). Mrs. Maud Edmunds today shot and killed Alfred Goodenstein for an alleged assault upon her 11-year-old daughter. She then surrendered to the sheriff. Mrs. Edmunds related that when she forced Goodenstein with a rifle to admit the attack, he taunted her with, "What are you going to do about it?" and dared her to shoot.

"I then fired," Mrs. Edmunds added.

Sentiment Downing Jazz, Berlin Thinks

New York, April 14 (By A. P.).—The pendulum of popular favor is swinging away from jazz to ballads of the days of crinoline, in the opinion of Irving Berlin.

Writing to Sam H. Harris, theatrical producer, from London, Berlin states his belief that the jazz age is passing and that "the people want something with a bit of feeling and sentiment."

WILKINS, HAND INJURED, CALLS HALT ON FLIGHTS

Will Not Take Air Again, Arctic Explorer Says, Until Hurt Heals.

SEES NEED FOR HASTE

Fairbanks, Alaska, April 14 (By A. P.).—Capt. George Hubert Wilkins, leader of an aerial expedition in search of land in the Arctic ocean, announced today that he will not take the air again until his right hand, hurt Saturday, has healed.

The hand remains swollen. It was caught in the running gear under the airplane Alaskan when Wilkins was guiding the machine after it had descended on a lagoon at Point Barrow, 550 miles northwest of here. While returning to Fairbanks Sunday from Barrow after the second of two trips carrying supplies, Wilkins navigated with his left hand. Lieut. Carl Benjamin Eielson, aviator of the expedition, was with him.

With fog closing in over the ice of the Arctic ocean, and with young ice beginning to recede from the shore, they suggested an early dash become imperative for the main flight from Point Barrow in which they are expected, if they do not sight land, to pass near the north pole and over to the Spitzbergen islands, north of the Norwegian mainland.

The Alaskan may make no further flights until after the Detroiter, the other plane brought North by the expedition, has been repaired and flown to Barrow. Completion of these repairs necessitated by a landing accident on the field of the Fairbanks Airplane Corporation here, awaits receipt of parts from the United States.

The Alaskan carried 400 gallons of gasoline to Barrow. Other supplies have been stored there.

Special to The Washington Post.

Winchester, Va., April 14 (By A. P.).—Despite seasickness, the Byrd arctic expedition is getting near its first goal. In a message to his brother, Capt. Thomas B. Byrd, of this city, Lieut. Comdr. Richard Evelyn Byrd, in charge of the expedition, said:

"Landlubbers getting sea legs and seasick volunteer helmsmen steer a path like a snake, but we are getting there just the same."

The message was sent by wireless from the steamship Chantier en route from New York to Norway on the first leg of the arctic aerial exploring trip.

Divorce Is Granted To Hilda Ferguson

Baltimore, April 14 (By A. P.). Hildegarde Gibbons Ugarte, known on the stage as Hilda Ferguson, today was granted an absolute divorce from Dr. Robert Belmont Ugarte by Chief Judge James F. Gorter, in circuit court. The Ugartes were married at Towson, Md., in 1919.

The actress is given custody of their one child, Emily Yolanda, 5 years old. In her bill of complaint she charged her husband with beating and choking her until members of her family intervened; with cutting her arm with a stiletto, locking her in a room until her family broke the door down, and locking up her clothes, so she could not go out.

BERGDOLL WINS LIBERTY ON EXPERT'S TESTIMONY

VENTS SPLEEN ON U. S.

Mosbach, Germany, April 14 (By A. P.).—Grover C. Bergdoll, the American draft evader, was speedily acquitted today of charges of seduction and impairing the morals of minors after a trial which lasted seven hours before a court composed of one judge and two jurors.

The state's carefully built up case, after two months' investigation, blew up under the testimony of the psychonalysist, Prof. Hans Gruhle, of the University of Heildelberg, who testified that his examination of 17-year-old Leisel Schmidt, the chief witness against Bergdoll, convinced him that she was of "subnormal mentality and untrustworthy."

The girl herself was put on the stand, and wilted under the examination of Bergdoll's counsel. She was unable to relate the circumstances of the alleged attack on her three years ago, so as to convince the court.

Facing a sentence of from one to ten years for each offense, Bergdoll admitted that he had received the greatest scare of his life. Nervous and with perspiration streaming down his forehead, Bergdoll bitterly attacked the private detective, Sach, a former American, who had preferred the charges and who was not present in court. To the Associated Press correspondent, "I am through with Americans. Bergdoll said:

I have lost all respect for Americans, because they have hounded me and by underhanded methods, such as the employment of Sachs, have tried to throw me into jail. But the accounts are not closed. I will file a counter suit for damages against Sachs."

Bergdoll quickly regained his composure amid the congratulations of the hundreds of populace. He then entered a restaurant and ordered a bottle of wine for every policeman and court official, who drank to his health.

Court Enjoins Foes Of American Mercury

Boston, April 14 (By A. P.).—A temporary injunction to restrain the Watch and Ward society from interfering with the distribution of the American Mercury was granted by Judge Morton in Federal court today. In announcing his decision on the case, which was argued before him several days ago, the judge said that in his opinion it was "plainly illegal" for J. Frank Chase, secretary of the society to order news companies to refrain from handling publications of which he disapproved.

"The defendants," he said, "have the right of every citizen to come into court with complaints, but they have no right to impose their opinions on the book and magazine trade by threats of prosecution if their views are not accepted."

BORAH, IN ADDRESS, ASSAILS PROPOSED DRY REFERENDUM

PLAN OF BUCKNER SEVERELY CRITICIZED

Wadsworth Declares Ratification Was Made Without Consent of People.

Senator Borah, of Idaho, in a speech in the Senate yesterday afternoon, in which he dealt with prohibition, vigorously urged that the eighteenth amendment be upheld by all loyal citizens until such time as the Constitution is changed and the amendment repealed or modified. He attacked all proposals for evading the eighteenth amendment and the violation of the Constitution, while that instrument remains as it is, as "treason," and insisted it was the duty of all good citizens to stand by law enforcement.

In the course of his remarks Senator Borah attacked the referendum proposal in New York. He declared it was proposed, through that referendum, to ask Congress "to violate the Constitution." He held that those back of this movement should "petition Congress to change the Constitution." He also criticized District Attorney Buckner's plan.

The speech of Senator Borah stirred up a stormy debate, with Senators Bruce, Broussard and Edge sharply dissenting from the views of the Idaho senator. The galleries were filled.

Duty to Obey.

Senator Borah, after reading the eighteenth amendment and quoting language of the Supreme Court interpreting it, said:

"It is the duty, so long as it remains in the Constitution, of the several legislatures, of Congress, the courts, public officials and individuals to obey it and to assist in enforcement.

"We are now engaged in a great campaign to find a way to evade the Constitution of the United States without seeming to do so.

"No one contends that those opposed to prohibition have not the right to change the Constitution or to carry on a campaign for that purpose.

"The point that I desire to stress is that so long as it remains a part of the Constitution, so long as it is unchanged, it is the duty of every citizen to adhere to it both in letter and spirit."

Senator Borah said no one could be criticised for seeking to amend the Constitution and he expressed doubt whether it was wise for the Federal government to take over the great body of police powers from the States as was done in the eighteenth amendment.

Senator Wadsworth also made the point that the amendment had been ratified without the people in different States having the opportunity to express themselves on it.

Cites Slave Law.

Senator Bruce reminded Senator Borah the Northern States would not enforce the provisions of the fugitive slave law. The two senators engaged in a spirited exchange and Senator Bruce pointed out the people of the North looked on slavery as "a deadly moral offense," and would not support fugitive slave legislation.

Senator Broussard engaged Senator Borah in a colloquy over percentages of beverages. Senator Borah insisted that what was sought was not nonintoxicating, but intoxicating drinks. He derided the idea that "all this hubbub is to get a little more nonintoxicating beverage."

Senator Edge replied briefly to Senator Borah.

"The trouble with the argument of the senator from Idaho," he said, "is that he proposes to decide what the Supreme Court may do, without permitting the Supreme Court to decide for itself.

"What I would like to see is an opportunity, at least, to find out just what the Supreme Court would do."

He contended the question of what percentage of alcohol makes a beverage intoxicating should go to the Supreme Court, and be settled by that tribunal.

Wayne B. Wheeler, general counsel of the Antisaloon league, issued the following statement last night:

"Senator Borah's denunciation of Mr. Buckner, charging that some of his utterances before the Senate judiciary committee were treasonable, will meet the approval of the friends of law enforcement throughout the country."

Wheeler Defense Body To Celebrate Victory

A "civic victory" dinner to celebrate the collapse of the government's case against Senator Burton Wheeler, of Montana, will be held tonight at the City club, under the auspices of the Wheeler defense committee. Norman Hapgood, chairman of the committee, will be toastmaster.

The principal speech will be delivered by Senator Thomas J. Walsh, of Montana, Wheeler's chief counsel during the prosecution. Charles A. Douglas, Washington attorney, also will speak. Senator Wheeler will be the guest of honor.

ANDREWS TESTIFIES HE FAVORS BEER

increase in number of patients admitted into a Massachusetts institution for inebriates since the Volstead act.

Gen. Andrews arrived at 10:20 o'clock and took his seat close to the 25-gallon still, set up in the committee room as an exhibit.

Mr. Codman said he desired to have the witness take up the question of illicit stills.

"That is one of your problems, is it not?" he asked.

"Yes, and becoming more so," replied Gen. Andrews.

The government record of seizures of stills was then read by Mr. Codman. In 1921 there were 95,923 illicit stills seized throughout the United States, in 1922 there were 111,155, in 1923 the number was 158,132, in 1924, 159,176, and in 1925, 172,537.

Percentages Differ.

"There seems to be a continual mounting of the number of stills seized annually," said Mr. Codman. "Is it a fair inference that the number of stills is increasing?"

Mr. Andrews admitted that it was a fair inference.

"I don't suppose," said Mr. Codman, "that you capture more than a certain percentage.

"An uncertain percentage," suggested the witness.

For capture of stills he was dependent upon local cooperation, he explained.

"Then in some places," said Mr. Codman, "where you do not get local enforcement, you get a very small percentage. Is that not so?"

"You know the answer to that as well as I do," replied Gen. Andrews.

"Sorry," said Mr. Codman, "but you are in charge of enforcement of prohibition and your opinion means a good deal to the country, whereas I am an inconspicuous person, whose opinion does not count."

Before the general answered, Senator Reed intervened in an apparent effort to get the questions and answers running more smoothly.

Not Interested in Small Ones.

"General, you will pardon me," Senator Reed said. "I want to be frank with you and I know you want to be frank with us." The senator from Missouri then sought to get Gen. Andrews' differentiation between the large or commercial still and the small still. The general said he was not interested in the small stills.

"Then there might be a great number of small stills about which you know nothing?" asked Mr. Codman.

"Yes."

"Millions of gallons might be produced in that way?"

"I think that may be true."

In Georgia, Mr. Codman said, reading from a record, there were 21,031 stills captured in 1925 and 20,400 in 1924. And in Tennessee, Florida, Virginia, Kentucky and Alabama there were a considerable, though smaller number of captures, he added. Gen. Andrews admitted the accuracy of the figures.

"That is a fact," was the reply.

"Where there are large industrial plants," added Mr. Codman, "stills are not needed. But where normal sources of supply are not available, moonshine and stills well up and fill the gap."

"That is exactly it," Gen. Andrews replied.

Attention was then directed to the still on exhibition.

Supply and Demand.

"I loaned it to the committee," Gen. Andrews said after Mr. Codman had said the general had been kind enough to loan it to him.

"In that way you prevented its employment while it was out of your possession," said Senator Reed with a smile.

Mr. Codman drew attention to some of Tuesday's testimony relative to the havoc wrought by home stills in the Pennsylvania anthracite coal mining districts and the tenement districts of New York. He asked if the demand for liquor among the people did not necessarily bring into being the home still.

"Where the demand exists, the supply appears, if possible," admitted Gen. Andrews. "This law of supply and demand exists in the bootleg trade as with every other merchandise."

"And you have neither the men, nor the equipment nor the appropriations to carry out the work of coping with the stills, isn't that true?

"That is true."

Mr. Codman called attention to the recent bill introduced into the Senate by Senator Goff and referred to as the administration's new enforcement measure. The bill asks congress to give authority for search warrants for locating stills in private dwellings.

"What type of still were you trying to reach?" he asked.

Defends Search of Homes.

"The commercial still which supplies the bootleg traffic."

"If a family has a still in the house and there is no evidence of sale, how would you get knowledge for the search warrant?

"We observe corn sugar and mash being brought into the house, we observe packages coming out. We use our sense of smell or maybe look in through the windows."

But Gen. Andrews added that he did not have the small still in mind. He admitted that the new law, if passed, would permit his agents to enter private dwellings, but said this would be a violation of his instructions.

"Have you issued instructions that your agents shall not go into private houses to see if liquor is sold?" asked Senator Reed.

Gen. Andrews said he had not issued such instructions, but that his policy was to concentrate on the big sources of supply.

"Pretty good for the hundred," interjected Senator Reed. "And if you get the big ones, you'll go after the little ones, won't you?"

"That's so far in the future," said Gen. Andrews, "that I can't say."

"How long in the future will that be?" asked Senator Reed jokingly and the witness did not answer.

Senator Reed wanted to know whether there would not be a temptation to agents to get into private dwellings or snoop around private houses if the law were passed.

"No," said Gen. Andrews, "I have discharged a man for wasting his time on matters such as that.

Mr. Codman then went from the question of agents entering private houses to the question of how many men with criminal records were employed to enforce prohibition. He quoted one prohibition official as stating that there is no reason why a man with a criminal record should not be employed in the prohibition department "if he has turned over a new leaf." Mr. Codman asked Gen. Andrews if he agreed with that idea.

"It is often done—that we use a man with connections in the underworld as an informer; not as an agent to make arrests."

"Haven't you found out in a number of instances that men were prohibition agents who had been convicts?" asked Senator Reed.

"Yes," replied Gen. Andrews. "That is, we found out later that they had been convicts."

"How do you get the information from informers?"

"We pay for information on contract. The underworld man comes in and offers it and we pay him if he delivers. Sometimes we make a contract for a week, sometimes a week is required for the work. Ordinarily a man comes in and says he has information and we pay him for bringing information."

"Now these people are from the underworld," said Senator Reed. "They're part of the criminal population of the United States."

"That's right."

No Warrants in Woods.

"Who goes out to check them up?"

"We act on their information. Our agents make raids."

"But before he raids he gets a search warrant, or does he raid without a search warrant?" continued Senator Reed.

"In the woods and in some places where there are stills, I don't think we get search warrants."

"Then you invade the premises of a citizen of the United States contrary to the Constitution, don't you?" asked Senator Reed.

"I don't know."

"How do you get into the premises to investigate without a search warrant?"

"There are usually plenty of obvious indications, plenty of evidence."

"Then why do you need to pay government money to criminals if there's plenty of evidence?"

Senator Harreld intervened at this point to say that search warrants are not necessary to enter a place and get a murderer. There was no difference between arresting a murderer or arresting a man for running a still, he argued.

"You had better look up the law," Senator Reed said to Senator Harreld, explaining that operating a still was not a felony.

Would Restore Respect.

"I'd make it one," said Senator Harreld.

"I believe you would," said Senator Reed. "Why don't you get out the old Magna Charta and the Constitution and burn them both?"

This brought a perceptible stir throughout the audience and the testimony of Gen. Andrews was resumed. The general said his policy was to "restore respect for law."

"Then respect for law has been impaired?" asked Senator Reed, and Gen. Andrews admitted that it had been. His policy he reiterated was against invading homes without just cause.

"Then are we to understand," said Senator Reed, "that the day has passed when prohibition agents can break down the doors of a private residence with axes and go in with guns and arrest the occupants?"

"I hope so," was the reply.

Senator Harreld again intervened to say he could not see why a search warrant could not be obtained if it was seen that liquor was being manufactured.

"We can't get a search warrant on view now," explained Gen. Andrews.

"Of course not," said Senator Reed, "the senator does not understand the distinction."

Mr. Codman then asked Gen. Andrews if cutting down diversions of alcohol would not drive the still into the home even more than at present.

Says Beer Would Help.

Asserting that in 1918 90 per cent of the alcoholic consumption in the United States was beer, Mr. Codman asked:

"Wouldn't a great many go without whisky if they could get beer of a low alcoholic content?"

"I presume they would."

"And wouldn't this mean a great many?" Mr. Codman asked. Mr. Andrew admitted that. Then Mr. Codman asked point blank if prohibition would not be more easily enforced if beer of low alcoholic content could be had.

Gen. Andrews wanted this question put very clearly and specifically before he answered it. It was finally reframed by Senator Reed who asked if prohibition enforcement would not be helped if the people could get "beer, distributed by government agencies, under government supervision, for home consumption and served in bona fide hotels."

"In my opinion, it would aid law enforcement," Gen. Andrews replied. He explained, however, that the matter of regulation would, of course, be important.

"How about light wines?" asked Senator Reed.

"I haven't any definite opinion about that," said the witness, "I haven't thought about it."

Mr. Andrews did, however, call the committee's attention to a discrepancy in section 29 of the Volstead act, which permits "Mrs. Smith to make elderberry wine, but prohibits Mrs. Jones from making dandelion wine."

Proper Regulation Added.

Section 29 exempts "fruit juices" which are not "intoxicating in fact," but may be much in excess of the one-half of 1 per cent alcoholic content. But it does not exempt plants or flowers. This matter, however, was not gone into by the committee.

Senator Reed showed particular interest in the statement by Gen. Andrews respecting the effect which giving the people beer would have on law enforcement. He took pains to restate the question clearly so there could be no misunderstanding of what Gen. Andrews had said.

"Now, let's see," he began, "Your opinion is that, in view of the bad quality of hard liquor now being sold, if a healthy beer could be manufactured—a beer that is nonintoxicating in fact with the average person—and distributed by the government under regulations and not allowed to be sold in saloons, public places or drunk on the premises, the people would take to drinking that beer instead of the vile liquors now being sold. You believe that this would be an aid to temperance and help law enforcement.

"On the other hand," continued Senator Reed, "for I want to state both sides of it, if you opened up the saloon again that might be a cover where the proprietor could slip illicit liquor to customers."

Senator Reed then reverted back to discussion of illicit stills. There were 172,000 illicit stills captured in 1925, he said.

"That means there were 172,000 violators of the law, does it not?" he asked.

500,000 Violators.

"That's true."

"There would be more than one person to each still, so we have some 500,000 persons violating the law. And how many would be engaged in distribution?"

Gen. Andrews hesitated about hasarding a guess. Senator Reed said the number he believed would mount to 2,000,000 if sellers of liquor, women and children who sell home-still products, were included.

Senator Harreld suggested that those who buy liquor be included.

"If you include those who buy liquor," snapped Senator Reed, "you'd have to run the number up to forty or fifty million."

Discussing the relation between the number of stills captured and the number actually in operation in the country, Senator Reed sought to obtain an opinion from Gen. Andrews as to what proportion of stills were captured in any year.

"You've got, let us see, 91 men to smell out all of New England and peep through the keyholes of the habitations. There are about 15,000,000 inhabitants in New England. Do you think that you get 1 still out of fifty. Now, honest injun, what is your opinion?"

"I couldn't say," replied the general. "It would be nothing but a guess but I think we get more than 1 out of 50."

"Well, do you think you get one out of ten?"

"I should think we do get one out of ten."

Sees Harm to Families.

"Very well," said Senator Reed. "You get one out of ten. Then 172,000 captured stills means there are some 1,720,000 stills operating in the country.

"The cold truth about the matter is that whereas there was no illicit manufacture of beer or whisky in the United States to speak of before prohibition the people have now gone into the manufacture into their homes and there are 1,720,000 stills.

"Doesn't this bring the members of the family, women and children, into immediate contact with the manufacture of liquor?

"Of course it does," admitted Gen. Andrews.

"Isn't this utterly destructive to the members of American families?"

"It is undoubtedly injurious."

"Now, as a man, as a citizen, Gen. Andrews, isn't it your opinion that it would be better for the man to go outside and get his grog?"

This produced one of the many dramatic moments of yesterday's hearing. Gen. Andrews sat comfortably backward in his chair and looked at Senator Reed, whose countenance reflected his interest over the situation he had depicted.

Reed Compliments Witness.

And Senator Reed, instead of resenting the prohibition director's reply, complimented him for not answering.

Senator Reed had taken a standing position, facing the exhibition still. He began his demonstration of the ease with which liquor is made by asking Gen. Andrews if it was not easier to make liquor than to make good bread.

"You take cornmeal," Senator Reed began, "and pour some water in it and put in a cake of yeast or the process of fermentation starts up without the yeast and when fermentation starts alcohol is produced."

"The whole process," said Senator Reed, who now seemed to assume the role of demonstrator or professor of chemistry, "is to separate the alcohol from the cornmeal or mash before it turns into acid. The sole question is to get the alcohol out of that mash."

"Water does not boil under 212 degrees at sea level," the senator continued. "Alcohol," he added, "volitilises at 180 or 90."

"All you have to do is to heat this mash to a point high enough to volatilise the alcohol over a slow fire and not start the water to boiling," added Senator Reed, using the still as a demonstration.

Mr. Reed then showed how the fumes are caught and turned back into a container where they become liquid alcohol.

"You can put a bath towel over a tea kettle," he said, "and when you wring the bath towel out you can get drunk on the contents.

Kettle and Towel.

"So, any person having a tea kettle, a little cornmeal and a bath towel can get drunk on it, can he not?" continued Senator Reed.

"I think so," replied Gen. Andrews.

"So, a common tea kettle can constitute a still?"

"I think so."

"And when you don't want too slow a process you take a wash boiler, like the one here, instead of a tea kettle. A man, in an ordinary wash boiler, can make gallons of liquor in a day, can't he?"

Senator Reed asked Gen. Andrews if he knew about the "Oregon still." The general said he did not. The marines use that still, the senator said, adding:

"What a marine doesn't know about getting whisky isn't worth knowing. I say this with all respect. They're good fighters and hard drinkers, all of them."

The Oregon still consists in first taking an ordinary camp pail, Senator Reed explained, showing a rough drawing of this kind of still.

"They set a couple of bricks under the pail, and if they can't get bricks they take rocks. Then they build a fire under the pail. They get another brick and set it inside the pail and they put the mash around it. They put the cover on the pail upside down. They heat the fire and if they are near town they put a chunk of ice on the lid, or otherwise some patient person pours cold water on the lid and the liquor drops off into a receptacle placed inside. Have you seen a still like that?"

C. S. Williams Called.

"No," replied Gen. Andrews, who showed every indication of enjoying Senator Reed's demonstrations.

The exhibition still, seized by Washington police of the Eighth precinct, was next explained. It had a 25-gallon capacity and produced 5 gallons every three-hour run, or 40 gallons in 24 hours, it was explained.

Charles S. Williams, custodian of seised stills in the District, was called to the stand and sworn.

"Run with a reasonable degree of American efficiency and ingenuity," continued Senator Reed, "this still can produce 40 gallons a day. So that everybody who has a wash boiler and a little apparatus on top of it can produce 40 gallons a day?"

"Approximately," said Mr. Williams.

Pointing out that the outfit, including the boiler would cost about

WILSON SAYS ANDREWS WAS "MISUNDERSTOOD"

Prohibition Chief "Dry as I Am," Asserts M. E. Temperance Board Executive.

SPEAKS AT CONFERENCE

Special to The Washington Post.

Frederick, Md., April 14.—Five hundred ministers and delegates to the 142d annual Baltimore conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church attended the first business session here today. Following the appointment of secretaries and committees a memorial service was held for the late Revs. Walter G. Trauty, J. Paul Wright, John W. Smith, Dayton B. Miller, Gustavus W. Hobbs, Edwin H. Smith, J. Edwin Ames, C. Herbert Richardson, D. Benton Winsted and Harry D. Mitchell, who died in the last year.

Five deaconesses, Misses Doris M. Davis, Ruth Fuessler and Dorothy B. Richardson, Baltimore; Mary Ela Kenaston, Washington, and Anna M. Schautz, Frederick, were consecrated. Miss Irene Worrell, Baltimore, was ordained minister and licensed to preach. She is the first woman ordained to preach in the Baltimore conference.

Bishop W. L. McDowell, Washington, delivered an address before the Kiwanis club. Dr. J. B. Hingeley, Chicago, told the pension and relief fund board that more than $3,000,000 was paid to 8,330 pensioners of the church last year, against $600,000 in 1908.

The Rev. Dr. Clarence True Wilson, corresponding secretary of the board of temperance, prohibition and public morals, said prohibition had been weighed and found difficult. He recommended prison terms for first offenders. Places where liquor is sold, he declared, should be padlocked and aliens violating the "dry" law should be deported.

Dr. Wilson said First Assistant Secretary of the Treasury Andrews, in charge of prohibition enforcement, had been misunderstood.

"Andrews is as dry as I am. We both believe that the government should take over all the bonded liquor and dispense it under government regulations for medicinal and sacramental purposes and not as a beverage."

COOLIDGE RENAMES 3 TO LABOR BOARD WHEN TERMS EXPIRE

President Names Higgins, Hooper and McMenimen to Rail Body.

MAY LEGISLATE GROUP OUT OF EXISTENCE

Bill Now Pending May Shorten Incumbency of the Members.

President Coolidge yesterday renominated Samuel Higgins, of New York, representative of the managerial group; Ben W. Hooper, of Tennessee, representative of the public group, and Walter L. McMenimen, of Massachusetts, representative of the Labor group to be members of the Federal railway labor board.

Their terms expire today, and while they are renamed for a full term it is expected that the labor board will be legislated out of office within the next fortnight when the pending so-called "railway peace bill" is passed by the Senate, where already 72 members are pledged to vote in its favor. This bill specifically replaces the railway labor board by a mediation commission of five members who become the fact finding body to pass upon all disputes between the railroads and their employes which cannot be settled by divisional group conferences.

Bill is Opposed.

In connection with the new commission, the bill creating which is being opposed by the National Association of Manufacturers and certain organizations of farmers, it is considered certain that it will be composed of men who have had no connection with railway disputes in the past.

When the opposition to the pending bill was concentrating in the House, where it was passed by an overwhelming majority, an effort was made to have the bill amended so that the mediation commission would be made up of members of the existing labor board and would take over all of the machinery of that body including its experts.

Both the railway management and the brotherhoods refused to consider such a proposal on the ground that the labor board had forfeited the confidence of both sides and it would not furnish the machinery which will be absolutely necessary if the proposed peace plan is to work out along the lines which both sides believe certain.

Privates Need Not Pay Charges of Hospital

Privates and non commissioned officers may be hospitalized at the government hospital for the insane, St. Elizabeths, without subsistence charge, according to the ruling of R. L. Golze, solicitor of the general accounting office, made public yesterday.

This question arose over Sergt. Patrick Joyce, retired, U. S. A., who has been hospitalized at St. Elizabeths. Commissioned officers have had to pay the subsistence charge of $1 per day, but Mr. Golze ruled that there was a difference between

WORK RECOMMENDS DECREASED ANNUITIES

Lower Scale Suggested in Letter Written to Senator Stanfield, of Oregon.

COMPROMISE IS EXPECTED

Considerably lower annuities than those proposed in pending bills to liberalize government employes' retirement were recommended yesterday by Secretary of the Interior Work.

In a letter to Senator Stanfield, of Oregon, the Secretary of the Interior recommended a scale of annuities having a maximum of $960 as compared with present maximum of $720 and the maximum of $1,300 proposed in pending bills.

Secretary Work also recommended compulsory retirement at 70 years for all employes and optional retirement at 65 years for all classes. Under the House bill the optional retirement ages would be 60, 62 and 65 years for the three specified classes of employes, while under the bill agreed upon by the Senate civil service committee, but not yet formally reported, there would be only two classes with optional retirement at the ages of 62 and 65.

The Secretary recommends that the employes' contribution be held to 3½ per cent as compared with the present 2½ per cent and the 4 per cent proposed in the pending bills.

His recommendations are believed to reflect the compromise which has been suggested by the White House, but did not meet with general favor by those at the Capitol who have been sponsoring liberalized legislation for the employes.

"Boss Prescott is protecting Fenning through Edward F. Colladay, Republican national committeeman of the District. They want this committee to handle the case."

Three Vote to Proceed.

Mr. McLeod, Representative Reid, of Illinois, and Representative Gilbert, of Kentucky, were the only ones voting to proceed against Mr. Blanton's will. Mr. Gilbert is aiding Mr. Blanton in the fight, however, and was out of the room when the "whitewash" angle was developed.

Representative Keller, of Minnesota, told Mr. Blanton that he realized the obstacles he was up against, reverting to his experience in seeking to impeach former Attorney General Daugherty. Representative Underhill, of Massachusetts, said that in view of the serious charges that had been made against the commissioner he could not understand why the commissioner himself has not been more active to get an investigation. He said he believed such an inquiry, however, should be by a wholly impartial committee named by the Speaker of the House.

Sargent Declines Comment.

VOTE ON ITALIAN DEBT AGREED FOR WEDNESDAY

Senate to Vote on Settlement of Loans Made During World War.

BORAH READY TO FIGHT

(By the Associated Press.)

An agreement to vote on the Italian debt settlement next Wednesday at 4 p. m. was reached yesterday by the Senate.

Administration leaders are confident that the House bill approving the settlement worked out by the American and Italian debt commissions last summer will be passed. Opponents hope to be able either to send it back to committee or reject it outright.

An effort was first made yesterday to obtain consent for a vote at 2 p. m., Saturday, but Senator Reed, Democrat, Missouri, objected, with the declaration that he regarded the settlement as a "species of intolerable grand larceny." Later he declared that if the agreement were approved the people would repudiate the action of Congress.

After this development there were cries of "vote, vote," with Chairman Borah, of the foreign relations committee, sitting poised and ready to take the floor to stave off immediate action. He finally arose and announced that while efforts to get an agreement were going forward he would discuss the proposed amendments to the Volstead act.

Meantime, Chairman Smoot, of the finance committee, in charge of the bill, reached a compromise with Senator Reed, and the proposal for a vote Wednesday was made. Some senators threatened to block it, but it finally went through with a provision limiting debate to 30 minutes for each senator, beginning at noon Wednesday.

FIELD HOUSE WORK MAY BE DEFERRED

House Committee Action Would End Controversy Over Park Structure.

Report that the House committee favors legislation deferring construction on a permanent field house for East Potomac park may settle the controversy over this matter.

Plans for the field house are being prepared and specifications will be ready in a few days. Bids will then be called for on the work to replace the temporary structure by the office of public buildings and public parks.

Construction was directed by Congress, which appropriated $50,000 and the money for it must be used or authorized before June 30, else the appropriation reverts to the treasury.

While the structure probably will identify its vicinity as a tourist camp and interfere with its further development for recreational purposes, the public buildings and public parks office must proceed with construction as authorised by Congress in spite of opposition to a permanent field house by the fine arts commission and other organizations.

No action has been taken by Congress on a resolution deferring construction and if none is forth-

Senate Passes Bill To Aid Highway Plan

The Senate yesterday passed a bill designed to assist the commissioners in the opening and closing of thoroughfares to carry out the highway plans. It also passed a bill authorizing the elimination of the Michigan avenue grade crossing and one changing the name of "The Trustees of St. Joseph's Male Orphan Asylum" to St. Joseph's Home and School.

The bill to eliminate the Michigan avenue grade crossing authorizes an appropriation of $275,000 for the project and the assessment of half the cost of removing the crossing against the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad.

BROWN NEW CAPTAIN OF COOLIDGE YACHT

New Naval Aid to President Was Commander of Destroyer in War.

SUCCEEDS CAPT. ANDREWS

The new commander of the presidential yacht Mayflower is Capt. Wilson Brown, jr., whose appointment to succeed Capt. Adolphus Andrews as Mayflower commander and naval aid to President Coolidge was announced from the White House yesterday, following a conference between the President, Capts. Brown and Andrews.

The vacancy in the yacht command is created by the departure of Capt. Andrews for Geneva as a naval expert at the preliminary disarmament conference under the League of Nations auspices. Capt. Brown will assume his new command next week.

He was born in Pennsylvania, April 23, 1883, and appointed to the United States Naval Academy from New Jersey in 1898, graduating in 1902. Until his latest assignment he was senior aid to the commander of the destroyer squadron of the Pacific battle fleet.

He was stationed in Washington in 1922 and 1923 with the bureau of operations and plans, Navy Department, and was with it at the opening of the world war. During the war he commanded the destroyer Parker.

Capt. Andrews has commanded the Mayflower for more than three years, being with President Harding on his ill-fated trip to Alaska. Capt. Brown was awarded the Navy cross for patrolling service for convoys while in command of the Parker during the world war.

SARGENT BALKS WALSH'S REQUEST FOR TRIAL DATA

Refuses to Give Information Regarding Prosecution of Wheeler.

HOLDS QUERY IMPROPER

(By Associated Press.)

Refusal of Attorney General Sargent to answer several questions asked by Senator Walsh (Democrat), Montana, balked the Senate judiciary subcommittee late yesterday in its consideration of the Walsh resolution for information regarding the prosecution of Senator Wheeler (Democrat), Montana, last summer.

The resolution "directs" the Attorney General to inform the subcommittee regarding the expenses of conducting the prosecution of Senator Wheeler on the charge that he acted illegally in connection with oil land leases, and whether the Department of Justice plans to institute perjury proceedings against George J. Hayes, attorney, of New York, and prosecution witnesses at Great Falls, Mont.

Mr. Sargent's refusal was based on the ground that the resolution was improper and the information desired by Senator Walsh should not be disclosed, because publication "would be incompatible with the public interest."

Referring to data regarding two witnesses who, the government contends, would have corroborated Hayes' testimony that he met Senator Wheeler in New York and was asked by him to become associated in obtaining land permits, Senator Walsh asked Mr. Sargent whether he had a copy of that data with him.

"I have not," answered the Attorney General.

"Will you tell us the names of those two persons?"

"Can I or will I?"

"Can you?"

"Yes."

"Will you?"

"No."

Finally the Attorney General said he would not furnish the information Senator Walsh wanted until the Senate asked for it.

WILKINS, HAND INJURED, CALLS HALT ON FLIGHTS

Will Not Take Air Again, Arctic Explorer Says, Until Hurt Heals.

SEES NEED FOR HASTE

Fairbanks, Alaska, April 14 (By A. P.).—Capt. George Hubert Wilkins, leader of an aerial expedition in search of land in the Arctic ocean, announced today that he will not take the air again until his right hand, hurt Saturday, has healed.

The hand remains swollen. It was caught in the running gear under the airplane Alaskan when Wilkins was guiding the machine after it had descended on a lagoon at Point Barrow, 550 miles northwest of here. While returning to Fairbanks Sunday from Barrow after the second of two trips carrying supplies, Wilkins navigated with his left hand. Lieut. Carl Benjamin Eielson, aviator of the expedition, was with him.

With fog closing in over the ice of the Arctic ocean, and with young ice beginning to recede from the shore, they suggested an early dash become imperative for the main flight from Point Barrow in which they are expected, if they do not sight land, to pass near the north pole and over to the Spitzbergen islands, north of the Norwegian mainland.

The Alaskan may make no further flights until after the Detroiter, the other plane brought North by the expedition, has been repaired and flown to Barrow. Completion of these repairs necessitated by a landing accident on the field of the Fairbanks Airplane Corporation here, awaits receipt of parts from the United States.

The Alaskan carried 400 gallons of gasoline to Barrow. Other supplies have been stored there.

BYRD ARCTIC PARTY NEARING FIRST GOAL

Special to The Washington Post.

Winchester, Va., April 14 (By A. P.).—Despite seasickness, the Byrd arctic expedition is getting near its first goal. In a message to his brother, Capt. Thomas B. Byrd, of this city, Lieut. Comdr. Richard Evelyn Byrd, in charge of the expedition, said:

"Landlubbers getting sea legs and seasick volunteer helmsmen steer a path like a snake, but we are getting there just the same."

The message was sent by wireless from the steamship Chantier en route from New York to Norway on the first leg of the arctic aerial exploring trip.

Divorce Is Granted To Hilda Ferguson

Baltimore, April 14 (By A. P.). Hildegarde Gibbons Ugarte, known on the stage as Hilda Ferguson, today was granted an absolute divorce from Dr. Robert Belmont Ugarte by Chief Judge James F. Gorter, in circuit court. The Ugartes were married at Towson, Md., in 1919.

The actress is given custody of their one child, Emily Yolanda, 5 years old. In her bill of complaint she charged her husband with beating and choking her until members of her family intervened; with cutting her arm with a stiletto, locking her in a room until her family broke the door down, and locking up her clothes, so she could not go out.

BERGDOLL WINS LIBERTY ON EXPERT'S TESTIMONY

VENTS SPLEEN ON U. S.

Mosbach, Germany, April 14 (By A. P.).—Grover C. Bergdoll, the American draft evader, was speedily acquitted today of charges of seduction and impairing the morals of minors after a trial which lasted seven hours before a court composed of one judge and two jurors.

The state's carefully built up case, after two months' investigation, blew up under the testimony of the psychonalysist, Prof. Hans Gruhle, of the University of Heildelberg, who testified that his examination of 17-year-old Leisel Schmidt, the chief witness against Bergdoll, convinced him that she was of "subnormal mentality and untrustworthy."

The girl herself was put on the stand, and wilted under the examination of Bergdoll's counsel. She was unable to relate the circumstances of the alleged attack on her three years ago, so as to convince the court.

Facing a sentence of from one to ten years for each offense, Bergdoll admitted that he had received the greatest scare of his life. Nervous and with perspiration streaming down his forehead, Bergdoll bitterly attacked the private detective, Sach, a former American, who had preferred the charges and who was not present in court. To the Associated Press correspondent, "I am through with Americans. Bergdoll said:

I have lost all respect for Americans, because they have hounded me and by underhanded methods, such as the employment of Sachs, have tried to throw me into jail. But the accounts are not closed. I will file a counter suit for damages against Sachs."

Bergdoll quickly regained his composure amid the congratulations of the hundreds of populace. He then entered a restaurant and ordered a bottle of wine for every policeman and court official, who drank to his health.

Court Enjoins Foes Of American Mercury

Boston, April 14 (By A. P.).—A temporary injunction to restrain the Watch and Ward society from interfering with the distribution of the American Mercury was granted by Judge Morton in Federal court today. In announcing his decision on the case, which was argued before him several days ago, the judge said that in his opinion it was "plainly illegal" for J. Frank Chase, secretary of the society to order news companies to refrain from handling publications of which he disapproved.

"The defendants," he said, "have the right of every citizen to come into court with complaints, but they have no right to impose their opinions on the book and magazine trade by threats of prosecution if their views are not accepted."

BORAH, IN ADDRESS, ASSAILS PROPOSED DRY REFERENDUM

PLAN OF BUCKNER SEVERELY CRITICIZED

Wadsworth Declares Ratification Was Made Without Consent of People.

Senator Borah, of Idaho, in a speech in the Senate yesterday afternoon, in which he dealt with prohibition, vigorously urged that the eighteenth amendment be upheld by all loyal citizens until such time as the Constitution is changed and the amendment repealed or modified. He attacked all proposals for evading the eighteenth amendment and the violation of the Constitution, while that instrument remains as it is, as "treason," and insisted it was the duty of all good citizens to stand by law enforcement.

In the course of his remarks Senator Borah attacked the referendum proposal in New York. He declared it was proposed, through that referendum, to ask Congress "to violate the Constitution." He held that those back of this movement should "petition Congress to change the Constitution." He also criticized District Attorney Buckner's plan.

The speech of Senator Borah stirred up a stormy debate, with Senators Bruce, Broussard and Edge sharply dissenting from the views of the Idaho senator. The galleries were filled.

Duty to Obey.

Senator Borah, after reading the eighteenth amendment and quoting language of the Supreme Court interpreting it, said:

"It is the duty, so long as it remains in the Constitution, of the several legislatures, of Congress, the courts, public officials and individuals to obey it and to assist in enforcement.

"We are now engaged in a great campaign to find a way to evade the Constitution of the United States without seeming to do so.

"No one contends that those opposed to prohibition have not the right to change the Constitution or to carry on a campaign for that purpose.

"The point that I desire to stress is that so long as it remains a part of the Constitution, so long as it is unchanged, it is the duty of every citizen to adhere to it both in letter and spirit."

Senator Borah said no one could be criticized for seeking to amend the Constitution and he expressed doubt whether it was wise for the Federal government to take over the great body of police powers from the States as was done in the eighteenth amendment.

Senator Wadsworth also made the point that the amendment had been ratified without the people in different States having the opportunity to express themselves on it.

Cites Slave Law.

Senator Bruce reminded Senator Borah the Northern States would not enforce the provisions of the fugitive slave law. The two senators engaged in a spirited exchange and Senator Bruce pointed out the people of the North looked on slavery as "a deadly moral offense," and would not support fugitive slave legislation.

Senator Broussard engaged Senator Borah in a colloquy over percentages of beverages, Senator Borah insisted that what was sought was not nonintoxicating, but intoxicating drinks. He derided the idea that "all this hubbub is to get a little more nonintoxicating beverage."

Senator Edge replied briefly to Senator Borah.

"The trouble with the argument of the senator from Idaho," he said, "is that he proposes to decide what the Supreme Court may do, without permitting the Supreme Court to decide for itself.

"What I would like to see is an opportunity, at least, to find out just what the Supreme Court would do."

He contended the question of what percentage of alcohol makes a beverage intoxicating should go to the Supreme Court, and be settled by that tribunal.

Wayne B. Wheeler, general counsel of the Antisaloon league, issued the following statement last night:

"Senator Borah's denunciation of Mr. Buckner, charging that some of his utterances before the Senate judiciary committee were treasonable, will meet the approval of the friends of law enforcement throughout the country."

Wheeler Defense Body To Celebrate Victory

A "civic victory" dinner to celebrate the collapse of the government's case against Senator Burton Wheeler, of Montana, will be held tonight at the City club, under the auspices of the Wheeler defense committee. Norman Hapgood, chairman of the committee, will be toastmaster.

The principal speech will be delivered by Senator Thomas J. Walsh, of Montana, Wheeler's chief counsel during the prosecution. Charles A. Douglas, Washington attorney, also will speak. Senator Wheeler will be the guest of honor.

increase in number of patients admitted into a Massachusetts institution for inebriates since the Volstead act.

Gen. Andrews arrived at 10:20 o'clock and took his seat close to the 25-gallon still, set up in the committee room as an exhibit.

Mr. Codman said he desired to have the witness take up the question of illicit stills.

"That is one of your problems, is it not?" he asked.

"Yes, and becoming more so," replied Gen. Andrews.

The government record of seizures of stills was then read by Mr. Codman. In 1921 there were 95,933 illicit stills seized throughout the United States, in 1922 there were 111,155, in 1923 the number was 158,132, in 1924, 159,176, and in 1925, 172,537.

Percentages Differ.

"There seems to be a continual mounting of the number of stills seized annually," said Mr. Codman. "Is it a fair inference that the number of stills is increasing?"

Mr. Andrews admitted that it was a fair inference.

"I don't suppose," said Mr. Codman, "that you capture more than a certain percentage.

"An uncertain percentage," suggested the witness.

For capture of stills he was dependent upon local cooperation, he explained.

"Then in some places," said Mr. Codman, "where you do not get local enforcement, you get a very small percentage. Is that not so?"

"You know the answer to that as well as I do," replied Gen. Andrews.

"Sorry," said Mr. Codman, "but you are in charge of enforcement of prohibition and your opinion means a good deal to the country, whereas I am an inconspicuous person, whose opinion does not count."

Before the general answered, Senator Reed intervened in an apparent effort to get the questions and answers running more smoothly.

Not Interested in Small Ones.

"General, you will pardon me," Senator Reed said. "I want to be frank with you and I know you want to be frank with us." The senator from Missouri then sought to get Gen. Andrews' differentiation between the large or commercial still and the small still. The general said he was not interested in the small stills.

"Then there might be a great number of small stills about which you know nothing?" asked Mr. Codman.

"Yes."

"Millions of gallons might be produced in that way?"

"I think that may be true."

In Georgia, Mr. Codman said, reading from a record, there were 31,031 stills captured in 1925 and 20,400 in 1924. And in Tennessee, Florida, Virginia, Kentucky and Alabama there were a considerable, though smaller number of captures, he added. Gen. Andrews admitted the accuracy of the figures.

"That is a fact," was the reply.

"Where there are large industrial plants," added Mr. Codman, "stills are not needed. But where normal sources of supply are not available, moonshine and stills well up and fill the gap."

"That is exactly it," Gen. Andrews replied.

Attention was then directed to the still on exhibition.

Supply and Demand.

"I loaned it to the committee," Gen. Andrews said after Mr. Codman had said the general had been kind enough to loan it to him.

"In that way you prevented its employment while it was out of your possession," said Senator Reed with a smile.

Mr. Codman drew attention to some of Tuesday's testimony relative to the havoc wrought by home stills in the Pennsylvania anthracite coal mining districts and the tenement districts of New York. He asked if the demand for liquor among the people did not necessarily bring into being the home still.

"Where the demand exists, the supply appears, if possible," admitted Gen. Andrews. "This law of supply and demand exists in the bootleg trade as with every other merchandise."

"And you have neither the men, nor the equipment nor the appropriations to carry out the work of coping with the stills, isn't that true?

"That is true."

Mr. Codman called attention to the recent bill introduced into the Senate by Senator Goff and referred to as the administration's new enforcement measure. The bill asks congress to give authority for search warrants for locating stills in private dwellings.

"What type of still were you trying to reach?" he asked.

Defends Search of Homes.

"The commercial still which supplies the bootleg traffic."

"If a family has a still in the house and there is no evidence of sale, how would you get knowledge for the search warrant?

"We observe corn sugar and mash being brought into the house, we observe packages coming out. We use our sense of smell or maybe look in through the windows."

But Gen. Andrews added that he did not have the small still in mind. He admitted that the new law, if passed, would permit his agents to enter private dwellings, but said this would be a violation of his instructions.

"Have you issued instructions that your agents shall not go into private houses to see if liquor is sold?" asked Senator Reed.

Gen. Andrews said he had not issued such instructions, but that his policy was to concentrate on the big sources of supply.

"Pretty good for the hundred," interjected Senator Reed. "And if you get the big ones, you'll go after the little ones, won't you?"

"That's so far in the future," said Gen. Andrews, "that I can't say."

"How long in the future will that be?" asked Senator Reed jokingly and the witness did not answer.

Senator Reed wanted to know whether there would not be a temptation to agents to get into private dwellings or snoop around private houses if the law were passed.

"No," said Gen. Andrews, "I have discharged a man for wasting his time on matters such as that.

Mr. Codman then went from the question of agents entering private houses to the question of how many men with criminal records were employed to enforce prohibition. He quoted one prohibition official as stating that there is no reason why a man with a criminal record should not be employed in the prohibition department "if he has turned over a new leaf." Mr. Codman asked Gen. Andrews if he agreed with that idea.

"It is often done—that we use a man with connections in the underworld as an informer; not as an agent to make arrests."

"Haven't you found out in a number of instances that men were prohibition agents who had been convicts?" asked Senator Reed.

"Yes," replied Gen. Andrews. "That is, we found out later that they had been convicts."

"How do you get the information from informers?"

"We pay for information on contract. The underworld man comes in and offers it and we pay him if he delivers. Sometimes we make a contract for a week, sometimes a week is required for the work. Ordinarily a man comes in and says he has information and we pay him for bringing information."

"Now these people are from the underworld," said Senator Reed. "They're part of the criminal population of the United States."

"That's right."

No Warrants in Woods.

"Who goes out to check them up?"

"We act on their information. Our agents make raids."

"But before he raids he gets a search warrant, or does he raid without a search warrant?" continued Senator Reed.

"In the woods and in some places where there are stills, I don't think we get search warrants."

"Then you invade the premises of a citizen of the United States contrary to the Constitution, don't you?" asked Senator Reed.

"I don't know."

"How do you get into the premises to investigate without a search warrant?"

"There are usually plenty of obvious indications, plenty of evidence."

"Then why do you need to pay government money to criminals if there's plenty of evidence?"

Senator Harreld intervened at this point to say that search warrants are not necessary to enter a place and get a murderer. There was no difference between arresting a murderer or arresting a man for running a still, he argued.

"You had better look up the law," Senator Reed said to Senator Harreld, explaining that operating a still was not a felony.

Would Restore Respect.

"I'd make it one," said Senator Harreld.

"I believe you would," said Senator Reed. "Why don't you get out the old Magna Charta and the Constitution and burn them both?"

This brought a perceptible stir throughout the audience and the testimony of Gen. Andrews was resumed. The general said his policy was to "restore respect for law."

"Then respect for law has been impaired?" asked Senator Reed, and Gen. Andrews admitted that it had been. His policy he reiterated was against invading homes without just cause.

"Then are we to understand," said Senator Reed, "that the day has passed when prohibition agents can break down the doors of a private residence with axes and go in with guns and arrest the occupants?"

"I hope so," was the reply.

Senator Harreld again intervened to say he could not see why a search warrant could not be obtained if it was seen that liquor was being manufactured.

"We can't get a search warrant on view now," explained Gen. Andrews.

"Of course not," said Senator Reed, "the senator does not understand the distinction."

Mr. Codman then asked Gen. Andrews if cutting down diversions of alcohol would not drive the still into the home even more than at present.

Says Beer Would Help.

Asserting that in 1918 90 per cent of the alcoholic consumption in the United States was beer, Mr. Codman asked:

"Wouldn't a great many go without whisky if they could get beer of a low alcoholic content?"

"I presume they would."

"And wouldn't this mean a great many?" Mr. Codman asked. Mr. Andrew admitted that. Then Mr. Codman asked point blank if prohibition would not be more easily enforced if beer of low alcoholic content could be had.

Gen. Andrews wanted this question put very clearly and specifically before he answered it. It was finally reframed by Senator Reed who asked if prohibition enforcement would not be helped if the people could get "beer, distributed by government agencies, under government supervision, for home consumption and served in bona fide hotels."

"In my opinion, it would aid law enforcement," Gen. Andrews replied. He explained, however, that the matter of regulation would, of course, be important.

"How about light wines?" asked Senator Reed.

"I haven't any definite opinion about that," said the witness, "I haven't thought about it."

Mr. Andrews did, however, call the committee's attention to a discrepancy in section 29 of the Volstead act, which permits "Mrs. Smith to make elderberry wine, but prohibits Mrs. Jones from making dandelion wine."

Proper Regulation Added.

Section 29 exempts "fruit juices" which are not "intoxicating in fact," but may be much in excess of the one-half of 1 per cent alcoholic content. But it does not exempt plants or flowers. This matter, however, was not gone into by the committee.

Senator Reed showed particular interest in the statement by Gen. Andrews respecting the effect which giving the people beer would have on law enforcement. He took pains to restate the question clearly so there could be no misunderstanding of what Gen. Andrews had said.

"Now, let's see," he began. "Your opinion is that, in view of the bad quality of hard liquor now being sold, if a healthy beer could be manufactured—a beer that is nonintoxicating in fact with the average person—and distributed by the government under regulations and not allowed to be sold in saloons, public places or drunk on the premises, the people would take to drinking that beer instead of the vile liquors now being sold. You believe that this would be an aid to temperance and help law enforcement.

"On the other hand," continued Senator Reed, "for I want to state both sides of it, if you opened up the saloon again that might be a cover where the proprietor could slip illicit liquor to customers."

Senator Reed then reverted back to discussion of illicit stills. There were 172,000 illicit stills captured in 1925, he said.

"That means there were 172,000 violators of the law, does it not?" he asked.

500,000 Violators.

"That's true."

"There would be more than one person to each still, so we have some 500,000 persons violating the law. And how many would be engaged in distribution?"

Gen. Andrews hesitated about hazarding a guess. Senator Reed said the number he believed would mount to 2,000,000 if sellers of liquor, women and children who sell home-still products, were included.

Senator Harreld suggested that those who buy liquor be included.

"If you include those who buy liquor," snapped Senator Reed, "you'd have to run the number up to forty or fifty million."

Discussing the relation between the number of stills captured and the number actually in operation in the country, Senator Reed sought to obtain an opinion from Gen. Andrews as to what proportion of stills were captured in any year.

"You've got, let us see, 91 men to smell out all of New England and peep through the keyholes of the habitations. There are about 15,000,000 inhabitants in New England. Do you think that you get 1 still out of fifty. Now, honest injun, what is your opinion?"

"I couldn't say," replied the general. "It would be nothing but a guess but I think we get more than 1 out of 50."

"Well, do you think you get one out of ten?"

Sees Harm to Families.

"Very well," said Senator Reed. "You get one out of ten. Then 172,000 captured stills means there are some 1,720,000 stills operating in the country.

"The cold truth about the matter is that whereas there was no illicit manufacture of beer or whiskys in the United States to speak of before prohibition the people have now gone into the manufacture into their homes and there are 1,720,000 stills.

"Doesn't this bring the members of the family, women and children, into immediate contact with the manufacture of liquor?

"Of course it does," admitted Gen. Andrews.

"Isn't this utterly destructive to the members of American families?"

"It is undoubtedly injurious."

"Now, as a man, as a citizen, Gen. Andrews, isn't it your opinion that it would be better for the man to go outside and get his grog?"

This produced one of the many dramatic moments of yesterday's hearing. Gen. Andrews sat comfortably backward in his chair and looked at Senator Reed, whose countenance reflected his interest over the situation he had depicted.

Reed Compliments Witness.

And Senator Reed, instead of resenting the prohibition director's reply, complimented him for not answering.

Senator Reed had taken a standing position, facing the exhibition still. He began his demonstration of the ease with which liquor is made by asking Gen. Andrews if it was not easier to make liquor than to make good bread.

"You take cornmeal," Senator Reed began, "and pour some water in it and put in a cake of yeast or the process of fermentation starts up without the yeast and when fermentation starts alcohol is produced."

"The whole process," said Senator Reed, who now seemed to assume the role of demonstrator or professor of chemistry, "is to separate the alcohol from the cornmeal or mash before it turns into acid. The sole question is to get the alcohol out of that mash."

"Water does not boil under 212 degrees at sea level," the senator continued. "Alcohol," he added, "volitilizes at 180 or 90."

"All you have to do is to heat this mash to a point high enough to volatilize the alcohol over a slow fire and not start the water to boiling," added Senator Reed, using the still as a demonstration.

Mr. Reed then showed how the fumes are caught and turned back into a container where they become liquid alcohol.

"You can put a bath towel over a tea kettle," he said, "and when you wring the bath towel out you can get drunk on the contents.

Kettle and Towel.

"So, any person having a tea kettle, a little cornmeal and a bath towel can get drunk on it, can he not?" continued Senator Reed.

"I think so," replied Gen. Andrews.

"So, a common tea kettle can constitute a still?"

"I think so."

"And when you don't want too slow a process you take a wash boiler, like the one here, instead of a tea kettle. A man, in an ordinary wash boiler, can make gallons of liquor in a day, can't he?"

Senator Reed asked Gen. Andrews if he knew about the "Oregon still." The general said he did not. The marines use that still, the senator said, adding:

"What a marine doesn't know about getting whisky isn't worth knowing. I say this with all respect. They're good fighters and hard drinkers, all of them."

The Oregon still consists in first taking an ordinary camp pail, Senator Reed explained, showing a rough drawing of this kind of still.

"They set a couple of bricks under the pail, and if they can't get bricks they take rocks. Then they build a fire under the pail. They get another brick and set it inside the pail and they put the mash around it. They put the cover on the pail upside down. They heat the fire and if they are near town they put a chunk of ice on the lid, or otherwise some patient person pours cold water on the lid and the liquor drops off into a receptacle placed inside. Have you seen a still like that?"

C. S. Williams Called.

The exhibition still, seized by Washington police of the Eighth precinct, was next explained. It had a 25-gallon capacity and produced 5 gallons every three-hour run, or 40 gallons in 24 hours, it was explained.

Charles S. Williams, custodian of seized stills in the District, was called to the stand and sworn.

"Run with a reasonable degree of American efficiency and ingenuity," continued Senator Reed, "this still can produce 40 gallons a day. So that everybody who has a wash boiler and a little apparatus on top of it can produce 40 gallons a day?"

"Approximately," said Mr. Williams.

Pointing out that the outfit, including the boiler would cost about

WILSON SAYS ANDREWS WAS "MISUNDERSTOOD"

SPEAKS AT CONFERENCE

Special to The Washington Post.

Frederick, Md., April 14.—Five hundred ministers and delegates to the 142d annual Baltimore conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church attended the first business session here today. Following the appointment of secretaries and committees a memorial service was held for the late Revs. Walter G. Trauty, J. Paul Wright, John W. Smith, Dayton B. Miller, Gustavus W. Hobbs, Edwin H. Smith, J. Edwin Amos, C. Herbert Richardson, D. Benton Winsted and Harry D. Mitchell, who died in the last year.

Five deaconesses, Misses Doris M. Davis, Ruth Fuessler and Dorothy B. Richardson, Baltimore; Mary Ela Keniston, Washington, and Anna M. Schautz, Frederick, were consecrated. Miss Irene Worrell, Baltimore, was ordained minister and licensed to preach. She is the first woman ordained to preach in the Baltimore conference.

Bishop W. L. McDowell, Washington, delivered an address before the Kiwanis club. Dr. J. B. Hingeley, Chicago, told the pension and relief fund board that more than $3,000,000 was paid to 8,330 pensioners of the church last year, against $600,000 in 1908.

The Rev. Dr. Clarence True Wilson, corresponding secretary of the board of temperance, prohibition and public morals, said prohibition had been weighed and found difficult. He recommended prison terms for first offenders. Places where liquor is sold, he declared, should be padlocked and aliens violating the "dry" law should be deported.

Dr. Wilson said First Assistant Secretary of the Treasury Andrews, in charge of prohibition enforcement, had been misunderstood.

"Andrews is as dry as I am. We both believe that the government should take over all the bonded liquor and dispense it under government regulations for medicinal and sacramental purposes and not as a beverage."

COOLIDGE RENAMES 3 TO LABOR BOARD WHEN TERMS EXPIRE

President Names Higgins, Hooper and McMenimen to Rail Body.

MAY LEGISLATE GROUP OUT OF EXISTENCE

Bill Now Pending May Shorten Incumbency of the Members.

President Coolidge yesterday renominated Samuel Higgins, of New York, representative of the managerial group; Ben W. Hooper, of Tennessee, representative of the public group, and Walter L. McMenimen, of Massachusetts, representative of the Labor group to be members of the Federal railway labor board.

Their terms expire today, and while they are renamed for a full term it is expected that the labor board will be legislated out of office within the next fortnight when the pending so-called "railway peace bill" is passed by the Senate, where already 72 members are pledged to vote in its favor. This bill specifically replaces the railway labor board by a mediation commission of five members who become the fact finding body to pass upon all disputes between the railroads and their employes which cannot be settled by divisional group conferences.

Bill is Opposed.

In connection with the new commission, the bill creating which is being opposed by the National Association of Manufacturers and certain organizations of farmers, it is considered certain that it will be composed of men who have had no connection with railway disputes in the past.

When the opposition to the pending bill was concentrating in the House, where it was passed by an overwhelming majority, an effort was made to have the bill amended so that the mediation commission would be made up of members of the existing labor board and would take over all of the machinery of that body including its experts.

Both the railway management and the brotherhoods refused to consider such a proposal on the ground that the labor board had forfeited the confidence of both sides and it would not furnish the machinery which will be absolutely necessary if the proposed peace plan is to work out along the lines which both sides believe certain.

Privates Need Not Pay Charges of Hospital

Privates and non commissioned officers may be hospitalized at the government hospital for the insane, St. Elizabeths, without subsistence charge, according to the ruling of R. L. Golze, solicitor of the general accounting office, made public yesterday.

This question arose over Sergt. Patrick Joyce, retired, U. S. A., who has been hospitalized at St. Elizabeths. Commissioned officers have had to pay the subsistence charge of $1 per day, but Mr. Golze ruled that there was a difference between officers and enlisted men, the latter coming under the heading of "those belonging to the army, navy, marine corps or revenue cutter service" shall be entitled to hospitalization in government hospitals without charge.

Davis Recommends Transfer of Road

Secretary of War Davis has recommended transfer of jurisdiction over Conduit road in the District from the army chief of engineer's office to the District commissioners.

He states in a letter to Senator Capper that the road is a public highway through a section developing rapidly. Stating that the road was originally built for repairing and maintaining the aqueduct and that its cost of maintenance has been charged against District water revenues, he believes it is only fair that it be placed on the same basis as other city thoroughfares and recommends favorable congressional consideration of legislation providing for the transfer.

Naval Court Named To Try Lieut. Reifel

Members of the court-martial to try Lieut. William M. Reifel, U. S. N., at Hampton Roads, Va., accused with Commander Louis J. Gulliver of negligence and inefficiency in connection with the grounding of the collier Orion, off the Virginia capes December 2, are Capt. William H. Allen, Commanders William C. I. Stiles and Bruce R. Ware, Lieut. Comdrs. Joseph M. Deem, Thomas S. McCloy, Lyell S. Pamperin, George S. Gillespie and Benjamin H. Lingo.

Hearings of the charges against Commander Gulliver are ended, but no verdict has been announced. The Orion with a coal cargo left Hampton roads in a hurricane and practically broke in two a short distance off the capes. Commander Gulliver was charged with running the vessel in water not deep enough to prevent her striking bottom. His defense was that abnormal tides caused the accident.

WORK RECOMMENDS DECREASED ANNUITIES

Lower Scale Suggested in Letter Written to Senator Stanfield, of Oregon.

COMPROMISE IS EXPECTED

Considerably lower annuities than those proposed in pending bills to liberalize government employes' retirement were recommended yesterday by Secretary of the Interior Work.

In a letter to Senator Stanfield, of Oregon, the Secretary of the Interior recommended a scale of annuities having a maximum of $960 as compared with present maximum of $720 and the maximum of $1,200 proposed in pending bills.

Secretary Work also recommended compulsory retirement at 70 years for all employes and optional retirement at 65 years for all classes. Under the House bill the optional retirement ages would be 60, 62 and 65 years for the three specified classes of employes, while under the bill agreed upon by the Senate civil service committee, but not yet formally reported, there would be only two classes with optional retirement at the ages of 62 and 65.

The Secretary recommends that the employes' contribution be held to 3½ per cent as compared with the present 2½ per cent and the 4 per cent proposed in the pending bills.

His recommendations are believed to reflect the compromise which has been suggested by the White House, but did not meet with general favor by those at the Capitol who have been sponsoring liberalized legislation for the employes.

charged. "He made Mr. Fenning. He has made a certain congressman whom I could name if I chose to do so."

Three Vote to Proceed.

Mr. McLeod, Representative Reid, of Illinois, and Representative Gilbert, of Kentucky, were the only ones voting to proceed against Mr. Blanton's will. Mr. Gilbert is aiding Mr. Blanton in the fight, however, and was out of the room when the "whitewash" angle was developed.

Representative Keller, of Minnesota, told Mr. Blanton that he realized the obstacles he was up against, reverting to his experience in seeking to impeach former Attorney General Daugherty. Representative Underhill, of Massachusetts, said that in view of the serious charges that had been made against the commissioner he could not understand why the commissioner himself has not been more active to get an investigation. He said he believed such an inquiry, however, should be, by a wholly impartial committee named by the Speaker of the House.

Sargent Declines Comment.

Attorney General Sargent, appearing at the Capitol in connection with the resolution of Senator Walsh (Democrat), of Montana, seeking to learn whether the department plans to prosecute G. B. Mays for perjury in connection with his testimony against Senator Wheeler, of Montana, refused to discuss the Fenning case.

The movement capable of holding up Maj. Gordon's confirmation is intended as a lever to force an investigation of Mr. Fenning. It turns on the theory that Mr. Fenning has violated a law which the United States attorney could or should prosecute.

Mr. Rankin said that he knew of no abuses of the guardianship practice in the State courts and that he planned to insist that all reported abuses, upon which sponsors of remedial legislation are moving, be aired fully before the veterans' committee.

He will insist especially that the local charges be investigated, he said.

VOTE ON ITALIAN DEBT AGREED FOR WEDNESDAY

Senate to Vote on Settlement of Loans Made During World War.

BORAH READY TO FIGHT

(By the Associated Press.)

An agreement to vote on the Italian debt settlement next Wednesday at 4 p. m. was reached yesterday by the Senate.

Administration leaders are confident that the House bill approving the settlement worked out by the American and Italian debt commissions last summer will be passed. Opponents hope to be able either to send it back to committee or reject it outright.

An effort was first made yesterday to obtain consent for a vote at 2 p. m., Saturday, but Senator Reed, Democrat, Missouri, objected, with the declaration that he regarded the settlement as a "species of intolerable grand larceny." Later he declared that if the agreement were approved the people would repudiate the action of Congress.

After this development there were cries of "vote, vote," with Chairman Borah, of the foreign relations committee, sitting poised and ready to take the floor to stave off immediate action. He finally arose and announced that while efforts to get an agreement were going forward he would discuss the proposed amendments to the Volstead act.

Meantime, Chairman Smoot, of the finance committee, in charge of the bill, reached a compromise with Senator Reed, and the proposal for a vote Wednesday was made. Some senators threatened to block it, but it finally went through with a provision limiting debate to 30 minutes for each senator, beginning at noon Wednesday.

FIELD HOUSE WORK MAY BE DEFERRED

House Committee Action Would End Controversy Over Park Structure.

Report that the House committee favors legislation deferring construction on a permanent field house for East Potomac park may settle the controversy over this matter.

Plans for the field house are being prepared and specifications will be ready in a few days. Bids will then be called for on the work to replace the temporary structure by the office of public buildings and public parks.

Construction was directed by Congress, which appropriated $50,000 and the money for it must be used or authorized before June 30, else the appropriation reverts to the treasury.

While the structure probably will identify its vicinity as a tourist camp and interfere with its further development for recreational purposes, the public buildings and public parks office must proceed with construction as authorized by Congress in spite of opposition to a permanent field house by the fine arts commission and other organizations.

No action has been taken by Congress on a resolution deferring construction and if none is forthcoming, construction must soon proceed.

House May Receive Farm Measure First

(By the Associated Press.)

Although the Senate agriculture committee had approved a farm relief bill and the House agriculture committee still is struggling with the problem, legislation may reach the floor of the House first.

Republican leaders of the House have informed Chairman Haugen, of the agriculture committee, that the House will give almost immediate consideration of any measure accepted, even if the bill is unacceptable to the administration, he was assured, there will be no effort to block a vote on it. The committee having closed hearings Tuesday night, will go into executive session to day and the chairman expects a bill to be reported before the end of the week.

Senate Passes Bill To Aid Highway Plan

The Senate yesterday passed a bill designed to assist the commissioners in the opening and closing of thoroughfares to carry out the highway plans. It also passed a bill authorizing the elimination of the Michigan avenue grade crossing and one changing the name of "The Trustees of St. Joseph's Male Orphan Asylum" to St. Joseph's Home and School.

The bill to eliminate the Michigan avenue grade crossing authorizes an appropriation of $275,000 for the project and the assessment of half the cost of removing the crossing against the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad.

BROWN NEW CAPTAIN OF COOLIDGE YACHT

SUCCEEDS CAPT. ANDREWS

The new commander of the presidential yacht Mayflower is Capt. Wilson Brown, jr., whose appointment to succeed Capt. Adolphus Andrews as Mayflower commander and naval aid to President Coolidge was announced from the White House yesterday, following a conference between the President, Capts. Brown and Andrews.

The vacancy in the yacht command is created by the departure of Capt. Andrews for Geneva as a naval expert at the preliminary disarmament conference under the League of Nations auspices. Capt. Brown will assume his new command next week.

He was born in Pennsylvania, April 22, 1882, and appointed to the United States Naval Academy from New Jersey in 1898, graduating in 1902. Until his latest assignment he was senior aid to the commander of the destroyer squadron of the Pacific battle fleet.

He was stationed in Washington in 1922 and 1923 with the bureau of operations and plans, Navy Department, and was with it at the opening of the world war. During the war he commanded the destroyer Parker.

Capt. Andrews has commanded the Mayflower for more than three years, being with President Harding on his ill-fated trip to Alaska. Capt. Brown was awarded the Navy cross for patrolling service for convoys while in command of the Parker during the world war.

SARGENT BALKS WALSH'S REQUEST FOR TRIAL DATA

HOLDS QUERY IMPROPER

(By Associated Press.)

Refusal of Attorney General Sargent to answer several questions asked by Senator Walsh (Democrat), Montana, balked the Senate judiciary subcommittee late yesterday in its consideration of the Walsh resolution for information regarding the prosecution of Senator Wheeler (Democrat), Montana, last summer.

The resolution "directs" the Attorney General to inform the subcommittee regarding the expenses of conducting the prosecution of Senator Wheeler on the charge that he acted illegally in connection with oil land leases, and whether the Department of Justice plans to institute perjury proceedings against George J. Hayes, attorney, of New York, and prosecution witnesses at Great Falls, Mont.

Mr. Sargent's refusal was based on the ground that the resolution was improper and the information desired by Senator Walsh should not be disclosed, because publication "would be incompatible with the public interest."

Referring to data regarding two witnesses who, the government contends, would have corroborated Hayes' testimony that he met Senator Wheeler in New York and was asked by him to become associated in obtaining land permits, Senator Walsh asked Mr. Sargent whether he had a copy of that data with him.

"I have not," answered the Attorney General.

"Will you tell us the names of those two persons?"

"Can I or will I?"

"Can you?"

"Yes."

"Will you?"

"No."

Finally the Attorney General said he would not furnish the information Senator Walsh wanted until the Senate asked for it.

THE RESULT IN ILLINOIS.

Senator McKinley's defeat in the Illinois primary is attributed to his vote in favor of adhesion by the United States to the so-called world court. His opponent, Col. Frank L. Smith, based his campaign upon the world court issue. The vote indicates that the great majority of Republicans in Illinois are opposed to American adhesion to the court protocol, with or without reservations. Apparently the Illinois Republicans did not divide on the liquor question.

George E. Brennan was nominated for United States senator by the Illinois Democrats. Apparently the world court issue was not discussed by Democrats. They nominated Brennan because he stood on a "wringing wet" platform.

How will the campaign between Smith and Brennan shape itself? What will be the great issue in Illinois?

If there were any danger of the United States involving itself with the league of nations through adherence to the world court, and Brennan should take the position assumed by Democrats in favor of "joining the court," Smith might win the election, in view of the fact that Illinois is a strong Republican State. But the probability of the United States adhering to the court is now quite remote, and perhaps before November the question will be removed from domestic politics. The league of nations opposes the Senate reservations, and at the September meeting of the league this opposition will probably result in decisive action. Several governments, it is said, stand ready to interpose objections to the conditions imposed by the Senate.

Forty-eight governments have signed the world court protocol and all but eleven of them have ratified it. If any one of the 48 governments should refuse to accept the American conditions, the President would be unable to attach the signature of the United States to the protocol.

At Geneva it appears to be taken for granted that the league of nations will evolve a proposal to be submitted to the United States, embodying modifications of the Senate reservations. Perhaps the proposal will take the form of another protocol. But President Coolidge has strongly intimated that he regards the Senate's action as final. He approved of the reservations and declined to send a representative to Geneva to discuss or explain them. The attitude of the United States government is that unless all the nations supporting the court accept the reservations as they stand the United States will not ratify the protocol.

The "wet and dry" question is an issue in Illinois as well as in all other States. Col. Smith was indorsed by the Antisaloon league and presumably will champion the dry cause. The State-wide referendum, resulting in a strong majority in favor of 2.75 beer, has created the popular impression that Illinois is a wet State, but the prohibition leaders advised their followers not to vote in that referendum, and no one really knows how Illinois stands on the liquor question.

Many wet Republicans will doubtless vote for Brennan because he is a wet, and will ignore the world court question. On the other hand, the intense interest in the election will probably induce Republicans and Democrats to stick closely to party lines; and if the world court question should become an issue, Smith would hold an important advantage over Brennan.

He isn't a born politician unless he thiuks the first person singular is unanimous.

REINDEER MEAT COMING?

It is scarcely more than 35 years ago that reindeer were first introduced into Alaska. The question as to whether the first importer was Capt. Conrad Seim, then representing the interests of a trading company, or Dr. Jackson, of the bureau of education of the Department of the Interior, is unsettled. Capt. Seim, now a resident of Washington, made the claim that he brought the first reindeer from Siberia into the Territory several years before the government undertook the task of stocking the moss fields with the animals.

However, no matter who was responsible, the fact remains that the introduction of reindeer into the northernmost possession of the United States has been followed by an enormous increase. It was believed that the distribution of the animals among the natives and the dissemination of information as to breeding, care and marketing of the products of the herds would serve to solve the problem of feeding and caring for the natives. But the lack of transportation facilities from the sections of the great region where the animals are most numerous has made it impossible for the herd owners to maintain themselves and their families upon their herds. Now it has been decided to organize several big drives with the object of transferring the animals to feeding grounds nearer the Alaska railroad, so that instead of being compelled to market his meat among the natives the educated herd-owner will be afforded the opportunity to take advantage of the better market conditions outside.

It is expected that during the summer more than 50,000 of the Alaska reindeer will be driven, in herds of 2,000 each, to better locations, and that the Eastern markets next winter will be supplied with reindeer meat to a much greater extent than ever before.

It is probable also that the drive will serve to revive the interest of the Canadian government in the plan for increasing its meat supply by creating a great herd in the Canadian northwest. Premier Borden during his term of office had become deeply interested in the idea and was negotiating for the purchase of an initial herd when the world war upset his plans. Reindeer hams and steaks may yet become common in American markets; but if any householder thinks that the result will be cheaper meat—well, the reindeer trust may have something to say about that.

TRAFFIC CHANGES.

Traffic Director Eldridge is open to suggestions. In fact he is anxious to receive the ideas of any citizen or resident of Washington who can aid in simplifying the traffice code. The commissioners are of the opinion that there are far more arrests for minor violations of the traffic laws than are necessary for the safety of the public. They have intimated broadly to the director that they are not adverse to a let-up in the activities of the police in their laudable desire to make the public, and especially the motoring public, live up to the regulations.

The traffic code is a new departure in the administration of the affairs of Washington. Naturally the inauguration of a new mode of procedure in the regulation of the use of the streets has caused more or less impatience and complaint. The adoption of similar codes in Chicago, New York, Buffalo and other large cities was followed by just such impatience on the part of the users of the streets, pedestrians and drivers alike. But it would appear that in no other city have the police made such a record for efficiency in enforcing the law.

The commissioners have started the traffic director in the direction of a code revision which will, it is hoped, bring about a better understanding between the public and the traffic director without impairing the safety of those who use the thoroughfares.

Constructive suggestions will be thankfully received and carefully considered by Mr. Eldridge and the commissioners. Now is the time for amateur traffic experts to prove their genius.

There are South American Indians that destroy their young, but they don't do it in the name of speed.

MINE BLASTS.

Chief Engineer George S. Rice, of the bureau of mines, reports that good ventilation is one of the most important means of preventing mine explosions. This fact has evidently been overlooked, since at least 60 per cent of the big explosions have been caused by the ignition of gas which, in turn, has ignited coal dust.

Extensive mine explosions have averaged less than ten a year during the last quarter of a century. Many minor explosions have taken place as frequently in anthracite mines as in bituminous mines.

No coal mine is free from the possibility of encountering gas. Ignition of gas is prevented by the use of explosion-proof machinery, permissible explosives, permissible miners' lights, and the maintenance of rigid discipline. Mr. Rice adds:

> Nevertheless, so long as men are forgetful or careless in the use of open flames, so long as there is a possibility of machinery or materials failing, systematic ventilation will remain a most important safeguard in preventing explosions of gas.

Coal mining is a most hazardous employment; and this the mining companies realize. Despite all precautions by both employers and employes despite all protective laws and regulations for the safety of life, there are bound to be mine explosions. The problem is to minimize the danger and protect and save human life. The bureau of mines is ever watchful in this direction.

Those who claim that the present duty on Cuban sugar is the cause of the recent financial disturbance in Cuba, and that sugar would be cheaper to the American consumers if the import duty were lowered or abolished, will be interested in the statement made March 18, 1926, by the president of the American Sugar Refining Co., the largest owner of Cuban sugar plantations. The president of this company stated that it made a profit of $3,000,000 last year on its Cuban investments. The president of the Cuba Cane Sugar Corporation stated at its last annual meeting that if the American tariff were removed his company would make $12,000,000 a year. At the same time, the retail price of sugar in the American markets is 5 cents a pound.

We seldom want what we think we want. Since Mitchell got the air he hasn't used it much.

CONSOLIDATION OF RAILWAYS.

In the transportation act of 1920, sections 4, 5 and 6 provide that the Interstate Commerce Commission shall prepare a plan for the consolidation of the railway properties of the continental United States into a limited number of systems; the consolidation being such as to make the cost of transportation between competitive systems practically the same, rates uniform in the movement of competitive traffic, and earnings substantially the same as before consolidation.

The Interstate Commerce Commission employed a distinguished economist to work out a tentative plan as provided in the act. At the end of a year the commission began the consideration of the tentative plan and held hearings lasting more than two years. Since the hearings were closed the commission has been engaged in the effort to agree upon a plan.

Failure to agree is due largely to the interpretation of the 1920 act, which appears to require a consolidation into a single ownership of the railways which are to constitute any given system. This turns out to be an almost insuperable obstacle.

The Cummins bill, reported from the Senate interstate commerce committee, provides that the commission shall be relieved of the duty imposed upon it by the 1920 act for five years, and that the railways shall voluntarily apply for leave to consolidate, such plan of consolidation to be effective when the Interstate Commerce Commission accepts it.

The bill recites that the public interest requires adequate transportation service, and that such service is impossible without further consolidation of the railway properties. The general provisions of the 1920 act, relative to the objects to be attained by such consolidations, are preserved.

To those who are inclined to question the wisdom of Congress in "aiding the railroads and not the agriculturists" and in "guaranteeing to them a certain income," it is well to state that a brief survey of the railways of the United States shows that the mileage and properties are owned by about 1,500 and operated by about 1,000 different companies.

About 190 of these companies belong to Class I, having a gross operating revenue of $1,000,000 or more. The remainder have a gross operating revenue of less than $1,000,000. The railways of the United States with their properties constitute about one-third of all the tracks and facilities in the world, and move every year more than one-half of the railway freight in the world, and about one-half of the passengers.

Class I railways as a whole have net earnings of about 5 per cent on the capital invested. Class II railways earn barely operating expenses; while many of Class III railways lose money. Seventy in Class I earned less than 3 per cent. The railways are obliged to spend from $750,000,000 to $1,000,000,000 annually in betterments and extensions to meet the demands of commerce.

Obviously consolidation is necessary, making a saving of about $500,000,000 each year. This saving, or most of it, can be applied to reductions in freight and passenger service.

One good way to insure some exercise is to place the garage at the very back of the lot.

SECURITY AND COMMERCIAL LOANS.

From the end of December, 1925, to the end of March, 1926, the volume of Federal bank loans secured by stocks and bonds in the leading cities declined about $450,000,000, a reduction amounting to more than 40 per cent of the increase in this class of loans during the entire preceding year.

Total loans made by Federal Reserve member banks in New York city declined from $3,139,000,000 on February 17, 1926, to $2,573,000,000 on March 31, 1926—a drop in six weeks of $566,000,000, or about 18 per cent.

At the same time there was an increase in the demand for commercial loans. These loans reached a level near that reached last autumn, when commercial loans were the largest in four years.

This decline in security or speculative loans and increase in commercial loans is a healthy sign. It indicates that the credit and funds of the Federal reserve system are flowing into legitimate commercial channels. Money loaned on stocks and bonds does not create wealth, while money or credit loaned on commerce and industry creates wealth and helps swell the wage-fund of the nation.

Ladies may have their hair shingled, but they can't make their ears stand out in that fine, manly way.

EXTENDING RAILROAD DEBTS.

The Treasury holds railroad securities valued at more than $300,000,000. It is proposed to extend or refund about $304,000,000 of these obligations owing by 53 roads, fixing the time of payment at 33 years and the rate of interest at 4½ per cent.

This extension of the debt is to be granted only to those railroads unable to obtain credit and unable to pay what they owe the Treasury. Secretary Mellon says:

> I consider it sound public policy not to extend these government loans beyond their terms except in cases where the carrier has no prospect of obtaining private credit.

The Treasury also has on hand agricultural securities valued at about $113,000,000, in the shape of stock of the Federal land banks and intermediate banks, and Federal farm loan bonds.

SENATOR BORAH'S RADIO BILL.

Senator Borah's radio bill provides for three radio commissioners with power to classify radio stations and operators, prescribe the nature of the service to be rendered by each class of stations, assign wave lengths, and to regulate all other radio service.

The three commissioners appointed by the President must be confirmed by the Senate. Each commissioner shall have no other business and shall receive a salary of $10,000 a year.

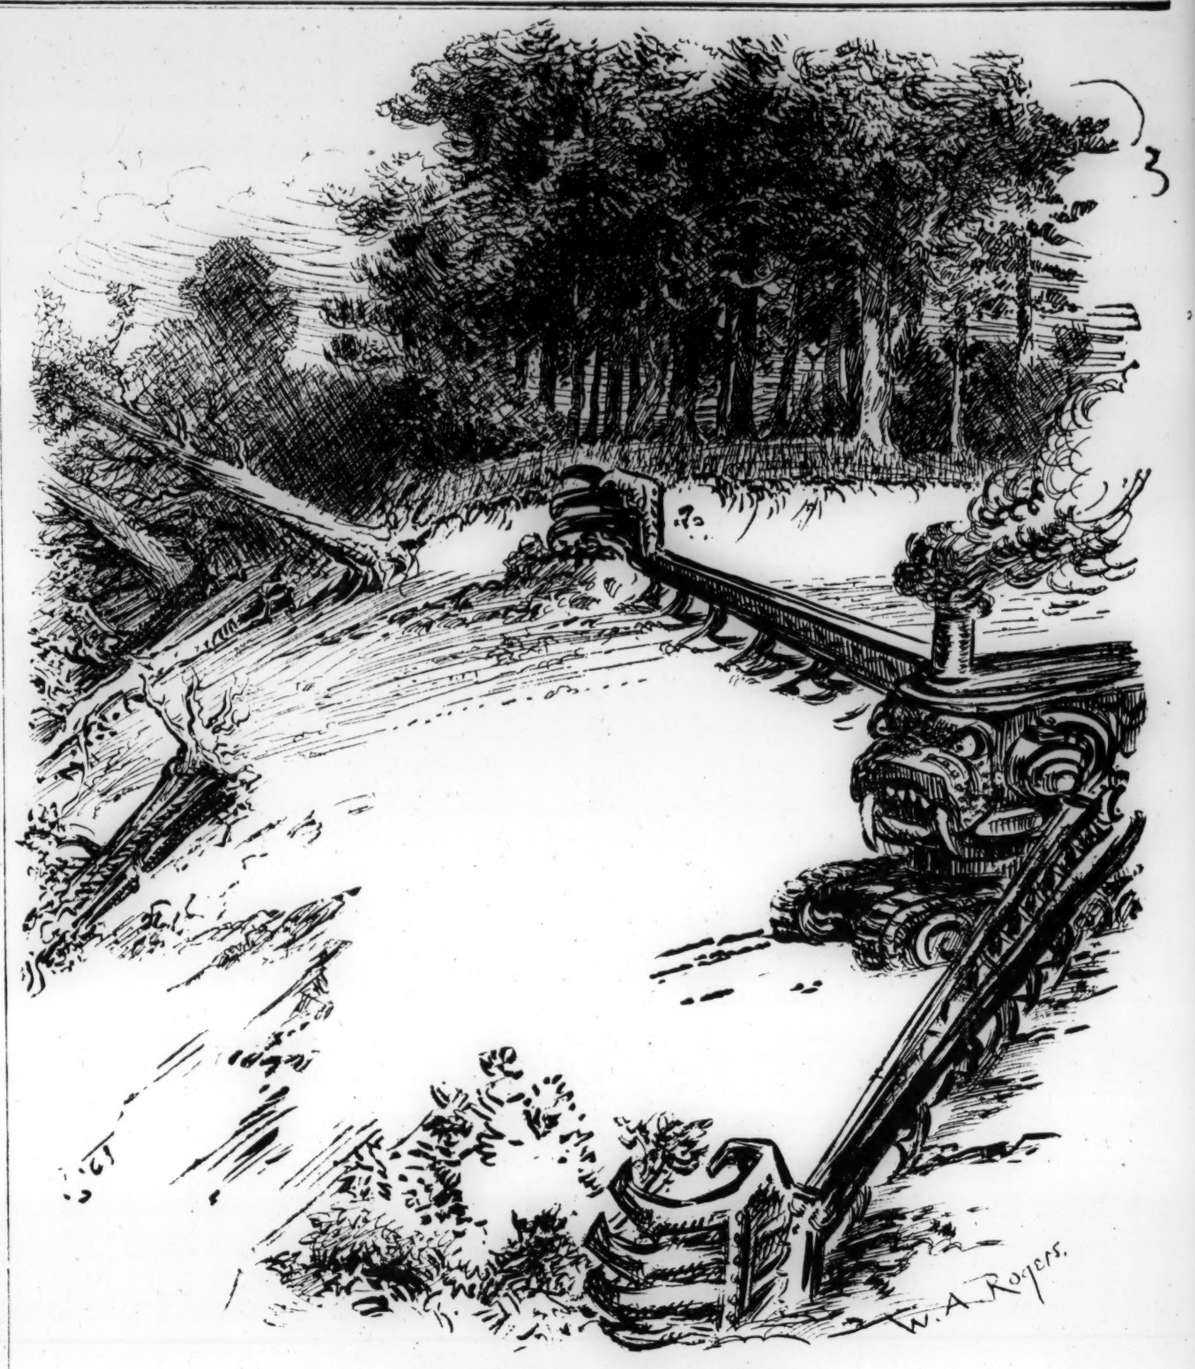

An important section of the bill provides that the radio commission shall have jurisdiction concurrent with that of the Federal Trade Commission under the provisions of the anti-trust laws, the Federal trade commission act and the interstate commerce act, in so far as such provisions apply to the transmission of radio communications.

The Worst Joke I heard today was told to me by Kenneth Roberts, of Washington, D. C. He is the man that I know all of you have read his stuff in the Saturday Evening Post. He can write entertainingly on anything. He even wrote on Florida and California.

Roberts told me a yarn. A Restaurant keeper of a small Cafe leased the back of his one-sheet Menu Card to a second-hand Car dealer who had a place right across the street from the restaurant. A man rushed in one day in a terrible hurry, put on his glasses right quick, and hollered out the following: "Bring me a Chalmers salad, Sedan spinach, Two Studebakers on toast, some fried Chevrolet, an order of whole wheat Buick, and say, have you got any Ford Pie?"

PRESS COMMENT.

Bonehead Laws.

Baltimore Sun: "The laws need teeth." Alas! there is too much ivory in most of them now.

The Farm Bill.

Philadelphia Ledger: The corn belt farm-relief bill has been approved by the Senate agriculture committee. It is a weird measure with weird history. The thing is the 1926 version of price-fixing and is so much warmed-over McNary-Haugenism. The first idea was to relieve the corn grower by naming a twelve-member farm board, salary $10,000 yearly with expenses, and a farm advisory board of sixty at $25 per diem and expenses. There is a proposed Federal "loan" of $250,000,000 for all these gentry to handle. The "loan" is to be repaid from "equalization charges." At first these were to be levied against corn. Then somebody remembered that 85 per cent of all corn grown is fed on the farm. So the charge is now to be levied against hogs, cattle and wheat. At present nobody has a clear idea of when, how and where said charges are to be levied. This bill may or may not pass the Senate. It will hardly pass the House, and should it get out of Congress, it ought to be welcomed by a blow from the veto ax squarely between the eyes.

Punk Publicity.

Cincinnati Enquirer: Still, Mencken may find, like the Countess of Cathcart, that some things are so punk the finest publicity in the world can't do much for them.

Hope Springs Eternal.

Detroit News: As is usually the case, the prediction that the next Congress will be Democratic is made by a Democrat.

Might Lose It if He Did.

Dallas News: Mr. Dempsey's position is, why should he fight for what he already has?

Axioms Need No Proof.

A Sure Deterrent.

Milwaukee Sentinel: Discussing the crime wave and its various phenomena, Maj. Lewis E. Lawes, warden of Sing Sing prison, says, "The most potent crime deterrents lie in the fear of prompt detection, followed by certain punishment." In that sentence Warden Lawes has gone straight to the root of the matter and pointed out perhaps the strongest reason for the increase of crime, particularly among the youth of the nation.

Busy All Day.

Troy Times: That flippant flapper, April, is still bobbing the thermometer in the early morning, but smiling cosmetically at noon.

No Place for Europeans.

New York Evening Post: Spain is engaged in moving several mountains of tradition, diplomacy and international politics in an effort to crash the gates of the Pan American union. It is not to be doubted that there are arguments for the inclusion of Spain in a group of nations with which she has so much in common—and wants more. In addition, the Spanish have gone to some pains to cultivate the good graces of the United States. One can not help admitting, however, that Spain would seem considerably out of place in the Pan American union; certainly as much out of place as Great Britain would be. International courtesy can go pretty far, but, after all, the union would scarcely be Pan-American with Spain a member.

Told What She Saw.

New York Times: An impartial student of the testimony before the Senate committee by representatives of friends and foes of prohibition probably would say that on both sides more opinion and desire had been presented than exact evidence. He would also have his doubts about the accuracy of the statistics coming from either source. He would not feel it unjust to suspect that in the selection of figures all of the witnesses had discriminated between those favorable and those unfavorable.

However, he would not hesitate to give full credence to what was said by Lieut. Col. Hamon, of the Salvation Army. She spoke only of what she and her immediate associates had seen in going about among the very poor in New York city. She did not claim to know how prohibition was working all over the country. She only knew and said that in pre-Volstead days 50 per cent of the help given to people in their homes had been made necessary by drunkenness, while now the inebriate cases had fallen to 1 per cent. The once numerous calls for clothing for children, she declared, were no longer coming in.

In other words, conditions as and where Col. Hamon sees them have improved noticeably as regards the women and children of the poor in this city, and they have not suffered in the ways asserted by some of the wet advocates.

New Songs.

Philadelphia Inquirer: There is not much in the words of new songs that appeals to us. Finer sentiments seemed knocked for a row of goals. Imagine a "successful" composer today spilling his own story of "I met my love on the Alamo." His version of it would probably be: "I lamped my redhot mamma way down, way down, in Texas."

A New God for America

By GLENN FRANK

THE other day I wrote of a young man who had lost God, by which I meant that he had suddenly found his inner life in disorder because he found his conception of God changing.

In the March issue of The American Mercury, Herbert Parrish, a clergyman of the Protestant Episcopal Church, presents a paper suggesting that "what this country needs is a new God." He hastens to explain that by a new God he does not mean a God newly created, but a God newly understood.

When Mr. Parrish's obvious angling for a catchy title has been duly discounted, the justice and force of his plea become apparent. The life of a whole civilization may be colored and controlled by the notion its people entertain of God.

A God of vengeance may produce a blood-thirsty people.

A God of love may put the saving touch of graciousness into a civilization.

The picture America holds of God may have a closer relation than we think to the principles and the procedures of American life—political, social, and industrial.

One element that has so often entered into our notion of God—the element of vengeance—is plainly perilous. I cannot resist the temptation to pass on a vivid and valuable paragraph in which H. G. Wells paints with masterly effect the mischief the notion does.

Mr. Wells is writing of "that kind of miniature God the avenger, to whom the nursery-maid and the overtaxed parent are so apt to appeal." He says:

"You stab your children with such a God and he poisons all their lives.

"God bogey is a great conveninece to the nursery-maid who wants to leave fear to mind her charges and enforce her disciplines, while she goes off upon her own aims. But, indeed, the teaching of God bogey is an outrage upon the soul of a child scarcely less dreadful than an indecent assault. Many minds never rise again from their injury. They remain for the rest of life spiritually crippled and debased, haunted by a fear, stained with a persuasion of relentless cruelty in the ultimate cause of things.

"I see about me today many dreadful mental and moral cripples with this bogey God of the nursery-maid, with his black, insane revenges, still living like a horrible parasite in their hearts in the place where God should be.

"They are afraid, afraid, afraid; they dare not abandon a hundred foolish observances; they dare not look at the causes of things. They are afraid of sunshine, of health, of adventure, of science, lest that old watching spider take offense.

"The voice of the true God whispers in their hearts, echoes in speech and writing, but they avert themselves, fear driven."

If we are to protest the spiritual integrity of our children or of our civilization we must guard well and periodically purify our notions of God.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Law Enforcement.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: There are one or two things in connection with the women's conference for law enforcement that cause surprise and misgivings. One would presume from the title of the conference that its activities would embrace a broad and fair survey of law violations and point out possible remedies. Judging, however, from the press reports, more than 90 per cent of the proceedings concern little else than the Volstead act and lead one to suspect that the whole movement is merely propaganda in favor of prohibition under a rather thin disguise. A most sinister feature of the conference is the fact of the frequently repeated appeals that have been made that the churches should take up arms in what is purely a political fight—for prohibition has nothing whatsoever to do with Christianity—and thereby encourage the union of church and state. To the founders of our government this was always a most dangerous and undesirable tendency, against which they were, and all sincere lovers of law enforcement of the present day have always been, most strongly opposed.

Another circumstance that strikes the voteless bystander of Washington with amazement is the fact that this conference has discussed almost every topic under the sun except the one simple and obvious method by which law enforcement may be brought about. The only way to get real enforcement is to erase from the statute books all unenforceable laws—laws that are opposed to the fundamental ideas of the Constitution, and which are the offspring of narrow-minded factions vainly trying to regulate by force the most intimate and private details of our daily lives. Until such laws are repealed, all the wordy reports and high-sounding resolutions of the conference for law enforcement will continue to be, what they now are, "as sounding brass or a tinkling cymbal."

What's a Wastebasket For?

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Your editorial on "Newspaper Ethics" contains some plain statements in regard to the duties of those who write for the press with pen and scissors. Of course, the editors are responsible to a certain extent for articles appearing in their papers and communicators should not be offended if these experienced individuals put their stuff in the wastebasket, instead of in type, if they thought it wise to do so.

A doctor started a newspaper in Grafton, W. Va., some time ago while I was there as a printer and his first editorial was double leaded and contained the startling announcement that he was going to tell the "truth." The next day he published an article about a young couple's misbehavior at a ball with reflection on their personal appearance, &c. A couple of days later I saw the doctor-editor on the main street on crutches and he looked like he had passed through a sausage mill. Stuff that should have gone in the wastebasket came near putting the doctor-editor in the grave. He bought and paid for the lesson, on what to put in his paper, but he lost no time in getting out of that business.

Is Mussolini Building a New Italian Empire?

Mussolini, the Italian dictator, is trying to form an anti-German bloc of Italy and the Balkan States, it is charged by some German writers, and the chief purpose of this bloc would be to prevent the union of Austria and Germany.

There is probably no man living today who is causing more concern to the chancelleries throughout the world than Mussolini. He has been charged with having the ambitions of Caesar, and to fulfil his ambitions he would stop at nothing—so say his enemies.

That he has Jugo-Slavia's support is obvious, we are told, from the recently concluded treaty between Italy and Jugo-Slavia. What more, according to a special correspondent of the London Westminster Gazette, Mussolini's object in all the combinations he is engineering in Jugo-Slavia, Greece and other South and Central European nations, is to obtain at least the benevolent neutrality of his neighbors in connection with his great "Empire" projects in the Middle East.

A leading article in THE LITERARY DIGEST this week, in text and picture, gives an illuminating insight into the political turmoil in Europe. It brings out in sharp contrast all the opposing elements so that the average man will understand the situation clearly.

BURBANK'S BELIEF PRAISED BY LINDSEY AND HENRY FORD

Tributes Offered as Body of Great Horticulturist Is Laid at Rest.

MOST RELIGIOUS MAN SAYS DENVER JUDGE

Not an Infidel in Usual Meaning of Word, Motor Car Maker Asserts.

Santa Rosa, Calif., April 14 (By A. P.).—The body of Luther Burbank, first citizen of Santa Rosa, lay beneath the sod tonight with a cedar of Lebanon, planted by the great horticulturist many years ago, as a monument and headstone.

The burial was as simple as the daily routine in the cottage where Burbank lived and worked. Old friends and former fellow workers carried the coffin to the grave from the room where Burbank died. A few words were spoken informally by close friends, a song was sung, and the body was lowered to its final resting place.

The address delivered here today by Judge Ben B. Lindsey, of Denver, at the public memorial to Luther Burbank was both a tribute to and a defense of the horticulturist's religious beliefs.

"Luther Burbank was the most religious man I ever knew," Judge Lindsey said. "His was a real religion that actually works for human betterment—a religion that dares to challenge the superstition, hypocrisy and sham that so often worked cruelties, inquisitions, wars, and massacres.

Creator of Wealth.

"The prejudiced beneficiaries of organized theology, miscalled religion, refused to see that Burbank, the gifted child of nature, saw with a vision as crystal as theirs is dense, and dark. And so they assailed him.

"It is impossible to estimate the wealth he has created that has been given generously to the world. Unlike inventors, or workers in other fields, no patent rights were given him, nor did he seek a monopoly in what he did. Had that been the case Luther Burbank would have been the world's richest man. As it is the world has been richer because of him and in this he found a joy and satisfaction that no millions of money could give him.

"Luther Burbank lives forever in the myriad fields of strengthened grain, in the new forms of fruits, and flowers and plants and vines and trees and above all, the newly watered gardens of the human mind whence shall spring human freedom from those earthly fields that shall drive out God's false and brutal."

No Infidel, Says Ford.

Detroit, April 14 (By A. P.).—While the body of Luther Burbank was being laid to rest at Santa Rosa today, Henry Ford defended his friend against charges of infidelity.

Luther Burbank, Mr. Ford said, was not a disbeliver in the permanence of human spirit and not an infidel. His statement of his religious views, Mr. Ford added, "was ethier grossly misunderstood or misquoted by the press."

"I knew him well," the motor car manufacturer said. "I visited him often and frequently talked with him about the life of plants, of flowers and of the entities that go to make up our world and ourselves. And I know positively that there was in Luther Burbank a beautiful and abiding faith in the permanence of that which now lives, whatever form it may take.

"If he could not endorse the particular conception of the Deity and of the human spirit which some others held, it was perhaps because he had thought more deeply than some others had, or had approached the problem from a different angle. But he certainly was not an infidel in the sense of denying the ruling inteligence and power back of things."

Steel King's Suicide Laid to Ill Health

Cleveland, Ohio, April 14 (By A. P.).—Funeral arrangements for Price McKinney, former president of the McKinney Steel Co., who committed suicide yesterday afternoon, had not been completed tonight. McKinney shot himself at his country estate, Ridgemore Farm, Wickecliffe.

McKinney, 63, was many times a millionaire through his holdings in the McKinney Steel Co. and his interests in Mexican mining properties. He was also a director and reputed to be the third largest stockholder in the Continental & Commercial National Bank of Chicago. No motive for McKinney's action could be advanced beyond ill health.

SMITH VICTORY LAID TO COURT OPPOSITION

Funk (Republican), Seventeenth district, a McKinley supporter, who was beaten by the Smith landslide by Judge Homer Hall, of Bloomington.

Democratic nominations for representative-at-large are Frank J. Wise, of Joliet, and Charles A. Karch, of East St. Louis.

(By the Associated Press.)

Senator McKinley who returned here yesterday from Illinois after his defeat in the Republican primaries there yesterday, said he was "content" with the result.

"The people of Illinois have sent me to Washington for 20 years," he said. "In this primary I was recommended for renomination by all the Republican papers in Chicago. I was supported for reelection by nearly all of the daily down state papers. The only pronounced opposition that I know of was by the Hearst papers and by papers whose editors are on the State payroll of the Small-Smith combination. I was indorsed by nearly all of the church societies, women's clubs, and organizations of that character. "I thank my friends for their confidence in me. I am content."

Borah Sees Court Defeat.

Senator Borah's comment on the result of the Illinois primary follows:

"Illinois has indexed the sentiment in this country against the league court. It is easy to refine here in Washington, to discuss here the force and effect of reservations, but before the people this is a league court, dominated and controlled by the league. In other words, they exercise common sense. It is another instance of leaders understanding the intelligence of the voter. The people of this country are becoming impatient with this program of seeing how far we can get into European politics without letting the people know it.

"The Republican party would do well to consider getting back to the policies and principles upon which it was first nourished and under which it acquired its leadership and secured the confidence of the American people.

"The campaign against the court will go forward as promised immediately after the vote in the Senate. We have no intention of ceasing our efforts until the matter is settled in the forum from which there is no appeal—until it is settled and settled right.

Reed Blames Court, Too.

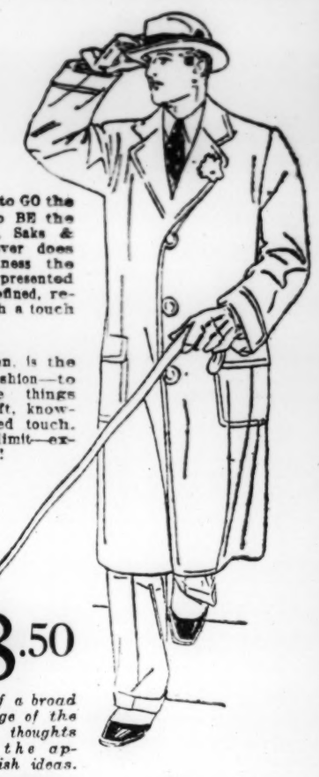

Senator Reed, of Missouri, opponent of the world court, said:

"The result in Illinois can be attributed to Senator McKinley's vote for the world court. Personally, Senator McKinley is popular in the Senate and in his own State. His campaign was abundantly financed and his forces well organized. He appealed to his regularity as a Republican and vigorously protested his loyalty to President Coolidge. Such arguments would naturally be very effective in a strong Republican State like Illinois. Clearly the voters are determined to adhere to the policies of Washington. They will not tolerate any interference with American rights by foreign powers. And they have no desire to interfere with the policies of other countries so long as our rights are not invaded. The American voter has not been inoculated with the damnable virus of internationalism."

HAIR TELLS THE STORY

It reveals your age—in more ways than one. Not only does it turn gray, often before the time, but it grows harsh, brittle, and loses its luster. There is a way to prevent this—just get a package of Canthrox from your druggist and treat your hair to this delightful shampoo. Dissolve a teaspoonful in a cup of hot water. This is enough to go all over the hair. It is most easy to use, is very economical, and the results of the rich, creamy lather will surprise you.

Canthrox has none of the objectionable features of soap, but on the contrary, has a most beneficial effect on the scalp. Use of it leaves your hair fluffy, lustrous, and colorful, and makes it appear more abundant than it really is. All good druggists keep this preparation which has been a favorite for many years. —Adv.

NORTHEAST PARADE TO HAVE NO CIRCUS OR BEAUTY STUNTS

Elephants and Clowns, Offered, Would Impair Dignity of Event, Directors Say.

STRIFE FEARED IF GIRLS VIE FOR PULCHRITUDE

Tentative Route for Procession on April 28 Announced; Nice Day Predicted.

No elephants, dogs, clowns or "beauties" will be allowed to participate in the parade and carnival of the Northeast Business Men's association, April 28, celebrating the new lights on H street northeast.

The door was officially closed to these unwelcome applicants by the general committee in charge of the event meeting in the Northeast Savings Bank, Eighth and H streets northeast, yesterday.

A circus offered to enter three elephants, two performing dogs and clowns in the parade but the committee turned down the proffer on the ground that it would be "undignified" and attract only street urchins. It was also pointed out that the circus was not a permanent institution in the Northeast and was not representative of Northeast business.

Beauty Loses 6 to 2.

The proposed beauty contest died hard, being defeated by a vote of 6 to 2. W. F. Smith, who championed the beauty contest, declared that he wanted more than just trucks in the parade and suggested that the contestants be limited to 25 girls, all of whom would be put on a truck—after the judges had decided on the winner, and thereby add to the beauty of the parade—which is to include milk wagons, ice cream trucks and the like.

Harry P. White, president of the association, atacked the proposed as ridiculous, pointing out that it would be the last thing in the world the girls would do—ride in the parade after losing the honors of beauty.

On the contrary, he pointed out, professional beauties who enter such contests as a regular thing, would take a joy in breaking up the show after the judges had chosen the winner. He also asserted that parents of the unprofessional girls would object to their daughters being used as advertisements for the Northeast business men.

More Enemies Than Friends.

Others who agreed with Mr. White pointed out that while they would make one friend, they would at the same time make enemies of all the girls who did not win in the contest. Mr. White opposed the beauty contest largely on the experience of the Columbia Heights business men with the same thing in their carnival on upper Fourteenth street last autumn, which he was told was not a success.

Clear, warm weather was promised for the event by the chairman of the committee, J. Hubert Newsom, who admitted that his weather prognostication was based on the almanac.

Five professional bands have been obtained for the parade and red lights are to be strung along H street, subject to the approval of the police department. Street dancing is being planned, subject to the same approval. The tentative route of the parade agreed upon yesterday follows: Starting from Fifteenth and H, west on H to North Capitol street, north on North Capitol to K street, east on K street to Fourth, south on Fourth to H and back on H street to Fifteenth street.

Editors Leave City On Extensive Tour

Latin-American editor-delegates to the first Pan-American Congress of Journalists, which adjourned Tuesday night, left Washington yesterday morning on a three weeks' tour of the Eastern States, as guests of the automotive industry, trade bodies and newspapers along their route.

Their itinerary includes Alexandria, Richmond, Norfolk, Annapolis, Baltimore, Philadelphia, New York, West Point, Schenectady, Utica, Syracuse, Rochester, Buffalo, Niagara Falls, Toledo, Detroit, South Bend, Akron and Pittsburgh, returning to New York May 9, where the party will disband.

Elevator Weight Hits Boy.

George Corcoran, 18 years old, of 1018 Thirty-fifth street northwest, yesterday was struck on the head by a falling elevator weight while working at 3289 M street northwest. He was taken to Georgetown hospital and treated for cuts and bruises on the head.

Coming to the Theaters

NATIONAL.

Frank Craven's comedy of the hardest period of married life, "The First Year," will be offered by the National Theater Players for the week commencing Monday night. The piece appeared here two seasons ago with the author in the cast. Here, as elsewhere, it played to heavy business. In New York it was designated a near approach to the great America comedy.

The play narrates the tribulations of a young married pair, the action beginning at the courtship stage and progressing through the honeymoon period, through the inevitable drab stage of getting down to earth and the climax to this adjustment which comes when the weeping bride deserts her husband and flees to the comforting capaciousness of mother's arms.

The piece is richly endowed with comedy and few scenes approach in comedy content the groom's short-lived debauch following his wife's desertion. A colored maid in the second act also bolsters the comedy.

John Warner will do the Craven role handled originally by Craven, and Leneta Lane will play the bride.

COLUMBIA.

Harold Lloyd will offer his latest laugh, "For Heaven's Sake," at Loew's Columbia, starting next Sunday afternoon. This is Lloyd's first comedy production for Paramount. The supporting cast includes Jobyne Ralston as leading woman, Noah Young, James Mason, Paul Wiegel and others.

"For Heaven's Sake" is the story of a millionaire clubman whose car, in passing through the slums one day, wrecks the coffee cart and curb-stone mission of Brother Paul, a beneficent old missionary, who is promptly given a check for $1,000 to cover the damages, and whose earnest desire to interest the young millionaire in his mission work is helped along by a glimpse of the missionary's pretty daughter, Hope.

Lured on by the smiles of the girl, the young clubman becomes friendly with every gangster and bum in the slums, though the process is comic enough, but not half so funny as when Harold's clubfellow friends kidnap him to prevent him marrying the girl and his slum associates rekidnap him when they learn the reason for his failure to show up at the wedding. In the end, though, love wins and the wedding of the millionaire and the missionary's daughter becomes historic in the slums.

An Our Gang comedy, "Buried Treasure," will be the added comedy offering of the program, while Screen Snapshots, showing the stars at work and play; the International Newsreel pictures and an orchestral embellishment will add to the bill."

PALACE.

"Monte Carlo," comedy based on the adventures abroad of three American girls who had won a newspaper beauty contest, will be presented for the first time locally at Loew's Palace by Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer for the week starting next Sunday afternoon.

Lew Cody has the central role of this picture. Others in the production are Gertrude Olmsted, Roy D'Arcy, of "Merry Widow" and "Beverly of Graustark" fame; Karl Dane, ZaSu Pitts, Trixie Friganza and Harry Myers.

"Monte Carlo" was written by F. Carey Wilson, author of "The Midshipman" and "His Secretary." Christy Cabanne staged the entire production.

Mr. Cody has the role of a gay young New Yorker who is being thrown out of the fifth of Monte Carlo's seven hotels at the moment the three American girls are arriving at the famous resort. Registering at the sixth hotel and sending his clothes out to be pressed, the young man escapes into the room of one of the American beauties, wearing only his BVD's, to find her in a bathing suit.

A Sennett comedy, "Whispering Whiskers;" the Pathe Newsreel, topics of the day and Tom Gannon's music will be other delightful features of the program.

GAYETY.

The present week, which is proving one of the greatest in attendance in the history of the Gayety theater, marks the closing of this popular playhouse for the regular season with the coming Sunday evening performance. Ed E. Daley's super black and white sensation, "Rarin' to Go," returned by popular demand, for this week's engagement. The present week completes the eighteenth year as a theater manager for Ira J. La Motte, manager of the Gayety theater, and he has made it an anniversary week at the Gayety. Mr. La Motte formerly managed the old Lafayette Opera house on Lafayette square, and the Shubert-Belasco theater, leaving to become manager of the Gayety theater. The attraction now at the Gayety theater will play an extra midnight show, beginning at 11:30 o'clock tomorrow evening. This is a double attraction, being virtually two shows in one, and played by a company of 70; the first half of the show being played by 35 whites and the second half by 34½ colored, the one-half being a colored midget. The white portion is headed by Billy Foster, a favorite Columbia comedian, assisted by Elmer Redmond and Joe Kilsch and Billy Gray.

EARLE.

The Great Nicola, master of illusion, mystery, legerdemain and prestidigitation will headline at the Earle theater next week, beginning Sunday at 3 o'clock. Nicola carries his own company and a complete production.

The extra added attraction will be supplied by Claire Vincent, supported by Frank H. Gardner and Blanche Lord in "An Etching From Life."

Other inclusions in the vaudeville portions will embrace Grace Ayer and Billy in an act designated thus "(?)." "The Country Club Girls" in "On The Links of Melody," self-explanatory; "The Runaway Four," also billed so, ? ? ? ? and Jules John Bernard and Marcelle, a dainty miss from Paris, in "Songs, Steps and Stories."

The usual features will, of course, be presented, including orchestral overture, pipe organ recital and short-reel film features.

The photoplay feature for the week will be "Whispering Smith," the title role played by H. B. Warner.

STRAND.

Next week, commencing Sunday afternoon, the Strand bill of vaudeville and picture attractions will be headlined by a revue of song and dance, a Cantor and Brandell presentation of Mabel Walzer and Her Boy Friends, in a "Miniature Musical Comedy." Fred Pisano and Jack Landauer will offer some rather pleasing comedy spiced with some good songs in their skit entitled, "Boom-Boom;" Eddie Cook, with Dorothy and Gladys Shaw, will offer a turn in song and dance entitled "A Smart Production;" Sammy Duncan, the Scotch laddie, with songs of the heather country and impersonations, will give a few of these pleasing bits in "The Pride of Bonnie Scotland," and Claude Decar & Co. will add the thrills and sensations to the bill in their "Pantomime Acrobatic Novelty."

The usual short film features together with orchestral numbers under the direction of Arthur J. Manvell, will complete the program.

WARDMAN PARK.

The Thomas Herbert Stock company announces "Tweedles," a comedy by Booth Tarkington and Harry Leon Wilson, for next week's production at Wardman, where they are now playing "The Circle."

"Tweedles" is a romance wherein the flapper members of two families plot against their marriage on the grounds that each family tree has better branches. Typical of Tarkington's satirical vein, he localizes this play on ancestors in an antique shop managed by the young lady whose family is obscure and who loves an aristocrat. Snobbishness runs rampant, until a social level is agreed upon between the families and brings about a happy ending.

Parker Fennelly, a proved actor for this type of comedy role, will play "Tweedles," supported by Ruth Russell, Leona Roberts, Judy Sevier Shelton, a newcomer; Ranald Savery, Joan Schelhaas, Thomas Herbert, director, and others of the company.

KEITH'S.

Miss Nora Bayes will headline the bill at Keith's theater next week, beginning with the Sunday matinee at 3:15 o'clock. Miss Bayes returns to B. F. Keith's theater after a year's absence.

The royal violin virtuoso, Duci de Kerekjarto will be featured for the week, with Maurice Eisner at the piano.

Wally Sharples will present Rae Parlow, Al Green, Dolly Manners, Jack Hughes, Kathryn McLaughlin and Eva Knapp in the new comedy with music, "Smile Awhile." The book, lyrics and music are by Bert Kalmer and Harry Ruby.

Jack Benny, the comedy violinist; the eccentric dancers, Stanley and Binres, and an offering by George Yoeman and Lizzie, "Information," by Eugene Conrad, are other numbers on the bill.

Harry, Leo and Buster Freehand will offer the thrills in "Perching the Perch." The fourth "Charleston" lesson will be seen, with Miss Virginia Bacon making personal demonstrations. The usual house features will complete the bill.

METROPOLITAN.

Harry Langdon will make his local debut as a star of feature-length comedy at Crandall's Metropolitan theater next week, beginning Sunday afternon at 3, in "Tramp, Tramp, Tramp," a new First National release. The auxiliary attraction will be the latest "Helen and Warren" domestic comedy-drama adapted to the screen by Fox from the stories by Mabel Herbert Urner, the new one bearing the title of "Moving Day." In addition to these offerings, the bill will embrace a new issue of the Metropolitan World Survey and special musical embellishments by the Metropolitan Symphony, under conductorship of Daniel Breeskin.

"Tramp, Tramp, Tramp" concerns the adventures of a love-sick young man who has become enraptured with the charms of a poster girl advertising under the slogan of "Walk With Me," a brand of shoes manufactured by her father. It happens that Harry Logan's father is one of the old-school cobblers who makes shoes by hand and stands a fine chance of being put out of business by his more powerful rival. The Burton Shoe Co. plans a stunt that is destined to make their footgear nationally famous—a cross-country hike from coast to coast in Burton shoes. Harry enters the race at the behest of Burton's daughter, the original of the poster he adores from afar. What happens after must be learned from the screen itself.

POLI'S.

Romance flares in the gorgeous production of "Princess Flavia," which opens for a single week's engagement at Poli's next Sunday night. Such splendor and color in costume and settings have scarcely been seen before, we are told, even in the ornate productions of operettas hitherto produced by the Messrs. Shubert. The critics of New York with practical unanimity declared "Princess Flavia" to be the most dazzling production of light opera thus far seen in the metropolis.

The musical score by Sigmund Romberg, composer of "Blossom Time" and "The Student Prince," is reliably reported to be the loveliest he has yet rendered. The book is by Harry B. Smith, author of "Robin Hood" and 50 other librettos, and is based upon Anthony Hope's world-read novel of love and adventure, "A Prisoner of Zenda."

RIALTO.

There has been no definite decision made by the Rialto whether John Barrymore in "The Sea Beast" will be held over for a second week's showing or not.

The announcement is made, however, that the picture succeeding "The Sea Beast" will be "The Still Alarm."

The story is an adaptation of the famous stage play of the same name by Joseph Arthur and A. C. Wheeler, which delighted theatergoers in bygone years.

The picture is said to be full of heart interest, thrilling scenes and excellent comedy which made the play a popular favorite.

MUTUAL.

"Smiles and Kisses" is the title bestowed upon one of the smartest and classiest shows of the Mutual circuit. It comes to the Mutual theater on Sunday next for an engagement of one week, with matinees every afternoon. The cast of principals includes Helen Byrd Russell, a gorgeous prima donna soprano; Blossom La Velle, a famous dancer; Irene Finley, a pert and pretty singing and dancing soubrette; Charles Goldie, an unctuous eccentric comedian; Forrest Tennan, tramp comedian, and Pat Kearney and Tom O'Neill, both excellent actors. A fast-moving chorus of pretty girls attractively costumed appear in handsome settings.

Harvard Glee Club.

The Harvard Glee club, in its annual tour, will stop in Washington Tuesday, April 20, and give its concert at the Masonic auditorium, in a program of chorals from the master composers. Tickets for this concert now selling at the T. Arthur Smith bureau, 1330 G street northwest.

Kansas City Official Praises Local Parks

Washington's parks were complimented by F. C. Sharon, president of the board of park commissioners, Kansas City, Mo., who inspected District parks yesterday.

Mr. Sharon was pleased especially with Rock Creek park, saying that the absence of rocks from Kansas City soil prevented the naturalness so attractive in Rock Creek park. Kansas City's park area is of practically the same extent as that of Washington.

Defendant Asks Court To Set Aside Order

Notwithstanding the fact that he was warned by Justice Siddons in equity court that there must be an end to the constantly recurring petitions and motions in a controversy over his alleged inability to see his children, Alexander J. Wedderburn, jr., patent attorney, filed another motion yesterday and demanded that the opinion and order containing the warning and other suggestions be set aside.

Wedderburn sets out 50 alleged errors on the part of Justice Siddons in connection with a memorandum opinion and order dismissing his last petition for a rule against his wife, Mrs. Lottie S. Wedderburn. He also says that the court was mistaken in statements in the opinion dealing with his attitude toward his wife and his motives in filing petitions for rules against her in connection with his complaint that he was not allowed to see his children.

CLAYTON ADVOCATES NEW UTILITIES BOARD

Members of Commission Would Have No Other Duties Under Plan.

Mr. Clayton appeared in connection with the commissioners' bill providing that property valuations made by the utilities commission be assessed against the utility applying for the valuation.

The bill to make the utilities bear the cost of valuations was vigorously opposed by W. F. Ham, president of the Washington Railway & Electric Co.; John H. Hanna, president of the Capital Traction Co., and representatives of the Washington Gas Light Co. Mr. Clayton said he did not see why the utilities objected to paying for valuations by the commission, inasmuch as they went to considerable expense to make valuations of their own.

Drinks Turpentine in Error.

Mistaking a bottle of turpentine for medicine in her home yesterday, Mrs. Alice Sinclair, 35 years old, 12 Fourth street southeast, drank a quantity of the liquid. After drinking the turpentine Mrs. Sinclair realized that she had taken the wrong medicine and called her husband, Charles Sinclair, who took her to Providence hospital. Her condition is not serious.

The First Anniversary Sale in Our New Store Will Be the Best Anniversary in Our Thirty Years

For 29 years our Anniversary Sales have been worth while. Washingtonians know this. But the Sale that's coming soon will eclipse them all. Naturally. We are a department store now. Where we formerly had 37 departments, we now have 83. Where we formerly employed 500 people, we now employ 1,300. Where we formerly had 55,000 square feet of selling space, we now have 160,000 square feet. Where we formerly had 15 delivery trucks, we now have 28. For a long, long time we have been working and planning for this event. Our buying staff has visited the markets of America and Europe in search of Spring and Summer wearables for men, women and children. In search of furniture and furnishings for the home. In search of novelties and staples—all to be offered at prices that will instantly mark them as being of unusual worth, as is fitting a 30th Anniversary....And besides all this, everything in the sale will be compared with similar merchandise on sale elsewhere and priced lower, thus assuring you of guaranteed savings.... It is going to be a splendid event—well worth waiting for. Watch the papers.

$15, Senator Reed declared that any person could produce $500 worth of liquor, at prevailing prices, in one day.

But Williams said there would be expenses in operation.

"They have to split with the bootlegger?" he asked.

"Yes."

"And they have to split with the officers?"

"I don't know about that," said Mr. Williams.

"Don't you know about splitting with prohibition officers?"

"No, I don't know about that."

"Don't you know that prohibition officers have been discharged on that account?"

Brown Sugar Method.

Mr. Williams said he did not know and was excused. But he was recalled a few minutes later to assist Senator Reed in demonstrating another way of making liquor and a way which the senator said was better because it left no odor, no mash or residue. That was by the use of brown sugar, he explained.

"What kind of an apparatus do they use when they use sugar?" Senator Reed asked.

"Same kind of apparatus," Mr. Williams explained.

Senator Reed then proceeded to say that by taking 10 pounds of corn sugar, costing $3.25, and getting a wash-boiler and the simple apparatus for letting off the fumes any person could start in manufacturing liquor. About $15 would be involved in the primary investment, he added, and a liquor-manufacturing plant would be in operation with a capacity of 40 gallons a day and could stay in operation until "it wears out or until someone is unkind enough to take it away."

Mr. Williams suggested that it would sooner or later be taken away and this led to inquiry by Senator Reed as to the process used by prohibition officers in entering private homes and trying to capture stills.

Suggests Teeth in Law.

Prior to this, Senator Reed had explained that only a gas stove was needed for the heating and that there would not be more odor about the process of manufacturing liquor than the odor that goes with cooking preserves by the housewife. Also that there would be no smoke and little or no residue. And likewise that the still could easily be taken apart when not in use so that the ordinary wash boiler would be in one place and the rest of the simple apparatus in another.

Mr. Williams said he did not know whether search warrants were used when homes were entered for capturing stills. Replying to questions by Senator Reed, Mr. Williams said he thought the solution was the use of force and putting "teeth in the law."

Senator Reed asked him if he thought the use of the army and navy against the people of the country would suffice. The senator also asked if he could get a large enough army aside from the 40,000,000 people violating the law. But Mr. Williams maintained that he believed it should be a penal offense for any American to take a glass of beer.

Asked by Senator Reed if he did not think that enforcement of a law could be a worse crime than the act against which the law was invoked, Mr. Williams said he did not. And when Senator Reed pointed out that there used to be a law in England taking a man's life if he shot a rabbit on a nobleman's game preserves, and asked him, "Which was the worse crime, the law or the offense," Mr. Williams refused to agree that the law was wrong.

But when Senator Harreld started to indicate approval of penal sentences for every man who takes a glass of beer, Senator Reed stated that any person who would send a man to jail for drinking a glass of beer had permitted his enthusiasm to influence him "almost to the point of insanity."

Women Wave Approval.

There was a spontaneous outburst from the audience at this which got beyond control, and continued with handclapping by women who stood up in their seats, and in some instances, waved approval.

As the noon hour had arrived, Senator Harreld said he was willing to have an afternoon session, but Senator Reed, who had gathered up his papers, frowned on the suggestion, explaining that he could not sit in afternoon sessions while discussion of the Italian debt was going on in the Senate.

"Do you want to be here?" asked Senator Harreld.

"Yes, I do," replied Senator Reed.

"I could sit alone," suggested Senator Harreld.

"I couldn't trust you," replied Senator Reed, jokingly, and it was thereupon agreed to have the hearings resumed at 10 o'clock this morning.

Antisaloon League Awaits Clarification by Andrews

(By the Associated Press.)

Antisaloon league officials issued the following statement, after Assistant Secretary Andrews, of the Treasury, had testified yesterday before the Senate prohibition committee regarding government-controlled manufacture and sale of nonintoxicating beer.

"We have no comment to make until Gen. Andrews himself clarifies the statement attributed to him by the newspapers."

It was signed by National Superintendent McBride, Bishop James Cannon, jr., of the organization's legislative committee, and Wayne B. Wheeler, the league's general counsel.

The Post Housekeeper
Home Efficiency Service
Nancy Carey

FOR today—the beginning of our second contest. And this time there will be two full weeks in which to send in contributions. Each day the rules of the contest, which, we are happy to say, are as few as they were in the first contest, will be printed at the end of the column, and this time the value of the first prize has been raised to $5, while the second prize is as before—$2.

This is to be a contest of unusual and good cakes and pies only, for we found in judging the last set of recipes that it would be less difficult to judge fairly if the recipes submitted were all of one type. Send in therefore, any sort of pie or cake recipe that you consider really unusual and especially good, but give careful attention to the measurements specified, for the recipes are tested before the prizes are awarded.

As each line of writing that comes to this department passes, letter by letter, under the eye of the housekeeper, may I ask you to write plainly and to be as brief as possible with the directions you add to your recipe. The waste basket was a sore temptation more than once during the reading of the last set of contributions, although I did succeed in avoiding that extreme measure. There are hundreds of entries—give your recipe the benefit of legibility.

The "surprise" of which there has of late been little said, is soon to be divulged and order will again, we hope, settle down upon the department of the Housekeeper. On Monday, May 3, there is to be an extra column of the Housekeeper in The Post, and over the radio from WCAP during The Post hour, I shall for a few moments, endeavor to tell those of the readers who are radio fans all about this dream that has become a reality. Until that time I shall hope to be too busy to other than keep the secret, and therefore prove that I am able to do so.

Shall we have for today another ham baked with pineapple? The recipe was printed January 23, and I know from many of the letters that come to me that the readers are filing the recipes and so have them at hand for reference. If you have missed any recipe, however, we will mail it to you.

Fudge Cake.

One cup of sugar and one-half cup of butter creamed together. Add two eggs well beaten, two tablespoonfuls cream and one-half cup of flour. Mix well together and add two squares of unsweetened chocolate, melted; a teaspoonful of vanilla and a half cup of nut meats. No baking powder or soda is required and the material is sufficient for one layer.

I am making an exception to my rule of testing new recipes in this instance because I am familiar with a similar cake recipe and know it to be delicious. Therefore I offer this to you as a reader sent it to me, and although I have not tested it, I feel confident of its measurements and that it will prove a success.

Charlotte Russe (By Request).

Scald one and one-fourth cups milk and add gradually the yolks of two eggs slightly beaten and mixed with two tablespoons sugar and a pinch of salt. Cook over hot water, stirring constantly until thickened and then add one and one-fourth teaspoonfuls granulated gelatine, soaked in a fourth cup of cold water. Strain and add the whites of five eggs, beaten stiff. Set in a larger pan of water and stir, keeping the mixture from sticking to the pan, until it begins to thicken. Then add a half pint of cream beaten until stiff and mixed with three tablespoonfuls powdered sugar and a teaspoonful of vanilla. Line paper cases or sherbet glasses with lady fingers or sponge cake and fill with the mixture. Chill and when serving garnish with a marishino cherry.

Beginning today we shall have the rules of the contest each day at the end of the column, for in the last contest a number of readers who missed the first announcement of the contest and the rules in full that were printed at that time, wrote that they hardly understood the conditions and there was, therefore, some confusion.

RULES OF CONTEST

First Prize, $5: Second Prize, $2.
1—All contributions in before midnight of Thursday, April 29, 1926.
2—On the sheet of paper on which appears the recipe submitted nothing but the name and address of the contributor may appear. An additional communication must be on a separate sheet of paper.
3—One recipe per person only may be entered in the contest.
4—Recipes submitted must be for cake or pie. No other recipes are eligible.

JUST FOLKS
By EDGAR A. GUEST

PERMANENCE.

Man builded him a castle fair,
With mortared turrets high in air
And boasted of its fair renown,
But the wind laughed—and blew it down.

His lasting cunning to reveal.
Said he: "This shall my splendor tell!"
But the earth quaked—and down it fell.

One fancied worth were better told
In sums of silver and of gold,
But came misfortune's cruel frost
And over night, his all was lost.

One to a simpler, broader plan
Labored to make himself a man,
He brought nobility to bloom,
Nor wind nor fire could that consume.

The earth rocked, and the buildings crashed,
Fire followed when the lightning flashed,
The wind blew and disaster came,
But still triumphant stood his fame.

HOW TO KEEP WELL
By DR. W. A. EVANS

HEADACHE REMEDIES.

I HAVE recently read of calcium lactate as a remedy for that form of sick headache which is frequently called "migraine." Dr. Riggs gives it in 30-grain doses, taken at the onset of the attack. He does not say how frequently he repeats it, if at all. It may be given in fresh tablets (tablets of calcium lactate do not keep well). This drug is usually given in solutions of various kinds. Within ordinary limits it is harmless.

Dr. Riggs does not claim that calcium lactate is a panacea for all headaches, nor even for all migrainous headaches. He limits himself to saying that those who take calcium lactate get through their attacks with less aches and nausea than they do when they do not take it.

Calcium lactate is harmless enough—far less harmful than most of the remedies used for migraine. At the top of the list of harmful agents used for relief comes morphine. Not a great distince from the top are the various coal-tar headache remedies in popular use. Some of these are, in a measure, habit-forming. Some cause as many headaches as they cure. In fact, whenever any person has the periodic headache habit, it would be well to investigate the possibility that the habit of taking headache medicines is the cause of the headache habit.

Some of these headache remedies are sold as effervescent drinks. Some others, not sold as effervescents, are sold as headache remedies, but not disclosing the fact that they are coal-tar products of the sort that cause headache.

Most people treat themselves for migraine with household remedies. Probably they begin by trying physician's services in one or two attacks, and then carry out on their own hook. If they would go to the physician for investigation between attacks of migraine, they would make more headway than they do by sending for him for relief during a spell.

True migraine is rather closely related to epilepsy. In the families of epileptics an unusual proportion of migrainous people are found. Some attacks called migraine are really attacks of epilepsy. Drs. Blitzsten and Brams have recently reported a series of cases of migraine with pain in the abdomen more pronounced then the head pains. Some of these were operated on for appendicitis, pus tubes, gall bladder, infections, and such.

Some cases called migraine are due to poor eyesight and improper glasses. In some the trouble is caused by constipation, and the use of an enema or a saline purge will promtly do away with all need for headache medicines. Some are due to lack of balance between ductless gland secretion; some to errors in diet.

There is proof enough that every case of migraine should be carefully studied—as well as relieved.

DANGERS OF TRACHOMA.

L. B. writes:

1. Is trachoma of the eyes serious?
2. Is it curable?

REPLY.

1. It is.
2. Yes, but it will not get well spontaneously. Trachoma is contagious.

CEREBRAL HEMORRHAGE.

T. J. S. writes: Kindly let me know what is the cause of a cerebral hemorrhage.

REPLY.

The most frequent cause is a broken blood vessel in the brain. The causes which make brain vessels break are: Excitement, anger, straining at stool, overeating, great exertion, high blood pressure, diseased arteries, lead poisoning, syphilis, infections and a few others.

PAINS AFTER PNEUMONIA.

J. D. writes: I had pneumonia a year ago this month on my right side and I still feel a pain when I draw a deep breath.

1. Does this mean I still have pneumonia?
2. What precautions should I take to prevent a second attack?

REPLY.

1. No. You may have an old pleuratic adhesion.
2. Stay in the sunlight and open air as much as possible.

WIVES OF TOMORROW
By FRANCES M'DONALD

Where Men Are Men.

Dear Miss McDonald: As you have so successfully solved the problems of so many puzzled young folks, perhaps you can and will help me in mine. I am a young girl of 21, considered good-looking and popular with both sexes. Recently I received a letter from a fellow, and, Miss McDonald, I can not tell you how surprised I was to get that letter. Miss McDonald, can you spare a few minutes to listen to a very strange tale? About a month ago I received this letter from a man way out west in Canada. He is a lieutenant, Miss McDonald, in the Royal Northwest mounted police, and he lives way out there on the rim of the arctic. This fellow had written to a certain girl with the same name as mine all during the war, and lost her address. Then he found a trunk tag with my name and address on it, about two months ago, I guess it was, and right off he wrote to me, hoping I was the girl. Now, when I got that letter I sure was sorry for him out there in the frozen North, because he seemed so lonely, and so hopeful that he would get in touch with the girl again, though he had never seen her, only written to her. I answered the letter and said I was not the girl, and just a few days ago a letter came from him with explanations.

Now, Miss McDonald, my long letter is drawing to a close. What I wrote all this for was to ask you if you thought I'd better keep on corresponding with him, since he is so lonely. His letter appealed to me very much, and I am sure he would like to continue corresponding with me.

Thanking you in advance for your welcome advice, dear Miss McDonald, I remain, sincerely yours,

BROWN EYES.

Why, I think it would be a wonderful thing for both of you if it were not for the way that human beings react to such things. You see, presently either you or he would conceive some perfectly idiotic idea concerning the other and then all the ingredients of a first-class excitement would ensue. I have known of almost everything from murder to matrimony to develop from such a start. A school teacher, who was found shot to death only a year or so ago had spent her last hours on earth assuring a young man that she could not marry him. They had met through correspondence and like true imbeciles had become engaged by mail. When the girl met him, she realized he was impossible and told the girls with whom she taught that she wanted to get out of her predicament. The two quarreled. That night he called at her apartment. There was a shot. The youth explained she shot herself in the left side of her head with her right hand holding the gun. He must have been a convincing talker because he talked a jury into an acquittal—and is now at large, and no doubt corresponding with some other girl of romantic leanings and little sense. Now, I do not tell you this to frighten you. Your mounted policeman may be all that the movies have led you to imagine. Personally having actually seen a few I am not much thrilled by them. But this one may be a nice, sensible man and unquestionably he is lonely and the correspondence might be very broadening for both of you. But would you be willing to pursue it for purely educational purposes? And could you keep in mind that he probably shaves his neck? If you think you are strong enough to do so, it would be be safe, however unconventional. But if you were the type who could do so, I doubt that you would be giving the matter a thought. You see, it's sort of a romantic streak that makes you want this correspondence, and that selfsame streak makes you see Tom Moore or Eugene O'Brien or Dustin Farnum when you think of this hero of the far North. He is not any of them. He might make a better husband than any of them. But I think you would be wiser to find romance nearer home, and leave the lonesome police alone. Being a policeman is a lonesome job, even on Broadway. But it's just as well to let the law take its course and make its rounds unaided by beauty in search of distress. Of course, I know you will do just as you please, honey—and I would, too, in your place. At school I did just such things—and that's why I know so much about it. Don't do it! Please.

ON DARK NIGHTS
By PHIL WYLIE.

MY friend Ransome, down on the New York Star, is something in the way of an amateur detective. How good he was at making deductions from a few slight clews I did not know until he solved so dramatically the small matter of the "dark night robberies" which upset the New York police a few summers ago. The affair began in a restaurant, as far as I was concerned in it, at least. We were lunching together, and he was reading an early afternoon edition of the Star as he invariably annoyed me by doing when we met for luncheon. Suddenly he looked up.

"No," I answered.

"Briefly, there have been three of them. All of them have been made on calm, dark, moonless nights, down in the skyscraper district. Watchmen have been on duty in every case and the lower floors have been lighted. No one could possibly have entered, no one could have gone out, and none of the three buildings robbed was close enough to another to make it possible for the thief to climb or swing across. Not only that, but there has not been a trace of how he, or they, did get in. Bonds, jewelry, money, have been taken. It is as if the criminal had flown through the night and—by Jove!"

Ransome looked at me earnestly for some time. "I wonder, I wonder," he said slowly.

"Wonder what?" I asked.

"Nothing. You see, the thing is impossible on the face of it and yet it has been accomplished three separate times. I don't think I have ever seen the police so upset."

"Sounds interesting. Have you any theories?"

"Not yet," Ransome said, rising. "But I have the beginning of one. The dark nights and the fact that all the work was done in the same neighborhood are significant facts. And there's only one other skyscraper in the immediate neighborhood. Hmm—."

We got our hats; and as we were about to part he said to me, "Doing anything tonight?" I told him I was not. "As I remember," he went on, "you are something of a shot with a rifle."

"Well, will you do me a favor? Come to my house at 12 this evening in a closed taxi and bring along a light rifle of decent range. We're probably going on the world's prize wild goose chase, but it may not turn out to be so."

It was a quarter after 12 and we were bumping down town in my taxi—I with my deer gun between my knees—and I was still in the dark as to what quarry my companion was seeking, where we were going, or what he intended to do. Broadway along its lower stretch was dark. The tall buildings reached up into a ghostly dusk and vanished in the inky sky. The air was quite still, and scarcely a person walked on the dim street, while the side streets were completely deserted.

"What is?" I asked him.

"The only skyscraper that has not been robbed, in the vicinity, he answered.

Then one of the most peculiar vigils of my life began. We went into one of the empty canyons off Broadway, concealed ourselves in a niche and waited. The lower floors of the buildings about us were lighted. Occasionally a night watchman made a transient appearance. Outside of that there was nothing except the distant rumble of the subway somewhere beneath our feet.

Once Ransome spoke: "They can't possibly break in the ground floor. None of the three buildings they have robbed could be scaled. There was no trace of how entrance was effected. No clew of how they escaped. I must be right."

We settled back into the silence and the gloom. Perhaps an hour passed and I was very weary of waiting. Ransome seemed to be staring at the invisible sky. Suddenly he grabbed my arm.

"Look!" he said.

I looked around the street but I could see very little—faint lights, but certainly nothing moving or any sign of anything suspicious.

"Up, man, look up!"

I looked up. There drifting slowly, softly in the nebulous night was a vast, dim shape. A deep breath escaped Ransome's lips and he whistled to me.

"Now! Shoot at the center of it."

I never had a more bizaare target. I had not the faintest idea of what it was—a huge, black felt-like phantom floating over our heads. However, I bought the rifle up, aimed at what I thought was the center of the mass and a sharp report echoed down the street. From above where my shot had been directed came a hoarse cry, and the black shape began slowly to descend—like a pricked balloon! That was exactly what it was.

When the thing came to earth we could hear the trot of approaching feet and a moment later the police were with us. A small frightened man was attached to the black balloon by a number of cords. Also attached to the network was a varied assortment of apparatus—a bag of flour dyed black, to be used in place of sand for increasing the lift, burglars' tools and many other articles.

"It occurred to me while I was talking to you yesterday," Ransome said later that night when our prisoner had been handed over and we were taking coffee at my house, "that the thing might be feasible. A man in a black balloon, on a cloudy, calm night, might float over to a high office building. The upper windows are ordinary ones—a cinch for a good cracksman—often left unlocked, even. No night watchman would think of looking in the sky for a thief. He could enter, tie his balloon securely, loot the building and escape by the means he employed to come. I also figured that tonight would be a good night from a weather standpoint, and that they would try to get in all the buildings near their base, which is somewhere in that district, before some one guessed their stunt.

Armor Is Displayed By Most Costumers

New York, April 14 (By A. P.).—Five out of six customers in the neighborhood of Times Square display suits of armor in their street windows. Why? Because, explained the manager of one of the largest shops, "fancy dress" immediately suggests "in days of old when knights were bold" to the average person. Few, however, have the courage to appear at a party as a walking ornament for a baronial hall, so visored helms and riveted shirts make a good permanent window show.

MODISH MITZI — What to Wear Under Things — By Jay V. Jay

"Figures are just about what you make them," says Mitzi eyeing her own with satisfaction. She wears an ensemble, for it's one garment that takes the place of vest, brassiere, girdle and step-in. "Yes, even the Venus de Milo might be fashionable now if she wore the slightly boned, firm material, elastic bound things we wear," replies Polly, become historical.

"Well, thank goodness, we don't have to pinch ourselves into the hour glass figure," says Polly, who loves the freedom and the simplicity of an innovation that is brassiere, girdle (and it's lightly boned, too) and panties. It hardly seems possible that a small waist was once a claim to fame.

"But you never know what will happen," interrupts Adelaide. Maybe you'll have one yet, with the normal waistline coming back. This elastic corset of mine defines the waistline just a little and moulds the hips and flattens the back." Anatomy matters so little where a fashionable figure is concerned, one can achieve it one way or another.

Mitzi fully dressed shows what the result is exteriorly. If you are going to have a fashionable silhouette, you have to change your figure and your corset ever so slightly to conform with the season's new fashions. Figures change—indeed they do, with the help of the proper corset or corselette or whatever you want to call them.

Rubber Exchange Is Given Final Stamp of Approval

By S. S. FONTAINE.

New York, April 14.—The rubber trade in New York placed the final seal of its approval upon the rubber exchange at New York on Tuesday when a group of the largest importers and dealers in the city joined the exchange. Most of the new members are firms who originally had opposed the organization of the exchange last February on the ground that the time was not ripe for it. The group of those who now become members of the exchange includes the following: Poel & Kelly, Inc.; Meyer & Brown, Inc.; Littlejohn & Co., Inc.; Schmoll, Stiles & Reid, Inc.; Winkler & Bro. Co.; J. T. Johnstone, Haldane, Bierrie & Co., Inc.; Baird Rubber & Trading Co., Inc., and H. A. Astlett & Co.

* * * *

"The purchase of seats by these firms means that the membership of the rubber exchange now includes all importers and dealers in crude rubber in New York city," said President F. R. Henderson. "These firms were opposed to the opening of the exchange at the time it was organized because they felt that the establishment of an exchange was inadvisable. It is extremely gratifying that as soon as the conditions appeared definitely removed, these gentlemen were broad enough in their viewpoint to eliminate their objections."

* * * *

The seats, which were turned over to them, were acquired by J. Chester Cuppia, of J. C. Cuppia & Co., member of the New York Cotton Exchange, and a governor of the rubber exchange, who purchased ten seats. Mr. Cuppia paid as high as $4,700 for one of the seats, and $4,500 for most of the others. The seats he purchased were sold to J. Edward Rowe, Julius Rosenfeld, Joseph A. Wade, Robert M. Harriss, Phillip G. McFadden, Leo Goldsmith, Karl Wolff, Sailing P. Baruch, Joseph F. Bernard and Frost Haviland. Earlier in the day the seat of Edward A. Pierce was sold to Paul Elgoben, of P. Elbogen & Co., for $4,000.

Announcement has been made by the St. Maurice Valley Corporation of the formation of the St. Maurice Valley Sales Corporation, which will take over the businesses of the St. Maurice Sales Company and the Belge Export Co. The St. Maurice Sales Co. has handled the output of the St. Maurice division of the St. Maurice Valley Corporation, as well as the output of the St. Lawrence Paper Mills, Ltd., and the Beaver Board Co., Ltd. The Belgo Export Co. is the sales agency for the Belgo Canadian Paper Co., Ltd. The new corporation will also be the sales agency for the Port Alfred Pulp & Paper Corporation.

It is understood that Thomas P. Waller will be appointed vice president of the St. Maurice Valley Corporation and that he will be in direct charge of the sales corporation in the capacity of vice president. For many years Mr. Waller was connected with the International Paper Co. as vice president in charge of sales, and for the last few years has been in charge of the newsprint department of H. G. Craig & Co., of New York, large distributors of newsprints manufactured by independent mills.

The operating of the two sales agencies as a unit should result in a substantial reduction in overhead expenses, and should therefore add to the company being effected by the St. Maurice Valley Corporation, through its consolidation of the Belgo Canadian Paper Co., Ltd., and the St. Maurice Paper Co.

* * * *

Sales control by Mr. Waller of the large newsprint output to be disposed of through the new corporation is considered to be a constructive move, inasmuch as it places this tonnage under the immediate direction of one of the most experienced sales operators on the continent, with a close connection with publishers throughout the United States. It is understood that the St. Maurice Valley Sales Corporation will center its activities in Montreal, with branches in New York and other important publishing centers.

Approval was given today by the stockholders of the New York Air Brake Co. to the plan for its recapitalization by the calling in of the "A" stock and the issuance of 100,000 shares of additional common, making the total stock capitalization 300,000 shares of that stock. At the close of 1925 the company had 85,600 shares of the "A" stock outstanding of an original issue of 100,000 shares. The stock has been further reduced since that time and is callable July 1 next at $60 a share. When the stock is redeemed the only capital liability ahead of the outstanding 300,000 shares of common will be $3,000,000 bonds, of which $1,000,000 are held in the company's treasury. These bonds are due in 1929 and the management is expected to take care of them from its working capital.

French shipbuilding in 1925, according to advices received by the Bankers Trust Co. of New York from its French information service, showed an almost total absence of French orders, while, on the other hand, the number of foreign orders placed in France has been steadily increasing the last three years. A notable feature of French shipbuilding is also the new and important progress realized in the construction of motor ships.

The tonnage launched in 1925 by French yards aggregated 75,569, showing a decrease of 4,116 tons when compared to 1924 and being nearly 62,000 tons less than the three last pre-war years, 1911-1913. France thus comes fourth among shipbuilding nations, Great Britain and Ireland being first, with 885,013 tons, followed by Italy, with 309,578 tons; Germany, 234,145 tons; France, 167,256 tons; Holland, with 108,894 tons, and the United States, 105,211 tons.

Thirty foreign orders were placed in France since 1922, the buyers being Norway, Great Britain, Finland, Holland, Greece, Colombia, Brazil, and Argentina.

As regards motor ships, this average quarterly production, according to Lloyd's register, aggregated 8,500 tons in 1923; 38,000 tons in 1924, and over 46,000 tons in 1925.

New York, April 14 (By A. P.). TO THE INVESTOR who has never owned a Real Estate Bond

DESPITE the tremendous strides in public favor which first mortgage bonds have made in recent years, there still are many investors who have never bought them or even investigated their merits.

The fact that sound first mortgage bonds should have a definite place in every modern investment list, however, is becoming more widely recognized each year. In 1925, for example, the total of city real estate bonds purchased by investors was close to one billion dollars.

This billion-dollar figure compares with a total of about five and one-half billions for all other securities representing private capital investment.

The First Mortgage Bonds sold by The F. H. Smith Company will bring to your investment list two definite advantages:

1. The non-fluctuating character of Smith Bonds will give you a degree of safety and stability that is not to be found in other classes of securities. Smith Bonds are protected by safeguards that have resulted in our record of no loss to any investor in 53 years.
2. Smith Bonds will increase your average yield. The interest rate of 7% on our current offerings compares with an average return of slightly more than 5% on other high-grade investment securities.

For further particulars about the advantages of these bonds, send your name and address on the form below for our booklet, "Fifty-three Years of Proven Safety," and for descriptions of our 7% offerings.

BREAK IN SUGAR STOCKS CAUSES BROAD DECLINE

Tractions, Rails and Motors Lose Support; Most Coppers Are Firm.

TRADING IS RATHER LIGHT

Special to The Washington Post.

New York, April 14.—A severe break in the Sugar shares upset stock trading on the New York Stock exchange today, and while shares in the most affected group showed net declines ranging up to 22 points at the close, losses elsewhere in the active list extended anywhere from 1 point to 8 points. Trading was only moderately active, not far exceeding 1,250,000 shares, and business fell off as prices slumped.

In the face of the easing of values elsewhere, Traction stocks were bid up most of the day, although they, too, yielded in the late dealings, and the demand for numerous of the rails was good at times. But the support extended in those directions failed to more than momentarily check the downward course of the general list. In the late dealings selling became general, the Motors in particular giving way under the pressure, and the final tone was weak, with most active issues at the lowest levels of the day at the close.

With South Porto Rico Sugar showing the maximum loss, practically all of the shares in the sugar group dropped to new low levels for the year. Punta Allegre, Cuban American preferred, Manati, Cuba Co. and American Sugar were others outstandingly weak. Selling of these shares was likely an aftermath of the publicity recently given the situation in Cuba. While the runs on banks had stopped by the prompt relief extended to institutions on the island, conditions in the Cuban sugar trade are not considered favorable.

Acute weakness also developed in certain industrial specialties. General Electric lost 7¾, U. S. Cast Iron Pipe 4, Postum 3½, Coca Cola 4¾, and so on. National Biscuit responded to an increase in the regular dividend by a slump of 5 points. Perhaps traders were disappointed that the increase was not more substantial, but others pointed to the quarterly report of the company, contending that earnings were below expectations.

Some of the low-priced motors were under pressure throughout the session, notably Dodge Brothers A, which lost 3¾, following publication of a poor first-quarter report by Jordan Motor Co. Hudson lost 5¾. Du Pont closed 4⅝ down.

The buying movement in the tractions, which featured the market yesterday, continued today, lifting virtually all issues in that group to new high levels for the movement. Railroad shares were well supported also. Demand for some shares was quite active in the forenoon, especially the Erie shares, Texas & Pacific and other so-called merger rails, but most of these gave way later.

Continued large car loadings, optimistic predictions by certain railway executives, and the excellent annual reports published by some of the important roads may have influenced the market. Most copper shares were firm in sympathy with higher metal prices, Utah gaining 6 points. Statistically the metal situation was helped by a decrease of 9,352,000 pounds in surplus stocks.

The foreign exchange market was quite generally lower, with sterling down to $4.86 for cables, for the first time in many weeks. Belgian francs, French francs, pesetas and Scandinavian rates also showing considerable weakness.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

Chicago, April 14 (By A. P.).—Wheat prices made a fresh general advance today but slipped back at the last. In some quarters the late down turn was explained on the ground that the oversold position of the wheat market had been largely corrected and thus buying power had been lessened. Closing quotations on wheat were irregular at ¾c net decline to half cent advance, May (new) 1.64 to 1.64¼, and July 1.38⅞ to 1.39, with corn ¼c to ⅞c off, oats unchanged to ¼ cent up, and provisions unchanged to 20 lower.

Although aggressive support for the wheat market was lacking toward the end of the day, no important selling pressure was in evidence, the usual smallness of stocks of wheat in Chicago being a decided check. The fact that Liverpool quotations today made a good response to yesterday's big rise on this side of the Atlantic was an early strengthening influence here, and so too was considerable new buying on the part of previous sellers who were short of wheat to deliver on May contracts. Word that the Canadian grower's pool had disposed of 2,000,000 bushels for export counted also as a stimulus.

Many wheat traders, however, were anticipating a reaction from a sudden advance and especially in the late dealings the new crop months, July and September, were inclined to drag as compared with May, field advices relative to the growing winter wheat Southwest being favorable, although Illinois and some other States reported a comparatively low condition for this time of year. Predictions of warmer weather tended likewise to ease values as the day approached an end.

Corn made gains early in line with wheat, but later quickly declined when wheat turned weak. Very little trading was done in oats, and price changes were narrow.

Provisions underwent a late setback, largely on account of prospects that tomorrow lard stocks here will show an increase of about 6,000,000 pounds.

NEW YORK COTTON.

New York, April 14 (By A. P.).—An early advance on bullish domestic consumption figures for March and fears of unsettled weather in the South, was followed by reactions in the cotton market today. After selling up to 18.99, May closed at 18.95, while October, after selling at 17.57, closed at 17.47. The general market closed barely steady, net unchanged to 7 points higher.

The opening was steady at a decline of 1 point to an advance of 3 points. A few overnight selling orders were quickly absorbed and the market advanced rather sharply during the first hour, on the report of the census bureau showing domestic mill consumption of 634,593 bales for March against 567,244 for February, 583,407 for March last year and the previous high record of 624,264 bales reported for March, 1923. There was buying also on apprehensions that the better weather reported in the South this morning would be followed by a renewal of unsettled conditions, and for a time the market was quite active.

Demand tapered off above the 17½ cent level for October contracts, however, and there were reactions of 10 or 11 points during midday under realizing. Otherwise, offerings were held in check by fears of further delays in new crop preparations and bullish features in the weekly report of the weather bureau. Early afternoon rallies were not fully maintained and last prices showed declines of 4 or 5 points from the best under a little Southern local and Wall street selling, the latter being prompted, apparently, by the action of the stock market.

Local cotton men explained the record-breaking consumption for March as due to the use of low grade cotton which means an increased percentage of waste.

Exports for the day were 15,863 bales, making 6,746,430 so far this season, against 7,203,063 last year. Port receipts today, 17,690. United States port stocks, 1,111,487.

CAPITAL STOCKS GAIN IN DECISIVE TRADING

A. T. & T. EARNINGS GAIN

By F. W. PATTERSON.

Trading came back in a decisive way on the Washington Stock Exchange yesterday and under the stimulus of a good demand several issues made further gains, while the list throughout was strong.

Capital Traction Co. was up ¼ to 104¾ on opening turnover of 10 shares, but parted with the gain on succeeding sale of 30 shares, with all other sales on a parity with the closing price of the preceding session which was 104½. Washington Railway & Electric preferred, with first sale at 90¾, began the day an ⅛ down from previous close, but all sales thereafter were recorded at 91, giving a net gain of ¼ for the day. The common stock, which last sold at 205, was marked up at 155 bid and 190 asked. Potomac Electric Power preferred picked up a ½ point and two lots of 5 shares each changed hands at 106½. Washington Gas Light was firm and sold to the extent of 30 shares at 69.

American Security & Trust Co. sold at 390 in a transaction involving an odd lot of 4 shares, when "asked" advanced to 394. Lanston Monotype gained to 83, and the old shares of Mergenthaler Linotype, dealing in which will cease today on the local exchange, sold at 204.

More interest was in evidence on the bond side of the market than for several days, and while the volume of trasactions was not heavy quotations were strong. Washington Railway & Electric 4s, opening at 81⅞, moved up to 82 with sales of $13,500. Capital Traction 5s sold at par, and Washington Gas Light 5s brought 100⅜, while the 6s moved at 101⅞, for the so-called "baby," and the larger denomination sold up to 104.

Telephone Reports Gain.

The first quarter statement of the American Telephone & Telegraph Co., indicates a substantial gain over the corresponding quarter of 1925, with net income soaring to $27,867,985, from $25,909,636, according to report of stockholders yesterday. This is equivalent to $3.02 a share on an average of 9,229,824 shares outstanding.

After dividend payments of $20,767,104, surplus was $7,100,281, against surplus of $6,843,964, a year ago. Total income was $48,127,986, against $43,065,366, stockholders were told by Walter S. Gifford, president of the company.

4 Power Companies Purchased.

The Cleveland Electric Illuminating Co., one of the important subsidiaries of the North American Co., has announced the purchase of four more light and power companies in its electrical development program. The new properties include Grand River Electric Light & Power Co., Suburban Utilities Co., Northeastern Ohio Power & Light Co., and in addition to these the purchase includes the municipal light and power plant of Conneaut, Ohio.

Dance Plans Progressing.

Plans for the spring dance, the last of the season's social functions of the Washington chapter, American Institute of Banking, to be held at the Willard hotel on Saturday night, are progressing rapidly, and Joseph T. Yerkes, chairman of the committee, declared yesterday that the sale of tickets promises a record attendance.

Those serving on the committee having the dance in charge in addition to Mr. Yerkes, are Miss Katherine Krieg, Riggs National Bank; Miss Lois A. White, Federal-American National; A. E. Henze, W. B. Hibbs & Co., and Elmer O'Hara, Seventh Street Savings Bank.

Will Offer Loew's Bonds.

Dillon, Read & Co. and the National City Co. will, it is expected, offer this week a $15,000,000 6 per cent loan for Loew's, Inc. The issue will have stock warrants attached.

Loew's, Inc., owns or directs a chain of 119 theaters, and also owns all of the common stock of the Metro-Goldwyn Pitcures Corporation. The corporation's chain includes locations in Washington, Boston, Memphis, St. Louis, San Francisco and Los Angeles, and its New York houses include the Capital and State theaters.

At Reserve Bank Meeting.

Among the local bankers who attended the meeting of the Stockholders Association of the Richmond Federal Reserve Bank, at Richmond, Va., yesterday, who are returning to the city today are Joseph Schiavone, president of the International Exchange Bank; Hilleary L. Offutt, jr., vice president and cashier, District National Bank, and James A. Soper, cashier of the Lincoln National Bank.

Officers Are Elected.

Stockholders of the Citizens Equitable Building association, of Georgetown, have elected the following directors for the ensuing year: Thomas J. Stanton, Isaac Birch, Harry L. Selby, Robert E. Mayfield, James M. Burns, Patrick F. Carr, John Hadley Doyle, Dr. Robert E. Layton, Isaac R. Nordlinger, B. W. Murch, J. Leo Kolb, C. E. Van Ostrand and Phillip Little.

Officers of the association chosen at the organization meeting to serve for the year are: Thomas J. Stanton, president; Isaac Birch, vice president; Harry L. Selby, treasurer, and Robert E. Mayfield, secretary.

Will Expand Plant.

An extensive expansion and building program was announced yesterday by the Minnesota & Ontario Paper Co., simultaneously with the statement that it had sold $7,500,000 in bonds and notes to Hasley, Stuart & Co., and the Minnesota Loan & Trust Co. The securities consist of $4,000,000 first mortgage sinking fund 6 per cent bonds, series

COVELESKIE CHECKS MACKS AND NATS TRIUMPH, 3-1

G. U. to Meet Holy Cross Today

Burch to Pitch for Hilltop; Catholic U. Faces Marines.

Byrnes or Devin to Hurl for Brookland Against Devil Dogs.

By JUNO KINERK.

WHILE the contest between the Nats and the Athletics will absorb the attention of the majority of local baseball fans, yet it might not be amiss for a few of them to wander out to the ball yards of Georgetown and Catholic university this afternoon, for the prospects for good baseball at both are good.

Out at the Hilltop, the O'Reilly clan will entertain perhaps its most bitter college baseball rival, Holy Cross, while out at Brookland, Charley Moran's athletes will meet a foe equally as respected and feared in the Quantico Marines. Each game will start at 3 o'clock.

For years, Georgetown and Holy Cross have been fighting it out, usually for the leadership in Eastern college baseball, and the games between them have produced many bitter and hard fought struggles before a decision was reached. Although the records are not available, Holy Cross has a slight edge in number of games won.

HOLY CROSS is known to have a powerful club this year. Its most recent conquest was the humiliation of the strong Quantico Marines by a large score Monday, and it also has been running over its other Southern opposition with ease.

Yesterday Coach O'Reilly sent his boys through a long drill and felt satisfied with his new infield combination which has Nork instead of Donovan at short. Nork is a hard hitter and is possessed of a splendid throwing arm. He feels at home at the short field berth and should render a splendid ac-

Athletics to Face Bush Today; Johnson Unhurt by Long Duel

□□□ RUETHER IN RESERVE □□□

By FRANK H. YOUNG.

AFTER Walter Johnson's 15-inning effort of Tuesday, which was exactly 10 frames longer than he had worked previously in the spring exhibition games, many, including some of the Washington players, were fearful that, perhaps, the Old Master had been too ambitious in taking such a long shift so early in the season.

Manager Harris had in mind relieving the Big Train after the 9 innings game had been played, but left the matter up to Johnson, and the latter, of course, wanted to carry on. And there are 23,000 local fans who will tell you that he did.

Johnson reported yesterday at the Georgia Avenue stadium feeling great. "I was mighty tired Tuesday night," he said, "but I got a good night's sleep and today have not a pain or an ache anywhere. My arm feels just as good as it has any time this spring."

Upon hearing these glad tidings, Manager Harris announced that he would use the Old Master against the Yankees on Saturday, as per his regular schedule.

THE Nat leader gave Bullet Joe Bush the "once over" during his warm-up yesterday and was convinced that this veteran is ready and will use him today in an effort to make it three straight over the Macklets. This means that Dutch Ruether will do the flinging tomorrow.

Harris paid special attention to his three rookie flingers at yesterday morning's workout. "I simply want to give them all a chance to polish up," he stated, referring to Lefty Thomas, Bill Morrell and Jim Lyle, "and then will retain the one who has shown the most improvement." Right now, Bucky states that all stand an even chance.

Connie Mack seems to either be making a guessing contest out of his pitching assignment plans or is keeping them a dark secret until just about game time each day. Indications last night were that either Stanley Baumgartner or Sam Gray would work for him today, but maybe the old boy is fooling again and actually will use Lefty Groves. That's the way he played 'em with respect to his moundsmen in Tuesday's and yesterday's games.

Scout Joe Engel left town last night—destination unknown. Rumor says he was hurried off to take a look at a college pitcher, due to work somewhere in the United States today.

Al Schacht and President Clark Griffith have held two conferences over the comedian's contract figures, but so far they have not been able to get together.

TEX JEANES, who has been the only National on the hospital list for any length of time, is just about ready to step up to the plate or out in the field, if needed.

Early fans spent considerable time in the back of the grandstand seeing the results of Tuesday night's fire in the lumberyard back of the park. The awnings and the fringe of the roof of the stadium were slightly damaged.

Central Stops Episcopal, 5 to 3

Alexandria Players Lose First Game of Season.

Phipps Effective But Wild; Shortstops Star Afield.

BY WALTER HAIGHT.

SUCCEEDING where three of their rivals had failed, Central's high-stepping baseball aspirants separated Episcopal High's nine, of Alexandria, from its winning streak yesterday, taking the long end of a 5-3 score after a well-played game, in the Wilson stadium.

Coach Mike Kelley assigned George Phipps to the pitching job for Central, and George did it. He allowed but six hits, two of which were bunched in the third and eighth innings for single runs, and aside from a period of lost control in the sixth, acted the part of a clever performer.

The Central coach had a lot of confidence in Phipps during his wild frame. The slim twirler had the bases full, as the result of two walks and a hit, and then forced a run across with another pass. He fanned Day, however, to weather the storm.

Tuggle, for Episcopal, pitched an in-and-out game. He set down the side in order in four innings, and was hit hard in but one, the fifth.

CENTRAL scored twice in the first inning on hits by Simmons and Duke, a walk and a throw to the plate, which took a bad hop. Four hits with a walk accounted for Central's other three tallies in the fifth. Holland gathered in a liner for a double-play to end the rally.

Bill Simmons looked the part of an all-high shortstop in handling nine chances without the slightest indication of an error. He went behind second twice to take hoppers and get his man with a rifle shot to first.

Episcopal might have jumped into the run column in the first inning had it not been for Johnny Belt, who gathered in Chichester's bid for a triple with two on and two out in the first frame.

The Alexandria shortfielder, Holland, also put up a brilliant exhibition, accounting for four putouts and five assists. Phelps was the only visitor to get more than one hit.

'Slim' Harriss Pounded in Fourth

Athletics Get 6 Hits; Four Double Plays During Game.

BY N. W. BAXTER,
Sporting Editor of The Post.

IT was just a ball game yesterday, when Washington downed Philadelphia, 3 to 1. At least, so it seemed to those who were still suffering from the reaction brought about by the 15-inning struggle Tuesday.

The Nationals crowded three runs into the fourth inning at the expense of Harriss, the Slim, and then under the guiding hand of Stanley Coveleskie, coasted through the rest of the game.

The beating which the henchmen of Connie Mack took on opening day robbed them of considerable dash and enthusiasm. They offered no such resistance yesterday as they did the day before, and were dressed and ready for the evening meal 1 hour and 45 minutes after they began their day's work.

BUT for the fact that a wild throw by Buddy Myer marred the perfection of Washington's play, the record now would be that Washington has gone through 2½ scoreless innings.

Coveleskie, veteran of the spit ball, was touched for but six hits, and they were scattered in as many innings. Myer's wild throw to catch Simmons at first in the sixth allowed the Philadelphia batter to take two bases instead, and Hauser's single brought him home.

Except for this one slip, the Athletics were never even dangerous. They got but one other runner as far as third, and he was forced at the plate.

Neither Harriss nor Quinn, who relieved the elongated hurler, was anywhere near as effective as the Washington moundsman. The Nationals got five hits in four innings, off each of the opposing pitchers, and, more fortunate still, the blows were bunched to produce the best results. Harriss faded from the picture without the aid of the Washington fans, who in the past have made him the object of their particular attention.

Offensively, the Washington players divided honors rather evenly. Stanley Harris, Bluege and Coveleskie alone went hitless. The

NOAH WINS STAKE AT HAVRE DE GRACE INAUGURAL

Juvenile Race Captured by Landlord

Cudgeller Wins Over Tester in Fourth by Five Lengths.

Timmara Takes Third Straight Victory in Sprint.

By J. B. SNODGRASS.

HAVRE DE GRACE, Md., April 14.—Twenty thousand people cheered Harry Payne Whitney's 4-year-old colt, Noah, home in the $10,000 added Harford handicap today as the thoroughbreds were welcomed back to the beautiful race track that nestles at the mouth of the Susquehanna today.

It was a good field that was behind the son of Peter Pan—First Flight, when he came under the wire a length in front of the despised outsider, Extra Dry, taken as a joke played by the prohibitionists. This filly of Lee Rosenberg's nosed out H. G. Bedwell's Senator Norris for place.

Behind these three were the stars of other days, Single Foot, which finished sixth; Joy Smoke, a Maryland champion last year; Lounger, a winter stake winner, and eight other good horses.

CELEBRATING the first appearance of his colors on any track since last year, the silks of Commander J. K. L. Rose, the silks that were worn so nobly by Billy Kelly, Sir Barton and Boniface came down in front, worn by the brown colt, Landlord, son of this self-same Boniface, showed the way to the juveniles.

Most everybody had a tip on this good colt that had never started, ten minutes before the race, but remained loyal to Harry Payne Whitney's Golden Pennant, which was beaten by a nose. The Sagamore stable's Pat McGee was third. The Ross colt led all the way, with P. Walls in the saddle.

McAtee had Noah off second to Sunsard, and before Sunsard knew what it was all about, he was trailing Noah and the others. Extra Dry, much improved, finally outlasted the challenge of Senator Norris. Sunsard had enough early in the stretch. Noah had taught him how a good horse ought to run. Single Foot could never find his running legs and Lounger had lost his winter luster.

The victory of Noah was a popular one. He was the favorite, and his winning atoned for the defeat of Golden Pennant, who they had backed heavily. The Whitney colors are very popular on this and all other tracks. McAtee is a popular jockey.

Single Foot was the outstanding disappointment of the feature. His fast workout yesterday caused a plunge on him by the Baltimore contingent. But Noah won his third race of the season just like he won his other two starts, jumping to the front and forgetting all about quitting. Last year Noah would start in front invariably, but often stop at the wrong time. He has reformed.

TIMMARA won from Rockman by a length, going away and Harass was third. The time was 1:06 for 5½ furlongs, four-fifths of a second off the record. It was the third start of the year of T. W. O'Brien's derby candidate, and his third victory. This was the best field he has beaten.

Timmara broke in front, when Harvey did not press him. Rockman, a fine colt of the Sagamore stable, took the lead. Half way down the stretch Timmara took back the lead.

Some observers did not believe that Timmara, notwithstanding his good record, starting out similarly to Morvich in his 2-year-old form, was quite up to the derby standard, with the great field promised next day.

Fifteen horses went to the post in the second race. Six were coupled as field horses in the mutuels. Contract was the favorite. Several well-known jockeys who have not been seen in the saddle in the East before today since last year, rode in this race. Among them were Marinelli, Coltiletti, Johnny Callahan, and J. Butwell.

Johnny Campbell, a field horse, won, Contract being second and McCrimmon, third. There was a delay of ten minutes at the post. McCrimmon turned into the stretch in the lead, but ran out with Marinelli, when Johnny Campbell and Contract took the lead. McCrimmon came fast again when straightened out, on the outside rail, and almost got to the front. Had he not been in the field his price would have been long. The time for the six furlongs was 1:15. Stott rode the winner.

It probably cheered H. G. Bedwell, who is rallying from pneumonia at his Laurel home. That his horse, Cudgeller, won a pronounced victory in the fourth race from Tester. Commissioner was third. Tester and Commissioner set the pace, but on the turn into the stretch Cudgeller, with a splendid show of speed, passed the field to win by five lengths, Smith up.

THE Swenke connections scored in the sixth race when Clique came from behind in the last sixteenth and fairly ran over his field. Diagram was second and Blue Hill third.

Carol led all the way from the first quarter to the last eighth when the three horses passed him.

Clique showed improvement to win the sixth race, and the price was aplenty, around 8 to 1. The boys plunged on Carol. Carol has bad legs and after he had led into the stretch, he began stopping.

Modo beat Mary Ellen O., and Quotation in the seventh, an unexpected happening. This made a double for H. G. Bedwell. His price was right, 12 to 1. Spugs was an absentee because of an injury suffered in transporting the Frank Kearns' horses over from Bowie.

Johnny Campbell, in closed pursuit of the pace to stretch turn, where he saved ground, finished full of courage and just managed to get up in the final stride. Contract, in hand first half-mile, assumed an easy lead when McCrimmon bolted to the outside fence at stretch turn, but tired right at end. McCrimmon outran his field from the break and drew away into an easy lead first furlong. Tore to the outside fence entering home stretch, but came again when straightened out and was going much the strongest at the finish. Saddle slipped on Lord Baltimore II and he was pulled up.

THIRD RACE—Five and one-half furlongs. Purse, $1,200. Value to winner, $850; second, $200; third, $100; fourth, $50. For 3-year-olds; the Tip Top purse. Start good. Won driving; place easily. Two-dollar mutuels paid—Timmara, $3.50, $2.30, $2.10; Rockman, $3.00, $2.60. Horace, $3.10.

Timmara forced the pace from the start and had to be ridden out last furlongs to get to the front. Rockman set a fast pace from the start and looked to have the race won at furlong pole, but hung last sixteenth. Race should improve him. Harass moved up stoutly, rounding far turn, but tired last furlong. Punjab, a good-looking colt, broke slow.

FOURTH RACE—One mile and seventy yards. Purse, $1,500. Value to winner, $1,000; second, $300; third, $150; fourth, $50. For 3-year-olds and upward; the Chester purse. Start good. Cudgeller, very slow to get going and a trailer until rounding the far turn, where he went around his field with a rush, upon entering the home stretch drew away into a commanding lead. Tester showed a lot of early speed but tired badly when the winner challenged and was driving to the limit to stall off Commissioner. Golden Rule looked high in flesh going to the post.

FIFTH RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $10,000 added. Value to winner, $9,225; second, $2,000 third, $1,000; fourth, $500. For 3-year-olds and upward; the Harford handicap. Start good for all but Joy Smoke. Won driving; place same. Went to post at 4:40; off at 4:44. Winner, H. P. Whitney's br. c. (4) Peter Pan—First Flight. Trained by F. Hopkins. Time, 0:22 4-5, 0:47, 1:12 4-5.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—Noah, $6.10, $3.90, $2.80; Extra Dry (field and Rosenburg entry), $7.60, $3.00; Senator Norris, $3.40.

Noah held his opponents safe for speed and, rated in front, responded determinedly under a strong hand ride through the stretch; when challenged held Extra Dry safe. The latter worked her way forward on the outside; closed going fastest of all. Senator Norris, on the inside for the entire race, held on stoutly in the final drive. Polly McWiggles, prominent throughout, faltered the final sixteenth. Sunsard had no excuse. Single Foot, in tight quarters rounding the turn, finished well.

SIXTH RACE—Mile and one-sixteenth. Purse, $1,200. Value to winner, $850; second, $200; third, $100; fourth, $50. For 3-year-olds and upward; claiming. Start good and fast. Won driving; place same. Two-dollar mutuels paid—Clique, $18.60, $10.00, $4.50; Diagram, $12.20, $6.30; Blue Hill, $2.70.

Stott waited with Clique until rounding the far turn before making an effort; went around his field entering home stretch and, finishing full of courage, wore down the tiring pacemakers to get up in the final strides. Diagram hung after disposing of Carol at furlong pole. Latter showed lot of early speed but stopped. Blue Hill finished gamely.

SEVENTH RACE—Mile and one-eighth. Purse, $1,200. Value to winner, $850; second, $200; third, $100; fourth, $50. For 3-year-olds and upward; claiming. Start good. Won driving; place easily. Modo outran his field to first turn and was rated in front until final furlong, when he began to tire. Mary Ellen O dropped out of it in early stages, but finished in resolute fashion on outside. She was gradually wearing the winner down. Quotation stalled off Dream of the Valley in final drive. Latter moved up stoutly rounding the far turn, but hung last furlong.

INGRID.

Shake a leg or the boogey man will catch you. Here's a filly Selby Burch prepared by lantern light to strut her stuff in the fourth race at Havre de Grace today. The stable connections think so well of this daughter of Crimper that they nominated her for the Kentucky derby. Timmara, which beat the best of the 3-year-olds that raced at Bowie this spring was beaten a length by Ingrid in the Endurance handicap. That ought to give you a line on the class of this filly. CINEMA'S last effort was a good one and she will be right there. ADRIA, a frequent winner at Miami, is the best of the others.

The opening spasm looks like a two-horse race between LANARK and DUBRIC. Fancy the former, as he appears to have a bit more class. DUBRIC, a slow beginner is right at its best now. The Ross stable will probably take the small end of the purse with GOOD BOY.

The Wilson-Salmon entry, POST HORN and ENCAMP, look like money from home in the second race. SWEEPING ANN, won an easy race and holds the balance safe.

EVERGLADE racing in his best form is much the best of those in the third. GYMKHANA is fast and should be close up. REDSTONE of the Seagram stable is making his first start and will probably need a race.

FAENZA is tossed in with a cheap lot in the fifth. If any one beats him it will probably be CLIQUE. The Swenke racer is nicely weighted.

JACQUES has the call in the sixth. His last effort went for the end book. GRAND BEY and BILLY MANN should be fighting it out for the balance of the purse.

FORNOVO has little to beat in the seventh. SHANGHAI raced well in Florida and may be the troublesome one. ISLAND FAIRY for what is left.

Dr. Barr Tops Golfers In Dentists' Tourney

More than a score of Washington dentists laid aside their drills and forceps yesterday afternoon and migrated with their golf clubs to the Congressional Country club where the first monthly tournament of the Washington Dental association was held. Competition was eighteen holes, handicap allowance, and prizes were given for low gross and low net scores.

Dr. William C. Barr led the field with a card of 86 for low gross, with Dr. Bruce L. Taylor and Dr. W. R. McLester finishing second and third, with 88 and 92, respectively. Dr. Thomas Utz won the low net prize with a net 72. Dr. F. M. Murray was second with 74 and Dr. Paris E. Brengle third with 76.

The tournament was followed by a dinner at the clubhouse in celebration of dental health week.

Shamrocks to Engage Va. Grays on Sunday

ing low and a little to the left of the sack. Harold is expected to improve daily, however, with continued work.

Buddy Myer is another who is not particularly reliable as a thrower. Throughout the whole exhibition series, most of the youngster's errors have been on wild heaves and it was one of these which was responsible for the Mack's orphan tally yesterday.

No one can say anything about Buddy's speed, however, as he looks to be just about as fast as any player in the business. Yesterday he beat out two infield hits. Two were out when he did this stunt in the fourth and, as a result, one runner scored and the stage was set for Ruel to drive in the other two. Had he failed to beat Galloway's peg to first, the Nats would have been set down scoreless.

STANLEY COVELESKI seemed to have some enemies on the Quaker team and twice he was kept busy hopping out of the way of drives at his feet. In the second, Hauser was credited with a hit right back at the Pole, when Lamar got one in the same manner in the third.

"How many runs do you need today, Stan?" Manager Harris asked Coveleskie yesterday just before the game. "Oh, about two," was the reply. As things turned out, this was just the number the Nats needed. Maybe Covey knew something.

REX "SEMI" PLAYS.

The Rex Semi-Insects will try for their fifth straight victory Sunday when they meet the Newton A. C. nine. Practice is listed for today. Call North 4652 for games.

STENOG NINE BEATEN BY GONZAGA

Business Is Beaten in Weird Game by 10-9 Score.

GONZAGA'S baseball team gained a 10-9 decision over Business High yesterday afternoon in a weird game on the Monument grounds in which the rival scorers failed to agree. At a late hour last night the Business manager was sure that his club also scored 10 runs.

Business spent the first inning trying to get organized, while Gonzaga on solid base hits and errors by its opponents managed to run up a lead of six runs. Revelle Jones relieved Marosy on the hill for the Stenographers and finally got the side out.

JONES pitched championship ball for the remainder of the game, allowing but three hits, and but for the misconduct of his supporting cast would have escaped being scored upon. But then what's a Business pitcher to expect?

In the meantime, Business had gotten busy with the stick to the extent that Coach Simondinger yanked Stevens and Cain. Nolan managed to stagger through the ninth, barely holding the lead. Walter got three hits for Business.

ATHLETICS CHECKED BY COVELESKIE, 3 TO 1

other six players all gathered in safeties at least once. Rice, Judge, Myer and Ruel got two hits each.

THE batting strength of the Athletics was limited to three men. Larmar, Hauser and Dykes divided the half dozen hits between them equally; to the rest of the Philadelphia team the day was a batting loss.

In the fourth inning, after two men were out, Harriss' foot slipped badly. He walked Joe Harris. Joe Judge got a hit to right that sent Harris to third, and a pass to Bluege filled the bases. Successive singles by Myer and Ruel brought in three runs before Coveleskie struck out.

The Nationals came near continuing the scoring in the fifth when Jack Quinn first faced them. Sam Rice opened by hitting safely, but he was doubled out at first when the hit and run on Stanley Harris' part resulted in a fly to French in right. Goslin and Joe Harris hit safely immediately thereafter, but Judge grounded out.

Philadelphia errors helped fill the bases in the eighth, without any further damage, as it proved. Judge, up after Joe Harris had flied out, got a hit. He and Bluege were safe on Galloway's error, and Bishop's misplay on Myer's grounder filled the bases. Ruel hit into a double play.

HOLY CROSS TO MEET GEORGETOWN TODAY

Pete Burch will carry the hopes of the Georgetown rooters for a victory today, and if he is right there should be cause for rejoicing on the Hilltop tonight. Pete has shown plenty of ability in the three games he has worked this season and should bother the visitors plenty with his dazzling assortment.

The Brooklanders have been idle fore more than a week, but have been put through strenuous practice sessions each of the intervening days since that last game. Coach Moran has two good pitchers ready for duty in Byrnes or Devin. If the Devildogs have a preponderance of left-hand hitters Moran undoubtedly will use Devin, and if the reverse is true then Byrnes will get the call.

WINTON INSECTS WIN.

The Winton Insects and the Samoset Insects put up a thrilling nip and tuck game yesterday but the former copped the decision, by a score of 7-to-6.

HAVRE DE GRACE, April 15.—Racing of the best kind is off to a flying start in this little city of hospitality, with an inclination to bet you a milion. Form reversals are as few here as any place in the world. Everything is on the level and all the good horses could be wished for are here.

The Kid Boots purse for fillies is the headliner today. They will be asked to go 5½ furlongs and a good field of 3-year-olds will accept the issue.

Lee Rosenberg's INGRID is selected to win without any knowledge of her present form, but judging from the races of EXTRA DRY and especially that of yesteday when she was second to Noah in the Harford, he has his charges ready, if ready there is nothing to the race. INGRID beat Teak last year then ran High Star to a head at Bowie with the powerful Timmara behind her and it does not appear that she can lose today if ready. But everything depends on condition as form charts will show.

CINEMA has the condition. On her last race at Bowie she led Timmara most of the way. She will run well today and hardly could be worse than second. FLY LEAF is placed third. This Whitney filly was good last year. It may be a mistake to leave BASQUAISE out of consideration as well as HAZE. The selections here are made on class and not on races this year.

The first race is for maiden 3-year-olds. The jockey tossed off the Bowie race on DUBRIC. He should have beaten Zeod. He is back today in a weaker field, and ought to show real form. He will have the Sagamore stable entry to beat, composed of LAFERTE and MONTFERRAT. These two are entered in some pretty important races later as if the stable had much confidence. They have never shown much. LANARK will beat them for place unless they have improved.

CAPTAIN JACK is deemed best of the 2-year-olds in the second race. His Miami form was excellent. He will have POSTHORN, of the WILSON-SALMON ENTRY to beat. POSTHORN was second to JACK HORGAN at Bowie. SOL, Tampa juvenile star, should get in the money.

EVERGLADE stands out in the third race. He beat GOLDEN BILLOWS at Bowie and can hardly miss here. GYMKHANA is a smart filly and appears best of the others. DREAM MAKER ought to get show money on three legs.

CLIQUE on his race of yesterday looks much the best in the fifth race. He may not start right back; if not, EAGER ought to win with FAENZA the contender. FAENZA wants mud.

All JACQUES has to do is to run back to Bowie form to win the sixth race. The distance suits. BILLY MANN seems next best. GRAND BEY cannot be worse than third if he stands up. JACQUES seems in a class by himself in this field.

FORNOVO showed what he can do in his last Bowie race. He is picked to win in the seventh race. All the danger comes from the light weighed ISLAND FAIRY. Second to GOV. SMITH at Bowie she should have little difficulty in saving place money. SHANGHAI is best of the others.

Several carloads are due here from the South this week, which means that stabling room will be at a premium.

M. L. Daiger, general manager of the Maryland Jockey club, was a visitor here and believes the forthcoming meeting at Pimlico will be a record breaker.

Horsemen were glad to learn that H. G. Bedwell, winner of two races yesterday, who has been dangerously ill from a relapse after pneumonia, was rapidly recovering at home in Laurel. Admiral Grayson, his physician, was optimistic over his patient.

CENTRAL NINE CLASS OF SERIES COACH KELLEY SAYS

Mt. Pleasant Team Now Favored

Uncertainty of School Games Adds to Interest.

Tech and Western Are Most Feared by Central.

By MIKE KELLEY.
Central High School Coach.

USING the showing of four members of the Interhigh Baseball league in their games with Episcopal High as a basis of comparison, it would seem that Central, in defeating the Virginians, steps out ahead of Tech, Eastern and Business who fell victims to Episcopal, in the estimation of the critics.

However, a comparison of the high school baseball nines in the above manner doesn't carry much weight when one considers that the form of any school squad varies so much from week to week that being a dopester seems to require more courage than ordinary intelligence.

Youths of high school age are prone to look like champions one day and the veriest dubs the next day, for no apparent reason other than the trifles that upset the steadiness of high school squads and cause one to think twice before singing the praises of any one team and pick it to lead the field.

THIS coming series should produce a much better brand of the national pastime than was displayed last season, yet the fact that the games in April will be played on Saturdays will curtail any great show of enthusiasm, such as the football and basketball series produced.

High school baseball of late years has fallen on barren ground and playing the games on Saturdays doesn't help matters any.

Despite the perils of picking the ultimate winner in the race opening Saturday with Central and Tech performing, the writer feels that the Central team has a fine opportunity to repeat the successes of the school's football and basketball members this year and doesn't hesitate to say as much.

This opinion is not based on any comparative scores against Episcopal, but is the result of the recent games played by the Mt. Pleasant nine, which found the team getting good pitching, backed by hitting and fielding of a satisfactory brand for any high school nine.

Being composed of veterans, mainly, the Central team should have the steadiness under fire so badly needed when crucial games are waged, and this writer believes that it will come through against the stern opposition of Tech and Western, who are met in order for the first two games.

Mt. Rainier Senior Nine Opens Sunday

AS CHAMPIONS PLAY IT

BY WILLIE MacFARLANE,
National Open Champion, 1925.

KEEPING your eye on the ball is of no little importance, because we all know that if you see the ball you have more chance to hit it.

In my estimation this is one phase of the game that has been greatly abused. I have seen a great many players think of nothing else but "eye on the ball," with the result that even after the ball was hit they would try and keep looking at the spot where the ball had been.

Le me state right here that in any full swing this is fatal. No one can follow through properly and keep looking at where the ball was. My advice has always been to keep your eye on the ball all the time, and when the ball has been hit, look after it so that the body can turn and the club take its proper course in the finish of the swing.

Kremer Checks Cards As Pirates Win, 10 to 3

St. Louis, Mo., April 14 (By A. P.).—In the second of scheduled four-game series, the Pittsburg Pirates today evened up things by defeating the St. Louis Cardinals to the tune of a 10-3 score. Yesterday, playing the series opener, the Cardinals emerged victorious by a 7-6 count.

Kremer hurled brilliantly for Steel City troupe and also was responsible for two of his team's counters. Dyer, H. Bell, Haines and Reinhard did mound duty for the St. Louisians, and despite their best efforts their opponents piled up five counters before St. Louis had a chance to retaliate. Two of St. Louis' points came in the fourth with a lone tally in the seventh.

TITLE MATCH DECISION SOON

Rickard to Announce Status of Tunney Next Monday.

NEW YORK, April 14 (By A. P.).—Indications pointed today to a climax on the much discussed heavyweight championship fight negotiations within the next few days.

Despite the persistent and apparently irrevocable opposition to the State Athletic commission, Tex Rickard was understood to be proceeding with plans for a title match in August or September, with Gene Tunney as an opponent for Jack Dempsey instead of the negro challenger, Harry Wills. The promoter, according to his matchmaker, Jess McMahon, will have a definite announcement to make next Monday.

Expiration tomorrow of the time limit for a conclusion of negotiations by Floyd Fitzsimmons, Chicago promoter, for a Dempsey-Wills match in the middle west is another factor in the situation.

PADDY MULLINS, Wills' manager, has indicated he will seek other offers if Fitzsimmons does not carry out the provisions of his agreements on scheduled time.

Chicago's position as a possible site for a title contest also looms as a result of the vote legalizing ten-round decision bouts there. Fitzsimmons and Dempsey both have been quoted as favoring Chicago for a match with Wills or Tunney. Boxing observers here have attached significance to Rickard's recent "secret mission" to the Illinois metropolis and suggested that the Madison Square garden promoter will extend his boxing interests to the middle West.

2,000 in Chicago Seek Jobs on Boxing Body

Chicago, April 14 (By A. P.).—With the reutrn of legalized boxing to Chicago after a lapse of 20 years, the next step toward opening of the sport rests with Gov. Len Small in naming three commissioners in whose hands regulation of the sport will be placed.

The impression prevailed tonight that the men already have been selected, but that their names will not be made public for at least ten days. Gov. Small has received more than 2,000 applications for membership on the commission. Conservative judges intimate that the first boxing bout probably will not be held until June. They point out that it will take that much time before the commission will be in a position to function.

1,000 ATTEND BOUTS AT CENTER

Jewish, K. of C. Teams Battle to Draw in Six Matches.

ATTENDED by 1,000 members, the Jewish community center inaugurated its monthly athletic nights with a boxing tournament between the Knights of Columbus team and one representing the community center, last night.

The tournament ended in a draw with each team winning two bouts while draw decisions were rendered by the judges in two other battles. Action did not lag in any bout.

Why You Should Investigate

Since opening our offices, we have been successful in growing REAL NATURAL HAIR on the heads of many WASHINGTON men, who are now parting their hair for the first time within the last 10 to 15 years. Some of their pictures and testimonials are now on file in our offices for the inspection of those who may be interested or in doubt of the fact that hair can be re-grown on a BALD HEAD or SPOTS where hair formerly grew.

SUCCESS ALONE BUILT OUR ORGANIZATION

Our 28 offices within the U. S. and CANADA have been made possible only by the results we have been able to produce since the outset of our career some seven years ago. We will frankly tell you after thoroughly examining your scalp, if your condition is one which will respond to treatment or if it is beyond natural aid.

HOW HAIR IS GROWN

Bear in mind first, that when hair is grown in any case it is "NATURE" that grows it. We have no MEDICINE nor do we know of any, that it's mere application will either grow hair or cure Dandruff. Second to Dandruff, the HAPHAZARD uses of "HAIR DOPES" have put more men Bald than those of any other known causes.

We begin at the source of the trouble, which lies at the ROOT of the HAIR, Awakening, Revitalizing and Stimulating NATURE into action, thereby normalizes the Scalp, and results in a growth of NEW HAIR, that usually becomes visible on the average scalp within from four to six treatments.

DANDRUFF—FALLING HAIR—ITCHING SCALP

To the insidious infection of Dandruff can be traced more cases of Baldness than that of any other Scalp Disease. DRY or OILY hair, ITCHING SCALP or abnormal HAIR FALL, are all indicative of Scalp Disorders, and if neglected will produce Baldness. A few of our treatments eliminates these disorders and restores the scalp to it's healthy condition.

FREE EXAMINATIONS AND GUARANTEE

We give you a Scientific examination free of charge, strictly private, no publicity or obligations incurred. If we accept your case for treatment, we positively GUARANTEE to promote a GROWTH of NEW HAIR on your Scalp. You have all to gain and nothing to lose, for we know that hair can be grown where NATURE can be Stimulated into action.

TRACTION BONDS RALLY; SOME RAIL LIENS BID UP

Trading Is Mostly Quiet and Featureless—Sugar Issues Are Heavy.

GOVERNMENT LIST FIRM

New York, April 14 (By the Associated Press).—A firm undertone was evident in today's bond market, but aside from a rally in local traction issues and renewed bidding for several rail liens, trading was quiet and uninteresting. A sharp reaction in stock prices had no apparent effect on dealings in bonds.

Although there has been no recent change in the New York city transit situation, the lively bidding for these securities reflected the belief that operations would be benefited by plans for the co-ordination of present systems and proposed new lines. Interborough, New York Railways, Third Avenue, and Twenty-third Street issues advanced 1 to 2⅜ points. With most of the annual railroad reports now appearing redirecting to the improvement in earnings and financial positions of the carriers in 1925, inquiries developed for many representative bonds in this group. Baltimore & Ohio 4s, Pennsylvania 4½s, Louisville & Nashville 5½s, Michigan Central 3½s, Central Pacific 4s, Chicago, Indianapolis & Louisville 6s, Delaware & Hudson 5½s, Northern Pacific 4½s, Missouri Pacific general 4s, and Union Pacific first and refunding 4s displayed outstanding strength.

Sugar Co. bonds were heavy, but declines were mainly fractional in contrast to the severe breaks in stocks of these companies. South Porto Rico 7s even scored a moderate advance in the face of a 22-point drop in the company's shares.

United States and foreign government obligations were steady and new bond issues were readily subscribed.

WALL STREET GOSSIP

New York, April 14 (By A. P.). The annual report of the Denver & Rio Grande Western railroad shows a surplus of $2,562,986 for 1925, which is an increase of $4,276,238 for the year as a deficit of $1,713,252 was reported for 1924. Operating revenues increased $617,905. Operating expenses were cut $3,797,208. Net railway operating income was $6,758,784, in increase of $3,973,701, or 142.6 per cent. Freight revenue increased 3.80 per cent.

A. E. Fitkin, president of National Public Service Corporation and of Fitkin Utilities, has sailed to confer with public utility men in London on European rights for the Pier process for the manufacture of water gas, discovered by gas makers of the Western United Corporation Properties, making possible the generation of water gas through a 100 per cent use of soft coal.

Reports to R. G. Dun & Co. show 6,081 commercial failures in the United States in the first quarter of 1926, the largest for the first quarter since 1922, and indebtedness of $108,460,339. The number compares with 5,969 for the same period last year and liabilities of $128,481,780. The indebtedness for the first three months this year is the smallest reported for a similar period since 1920, when the aggregate was less than $30,000,000.

Daily Metal Trade says Cleveland pig iron producers are bent on keeping Mahoning valley iron out of the Cleveland district, and to that end have set the base price of $20, furnace, equal to $20.50 delivered, in the local switching area. This is 26 cents a ton under the price at which valley iron at $19 base, furnace, can be delivered in Cleveland. The break in the market last week is still the major subject of discussion among iron sellers in that section, and while it is believed large buying has been discouraged by original price reduction, the volume of aggregate sales of the past week is about 20,000 tons, or about 5,000 tons above the previous week.

Thomas N. McCarter, president of the Public Service Corporation of New Jersey, has been elected a director of the United Gas Improvement Co., which owns about 30 per cent of the public service corporation common stock. Mr. McCarter fills the vacancy caused by the death of Randal Morgan.

Francis H. McAdoo and Grant Keen have been elected directors of Sloss Sheffield Steel Co. to fill vacancies. Other directors were reelected.

Business of the Republic Iron & Steel Co. in March indicated a daily average increase of nearly 10 per cent over the preceding month and prospects for April suggest a volume of business in excess of March, stokholders were told today by John A. Topping, chairman. Summarizing the situation, Mr. Topping assured the gathering earnings were satisfactory, future prospects encouraging and the company's business had not been adversely affected by stock-market conditions. Retiring directors were reelected.

The report of the Western Union Telegraph Co. for the first quarter of 1926, with March estimated, shows net income of $3,413,419, after interest on bonded debt, against $3,242,813, in the same period of 1925. Gross revenues rose to $32,557,494 from $29,057,903.

Stockholders of National Dairy Products today approved the purchase of the Breyer Ice Cream Co. Directors were reelected.

CAPITAL STOCKS GAIN IN DECISIVE TRADING

B, and $3,500,000 five-year 6 per cent notes. Public offering of the issues is expected to be made shortly.

In New York for Banquet.

CURB MARKET REVIEW.

New York, April 14 (By the Associated Press).—The main price tendency in today's curb market was again downward, although net recessions in most of the active issues were relatively small. Rallying tendencies developed in special groups during the morning and early afternoon, but the general list sagged in the last hour, when a heavy selling movement swept over the "big board." Trading was relatively light in volume, the day's sales falling below 300,000 shares.

Baking shares were again the most active, but the range of price fluctuations narrowed down considerably, despite the numerous charges and counter charges regarding recent mergers which are now being made by some of the leaders in the industry. General Baking A closed ¾ lower, at 49⅞, after having touched 52¼. Continental Baking B sagged over a point, to 13.

Oils continued to yield to selling pressure, although the recessions in the popular shares were small. Speculative cliques operating on the long side in those stocks have practically suspended operations until the general market becomes more stabilized, although the oil-trade situation shows marked improvement. Lago A touched another new low level for the year, as did Swan & Finch and several others, duplicating their minimum 1926 prices.

Glen Alden Coal showed independent strength by running up 2¾ points, to 154¾, on a few sales. American Electric and Ford Motors of Canada were among the few other issues to show net gains on the day. The other electric refrigeration and motor shares were heavy. Little speculative interest was manifested in the public utilities, most of which closed fractionally lower.

Can you judge "Used Car" Values?

If so, here is an opportunity to test your skill.

Pick out of the list below any car in which question marks take the place of the year and price. Then come into our showroom, examine the car and make a "guess" as to the price you believe we have it listed for.

The person making the nearest "guess" will be entitled to the privilege of purchasing that particular car at one-half of the amount of the listed price.

The listed price is a matter of record with representatives of the Post, Star and Times-Herald. They will act as the sole judges.

Arrangements have been made so that your "guess" will be registered with one of these representatives.

COOLIDGE IN FAVOR OF REHABILITATION WORK OF VETERANS

President Tells the Legion Committee Efficiency of Gen. Hines.

STATE DELEGATES ATTEND MEETING

Cooperation Has Done Much to Aid the Bureau of Disabled Men.

Complete sympathy for the rehabilitation work of the American Legion was expressed to its rehabilitation committee by President Coolidge yesterday. The committee, made up of two members from each State, is holding its semiannual conference in this city. It called at the executive offices to pay its respects to the commander-in-chief of the defense forces of the United States.

The members were introduced to the President by Capt. Watson B. Miller, of this city, chairman of the national committee, who said that they are anxious to have the legislative program devised at the Omaha convention, and which has been reported favorably to the House by Chairman Royal Johnson, of the veterans committee of that body, enacted into law without delay.

This program comprises Representative Johnson's bill, which generally amends the disabled veterans law carrying an appropriation of $21,000,000 for expanding the activities of the veterans bureau and containing 44 different items.

The Green bill amending the adjusted compensation law so that mothers of soldiers killed in action shall not have $60 deduction imposed and changing the proof of dependency.

The Fitzgerald bill which cares for the pay of disabled retired emergency officers at figures corresponding to that given to the officers of the regular establishment.

Gen. Frank T. Hines, chief of the veterans' bureau, told the President that he had been assisted in every possible way by the committee in his work in conducting the veterans' bureau and paid high tribute to the unselfish patriotism of the members.

President Coolidge described Gen. Hines as a most efficient official and said that he realized that much of his efficiency has been due to this very cooperation.

Two Green Snakes Late Zoo Arrivals

Two green snakes from the Philippine Islands are among the late arrivals at the Washington Zoo. As their name implies, the reptiles are almost emerald in color, except for about a foot of their tails which are a deep brown. They were given to the zoo by Dr. H. C. Kellers, who recently returned to this country from an expedition to Sumatra.

Other gifts to the zoo by Dr. Kellers included a python, which, however, died on the journey to the United States as a result of chill; two hornbills, and a number of pigeons and doves. Dr. Kellers went to Sumatra as a member of the navy solar observation expedition to the Far East.

O. H. Ernst Leaves Estate of $50,000

Oswald H. Ernst, who died March 21, left an estate valued at approximately $50,000, according to the petition for letters testamentary filed yesterday in probate court by his daughter, Helen A. Ernst. Mr. Ernst was also survived by a widow, Mrs. Elizabeth A. Ernst, and a daughter, Elizabeth L. Grinnell.

Dr. Hollan N. D. Parker, who died March 17, leaves his widow, Mrs. Susan W. H. Parker, 81, which is all he says he has, except his pension, according to the will. A set of surgical instruments is given to a nephew, Dr. Harley Parker, of Chicago, and the books of the testator are given to the H. N. D. Parker Manufacturing & Publishing Co.

Model for Memorial To Serve at Services

Although it will not be completed May 29, the Ericsson memorial in West Potomac park will be dedicated on the date officially set for the ceremony. This was decided yesterday at a conference between President Coolidge and Senator Fess, of Ohio. The plaster model will be set in place to serve for the unveiling. Maj. U. S. Grant, 3d, director of the office of public buildings and public parks, decided yesterday.

In the meantime virtually little work can be done on the carving of the granite block, because measuring instruments used on the model would destroy the model to a certain extent. The only carving that can continue in the interim is that of the legend on the base of the monument.

ICE CREAM COMPANY SUED.

Woman Asks Reestablishment of $25,000 Promissory Note.

Mrs. Alma Portner, of New York, filed suit yesterday in equity court against the Carry Ice Cream Co., Inc., and J. V. Morgan and Charles A. Carry, trustees, to reestablish a promissory note for $25,000, which she says she held against the ice cream concern.

Through Attorneys Lambert and Yeatman, the plaintiff says that the note has been lost or was accidentally thrown away and that the corporation has refused to reexecute the note. Payments of interest stopped in May, 1924, she declares.

Collins to Explore Louisiana Mounds

Henry B. Collins, jr., assistant curator of ethnology in the National museum, will leave tomorrow for the Louisiana coast to explore mounds in an area believed to contain prehistoric life of the American continent. Bones, artifacts and pottery will be collected by the ethnologist in the region extending West from New Orleans and along the camping ground of the Attacopa and Chitimacha Indians.

The former tribe represented one of the few known cannibal races of the American continent. The Chitimacha Indians possessed a much higher culture and seem to have been related to the Natchez. After examining remains of these tribes, Mr. Collins will proceed to Mississippi to continue evacuations begun last year of Choctaw mounds.

ARTICLE NOT LIBEL, SAYS BETTELHEIM

Defendant Contends in Answer That Huhn Was Complimented in Statement.

Capt. Edward S. Bettelheim, who attended the encampment of the Veterans of Foreign Wars at Tulsa, Okla., last August as a journalist, and who was afterward sued for $50,000 damages for alleged libel by Francis T. Huhn, a department commander of the veterans, who also attended the encampment, filed an unusual plea yesterday in circuit court, in which he contends that the statements complained of by Huhn are complimentary instead of libelous.

Huhn charged that Capt. Bettelheim's article stated that he had been arrested for violating the prohibition laws and thereby damaged his reputation. Capt. Bettelheim, through Attorney Leslie C. Garnett, now says that his article complimented Huhn as the latter went to the rescue of a wounded veteran in a Tulsa hotel while the veteran was being manhandled by prohibition agents.

Capt. Bettelheim also says in his plea that Huhn was taken in charge by prohibition agents after going to the rescue of the veteran and that he (Capt. Bettelheim) interceded and procured the release of Huhn and his comrades.

In issuing invitations to the public to cooperate patronesses point out that the clinical department of the hospital last year took care of more than 10,000 cases, while 25,000 persons were given dispensary care. In the out-patient department, 16,000 visits were made by the sisters, physicians and nurses.

Barrett at the army's headquarters, presented a check and asked that his contribution be recorded as coming from "a friend." Delinquency of Young Decreases in Capital

Attacking the youthful crime wave "scare" with figures indicating a reduction in the actual number of children committed to jail for grave offenses—homicide, robbery and burglary—the bureau urged sane and thoughtful consideration of the problem. Statistics were obtained by officials from fourteen American cities on juvenile delinquency. These showed that such delinquency is decreasing in Washington, New York, Boston, Buffalo, Chicago, New Orleans, Providence, Richmond and St. Louis.

42 TALESMEN LEFT TO COMPLETE JURY FOR TRIAL OF WAN

ONE MAN DISAPPROVES OF CAPITAL PUNISHMENT

Another Excused When He Says He Objects to Circumstantial Evidence.

With 42 talesmen remaining to select from, attorneys in the Wan murder trial will make a determined effort to complete the formation of a jury today.

Seventy-five men have been excused by the court, so far. Some had read about the case and had formed an opinion regarding Wan's innocence or guilt. Others were opposed to capital punishment or to circumstantial evidence in a capital case.

Questioned by Wilton J. Lambert, chief counsel for Wan, one talesman said he was opposed to circumstantial evidence in a capital case because "too many mistakes have been made."

Challenges Expected.

Twelve men were seated in the jury box when Justice Adolph Hoehling adjourned court yesterday, but some are certain to be removed on challenges by the prosecuting or defense attorneys. Their places must be filled by men among the 42 talesmen who still remain. If it is impossible to do this, a new venire will have to be brought in.

Maj. Peyton Gordon, United States attorney, and his assistant, George D. Horning, jr., thus far have used 6 of the 20 peremptory challenges to which they are entitled. Attorneys Wilton J. Lambert and Rudolph H. Yeatman, counsel for the defense, have exercised five of their allotment.

The defense and the prosecution are confident a jury will be selected today or tomorrow.
